

Conference Held In Board of Trade Rooms Yesterday—To Establish Press Clipping Bureau—
Mail Order Business Deplord—Tourist Travel and Manufacturers—Banquet at Union Club in Evening.

and he was to forget St. John, but he was of the opinion that no injury would be done in insisting on the development of St. John's. The tourist trade would be a simple business for all, but it would be rather difficult for the Government to conceal the fact that they were not really interested in St. John's (McE.) if they were given the opportunity.

With reference to the tourist trade, the speaker read some suggestions made for attracting tourists. Among the suggestions were better roads, granting resident game licenses to certain residents, and the abolition of the 10-l. license to equal the license fee in Maine, encouragement of advertising of the C. I. R. and Tourist Association, and the use of natural topics, many of them products, he said, were now being editors of the province to visit Saint John. He was of the opinion that the newspaper men of New Brunswick could benefit by such a conference.

The question of the exportation of pulpwood, he said, might well be introduced for discussion. It was not a political aversion and the papers should unite in an effort to secure at least increased stumpage on wood cut for export.

Passing on from this topic he alluded to the vast mail order business done in the province by outside firms. Every newspaper in the province, he ought, should refuse advertisements and endeavor to keep the competition of the outside firms.

S. D. Scott here suggested that the people of North Carolina should be heard from as to the best manner to keep the people in the State from being deceived.

W. H. Armstrong, of St. Andrews, N. C., here said that he had been so heartily convinced "with all that I have said" that he would not be deceived.

He did not altogether favor the proposition to refuse advertisements, but had spoken in his editorials against the co-ordinating of the advertising of the business was detrimental to the province. It meant considerable loss of business to the people, and he had refused two such advertising contracts. Even if the papers were to allow such small order through would still reach the people through their own means living in the province.

SARDINE INDUSTRY.

There was also need for encouragement in the sardine industry in Charlotte County. The Maine packers are getting to be very hard on the North Carolina packers when the canning might, just as well, and profitably, be done in the State. The packers of North Carolina are being ruined by the United States competition and the regulations respecting the sardine industry. The packers are on one side, and the Maine packers on the other, the granite industry at St. George was not mentioned.

With regard to port development, he

S. Fisher next called upon J. L. Tward of Chatham, who spoke briefly. He referred to the backwardness of the country. The reason for this was the lack of roads. He said that the young men and women are going away from the province, where they can find better opportunities, and it is easier. The country people did not appreciate the joys of the country life. The spirit of boom he thought was good.

J. M. Harvey then called on J. T. Tward of Chatham. He said that the previous speakers, he said, had dealt with the conditions known to him. The question now was to improve the general conditions of the country. To make the roads good politics must be eliminated from the administration. The roads must be built and maintained under the control of an independent commission. Telephones should be built and maintained under the same conditions. There should be more manufacturing of new material and lumber in the province.

He considered the outside mail order business to be the fault of the merchants. He said that the merchants and papers which exist on the mail order

A Handsome Woman

Every woman may not be handsome, but every woman should be. The manner and effect of nature has given skin, dull eyes, blotchy complexion, who pays proper attention to her health, her complexion will be clear, her features, blood impurities and other irregularities exist, good complexion, on bright eyes and sprightly movements cannot exist. Internal diseases, however, may be cured later on the surface. Headache, chills, shivers around the eyes, allow skin, a constant itching—constipation, indigestion and digestive organs are needing help and relief. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Women Tablets give this necessary help. educational system is responsible for the young people going away. No one to learn a trade here. The speaker said that the Dominion government was discriminating against the provinces. Mr. C. B. Schofield, the next speaker, urged the nationalization of the harvesting of timber by an independent commission.

C. S. Moore of Sussex, suggested the formation of a timber clearing commission to help the provinces. He said that the provinces should not let themselves outdo successful farmers the like.

W. H. Wood of Campbellton spoke about the pulp wood export and also shed on the need of an amendment to the tariff.

H. Harvey suggested listing vacanciers in the province and have list at the Department of Labour.

Mr. McCurdy of Newcastle said there were many deserted farms in the North Shore. He suggested that there be many other ways of making a living. Manufacturing, he thought, would be the best. He suggested that the province set up a commission to go to Ontario to get Brunswick lumber to manufacture and send the material to the provinces. They should be manufactured in the province and in that the articles could be sold at a

H. A. McCREADY, of Rockville spoke at the Westmorland county, he said, a great quantity of agricultural machinery was being tried growing there, and those who made such use of it were not to be considered as improvident. But the farmers were very little interested in fruit growing, and the county was of a rural character. Strawberry growing had been very successful in that part of the county, and he had expressed the opinion that if he were appointed by the government to look after the fruit industry, he should try to the advantage of the province. He said that the newspapers it would be a great advantage to New Brunswick.

On the subject of the closing the fishing season, he stated that he favored the establishment of a press on the coast, and that he would be assisted by Mr. McCready. He would also be assisted by the Board of Agriculture, and he would make an effort to have the bureau sustained. The idea is to have a Saint John press, and to have a number of reliable cuts made and sent to newspapers to advertise the province.

The New Brunswick press conference included its meetings with a dinner at the Union Club last evening, the newspaper men and the council of the board of Trade being the guests of President Estabrooke, to whose initiative and public spirit the conference is due. The function was unusually pleasant and instructive. The dinner served in the club's best style, the tables being beautifully decorated and the menu as follows:

Oysters on the shell.
Purce Stomach
Pick chicken livers.
Sauce Hollandaise.
Butter, a la Newburg.
Tolent, Poncien.
Said young duck, dressed, apple sauce.

Romaine salad.
Potatoes, Califlower, Spinach.

W. L. Stewart of Chatham, responding, referred to his former residence in the city and gave an interesting sketch of the condition of the city press and the paper work here and the extensive development since. This development, he said, had been even more rapid than that of any other city. John papers being the equal of any published in cities of similar size any where. The city of New York, New Brunswick also compared favorably with those of other and more prosperous provinces. In closing Mr. Stewart said that he would accept of a cordial invitation to the meeting of the Maritime Board at Chatham during the coming week and that he would attend a thoroughly good time. Mr. Anslow of Campbellton told of his visit to the city and of the recent development of his town, which did more than double its population during the last few years. The population of the city was about 1000. He was making construction in Campbellton and was prospecting for the coming year for the purpose of increasing the city. Excellent results would follow the city's conference.

MR. McMurdo of Newcastle said that he who were present would realize that the ship was being built for the benefit of the spirit to help along the uplifting of the province. Affairs in his town were improving. A new chair factory was about to be established and other industries were being started. He had offered to the prosing need for housing in Newcastle harbor and the Government was helping him in the accomplishment of this work.

A toast to the newspaper men of the province was given by the Secretary, followed by Mr. W. S. Fisher and enthusiastically responded to by Mr. McCrebney. The speaker then made a most comprehensive speech urging the importance of united action for agricultural and industrial development, the financial government credit for the betterment in this regard. Speaking of the importance of the Maritime Board of Trade meeting, Mr. Fisher thought the St. John Board was doing a splendid job of work for the Maritime prosperity for Maritime prosperity. He referred to the recent iron ore operation and the importance of the development of the vast mineral development.

W. E. Foster in proposing the transfer men to the Maritime and Supra-marine, emphasized the importance of any development and urged united action of the provinces. He deplored absence of evidence of the practical feeling in the Maritime provinces and urged co-operative action for the common good.

The toast protracted strong speeches from Mr. Hawke of N. B. and Mr. McKenna of N. S. Mr. Hawke in address marked by strong and important points, stressed the importance of the wealth of the provinces, particularly the gas, oil, and deposits of coal, and urged the development of the exploitation of which, he thought would have incalculable influence on the future of the Maritime.

Newswick, he said, is on the threshold of a great advance in the development of its capital and confidence.

Mr. McKenna, from whose suggestion to Mr. Easbrouck, the speaker of the toast, marked gratification at the cooperation of the gathering. If the speaker men is attending the tool-people, he said, the spirit of the meetings and

On the result. He strongly urged the faith and more work for the province.

Schofield, Mr. Armstrong of St. Andrews, formerly a newspaper man in this city, responded with a speech soundly optimistic of the future of Charlotte county. He was seconded by G. H. Young of St. George. Mr. Cross, the vice-president of the board of trade, proposed the St. John newspaper men, Mr. Melding and Mr. G. Ellis responding briefly. The St. John board of trade was then proposed by J. L. Stewart and Mr. Macbrooks' appropriate response closed the considerable program.

THE CATSUP,
$5 AND A GOAT
dizing Stranger "Puts One Over"
on Mr. Kalish, Who Caters in Brooklyn.

YORK, March 13—His effort to eat just how much catnip a restaurant patron can get away with was a direct cause of taking Maura's restaurant, at No. 86, 14th St., off the menu of the Manhattan District Court yesterday. He admitted eating the herb, which the illegal ruling on the catnip. Altogether likely his stomach will be served through the medium of medicine.

He is undoubtedly can be blamed for the confusion in catsup consumers this experience. He was sitting at a table when a handsome stranger came in and after commencing with him, he ordered several meals, including a tenderloin steak. The stranger was particularly as to how it was prepared. He asked the waiter to bring him a report of the Public Sanitation Commission.

When told Mr. Kaleb, talking on the phone for the kitchen and he the course of the evening he had been eating a two story and tenderloin steak. He placed it in front of him and stood back to give him his applause.

"I'm good, so far," said the latter, "but I don't like the catsup."

Kaleb removed the turban from his head and said:

to take to his customer. The latter, the bottle on its head and held that position until the last drop percolated into the nozzle and the bottle was swinging over the edge of the bar in a river of ruby red.

"I can't spare the catsup," said Mr. Kallish with a tinge of sarcasm.

"I'll take what you want for the present," he stranger. "If I desire any more you know."

"I'll let you know a digit now, and I'll give you a bottle of catfish every week," asserted Mr. Kallish.

At which point the argument grew more than the heat. The stranger, who was a proprietor, was obliged to supply as much catsup as the required without extra charge, and upon Mr. Kallish observed that he was one person who did not resign to that view. The upshot of argument was that Mr. Kallish offered the stranger $3 that he would not enter any other restaurant, as the stranger covered the bet, and the

It is to be one name before the members and that Hon. Justice Sifton, who has been asked to take the case to expect that he would relinquish important position to smooth out the situation and to prevent the disruption of one of the strongest organizations which ever faced a legislature.
