LETTER FROM BOSTON.

MR. EDITOR,—Now that the Centennial is over and the gates locked, at least to the world at large, other things can come in legitimately for a pertinent share of notice and enjoyment. Instead of "Have you been to the Centennial?" or "Are you going?" etc., we see the tide of interest has set in entirely new channels, and people walk the streets [FOR THE WATCHMAN.] ntirely new channels, and people walk the streets with other corrugations on their brows than those of the all-absorbing Exposition at Philadelphia. Not that that was not the thing of the century a well as of the current year, but Father Time has a way of effacing old tracks and opening up new Mean of the count may, accepted of anylong of the country and the server analysis of the country and the count
