

A GOOD PRESCRIPTION

To relieve a cough or break up a cold in twenty-four hours, the following simple formula, the ingredients of which can be obtained at any good prescription druggist at small cost, is that which will be required: Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), one-half ounce; Glycerine, two ounces; good Whisky, a half ounce; shake well and take in small doses every four hours. The desired results cannot be obtained unless the ingredients are pure. It is therefore best to purchase each separately and prepare the mixture yourself. Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) should be purchased in the original half-ounce vial, which druggists buy for dispensing. Each vial is securely sealed in a brand wood case, which protects the oil from exposure to light. Around the wood case is an emerald green wrapper with the name—Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), guaranteed under the Food and Drug Act of June 20th, 1906, serial number 62, prepared only by Leach Chemical Co., Windsor, Ontario, plainly printed thereon. There are many imitations and cheap productions of pine, but these only create nausea, and never effect the desired results.

TERRIBLE ORDEAL AWAITS EVELYN NESBIT THAW

an occurrence in the life of that girl with reference to Stanford White.

Wouldn't Accept Refusal.

"Harry Thaw did not accept the refusal of this girl as final. He persisted in his insistence that she should marry him, until finally, with the full consent of the mother and the family, he was married to the girl on April 4, 1905.

White's Glare Aroused Him.

"With reference to the killing of Stanford White, the tables in the Madison Square Roof Garden upon this occasion were placed pretty near together, that is to say, there were a number of tables and there was no open way or space sideways between them, and we show you that the defendant walked out of the place, had beyond this table, and looking around he saw White glaring at him, and under this intense glare he will describe to you in the evidence and which our positions will be examined about and explained to you, he acted upon the delusion that it was an act of Providence which his mind had been brought, that it was an act of Providence for him to kill Stanford White.

Thaw 'Agent of Providence.'

"New York, Feb. 4.—The state laid its case against Harry K. Thaw today—a bald, unemotional story of the shooting on the Madison Square Roof Garden, leaving the malice and the revulsion to be inferred from the act—was read and the defense replied with a plea of hereditary insanity.

Will Prove Insanity by a Family.

"You will hear the story of this man's insanity," Attorney John B. Gleason for the defense promised the jury, "from his mother, from his wife, from his relatives and from his physicians. You will judge him by his acts, by the hereditary and stress which entered into his madness, and when you come to judge him you will say to yourself that his act may have been one of insanity but it was not one of crime."

Thaw Agitated.

During the opening address by Mr. Gleason, in which he entered the defense of insanity, Thaw sat with his hands clasped, which at times were buried in his hands, and with eyes cast down upon the table before him. He seldom looked up, just a fleeting glance now and then at the man who was making the initial plea for his life and freedom. Never once did his eyes go to the jury box where twelve men, with grave faces, listened intently to every word of Mr. Gleason's somewhat lengthy address. There was another period—during the morning session—when Thaw again looked only at his hands, clasped before him on the table. This was when Lawrence White, the 19 year old son of Stanford White, occupied the stand as the first witness for the prosecution.

LIGHTING COMPLETED

City Council Chamber Ready—Police and Fire Stations Now. Six lamps are attached to each of the gasoliers in the center and around a table lamp has been provided for the use of the common clerk. Plans have been prepared for the city by H. H. Mott and it is expected that tenders will be called for the first of next week.
