FRANK COUTANT GONE TO STATES

Tendered Farewell Banquet By Veiled Prophets at Royal George

A familiar face is missing from the streets of Edmonton. F. R. Coutant left for Philadelphia on Thursday, May 22. Few men are as widely known in the city and "Frank," as he is called by hundreds, has warm friends in every class in the community. His capacity for public service seemed unlimited and his grasp of economic and financial problems made his addresses and writings carry the weight of sure knowledge. With the advantage of intimate knowledge of all the details of civic administration, he was a valued counsellor on important citizens' committees, and a recital of the many improvements in municipal operation that have been adopted on his recommendation would fill several columns.

Like many another Edmonton citizen, Mr. Coutant was attracted here by the prospect of growing up with a capital city. From an executive position in the Standard Oil Co., in 1910 he came here as real estate manager of the Alberta Agencies Ltd., leaving the Agencies two years later to open his own offices. In the days of the really activities Mr. Coutant foresaw and deprecated the inevitable result of the uncontrolled financial adventures of the city and his active work as a leading member of the Property Owners' Association caused the aldermen to dub him the Press Agent of the land owners. Through many a bitter public battle Mr. Coutant fought for more economical and business-like methods. Civic heads fell where he pointed and savings of enormous sums rewarded his efforts, for he was usually successful on the platform, or in the columns of the press.

 Every mayor and civic official has recognized his skill as an analytical accountant and financial writer, but few knew that he was a university graduate in commercial science, for "Frank," out of action, is a good natured, quiet and extremely unassuming man, at home, and welcomed among rich men or poor men as good company. The editor of "Bonds and Mortgages" Chicago, once described him as "the best informed financial writer in the Canadian Northwest."
 When real estate became depressed, Mr. Coutant wasted no time in regrets over the losses he suffered, but went to work as cashier with Revillon Wholesale Ltd. Successively he became assistant credit manager, sales manager and advertising manager; the latter position he held at the time of leaving Edmonton. His editorials in the Revillon publications have caused much favorable comment among merchants, for Mr. Coutant writes thoughtfully as well as forcefully.
 During the recent flu epidemic, when the plague threatened to get beyond control, the Grand Master of Masons called upon Mr. Coutant to organize relief work on a large scale, and within three days 250 men had volunteered to follow where he might lead. The work of this relief organization covered everything from mental labor to practical nursing, and thousands of sufferers were made comfortable.
 Mr. Coutant is one of the founders of Dekan Grotto, of Veiled Prophets, now one of the strongest associations of the city, also of Patricia Lodge, A.F. and A.M., and is also a member of the Order of the Eastern Star, Dominion Labor Party, Edmonton Country Club, Edmonton-Board of Trade, President of the

ANTI-STRIKE LAW IS MUCH OPPOSED

Gompers Says Law Can Be Passed But It Would Be Violated

Opposition to any form of compulsory arbitration legislation was voiced by President Gompers before the Senate Committee on Education and Labor which has under consideration a resolution by Senator Kenyon providing for an investigation of industrial and social conditions.
 The trade union executive said that any attempt by law to prevent men from quitting their employment would be futile.
 "Of course," said President Gompers, "Congress can pass a law of this character but it will be violated."
 "Hide it behind any phraseology you will," said President Gompers, "when the law and the government of the country tell the workers 'you cannot leave this work,' that moment you have put the shackles on him."
 "I should not say seriously," he added, "but Congress does thank the Department of Labor suspiciously." Senator Kenyon interrupted to admit that it has been extremely difficult the past year to secure appropriations from Congress for the Department of Labor.
