Clair Adams and Robert McKim are the stars in a superbly staged romance, in which the heir to a millionaire Montana miner, along with his mother and sister and an aged uncle, also a one-time miner, invade New York. How they startle even the blase residents of Gotham by the extravagance of their spending, and how the wolves of Wall street get after the young would-be Napoleon of finance, whose fortune is saved to him by the astuteness of his incle and the loving sacrifice of his flarcee is portrayed.

"William S. Hart." In his favorite role of a western character, this red-blooded actor starred in the "Stumbling Block." a story of primitive life lived in the mountain fastnesses of the far western country. Mr. Hart has never appeared to better advantage than in this picture, for he is given an unusually wide scope for his peculiar style of acting. There is much action in the picture, but not so much gunplay as usual. The scenery of the picture is unusually fine, for the story is unwound amid mountains, in valleys and great forests. The plot, while not much out of the ordinary, is cleverly worked out.

Three good wholesome acts, giving much variety, comprise the vaudeville will a valuer worm a pnearing under the control of the ordinary and any appearing under the control of the wolves of the far western country. Members Call It a Day and Leave Matter a Deadlock-Mr. Graydon Protests.

Eccause of the contention of Aid.

Cameron Wilson that only a basis of agreement, and not an actual agreement, has been reached in the gas situation, the "service-at-cost", proposal will be brought before the Legislature without the concurrence with its provisions of all the members of the council. Members of the special council committee on reas and representatives council. Members of the special council committee on gas and representatives of the City Gas Company argued over the point three hours last night without reaching a definite conclusion.

Ald. Cameron Wilson contended that the special committee and the council Monday had only agreed to a plan similar to that under which the Consumers' Gas Company operate in Toronto. There was no actual agreement as to what the capitalization of the company was admitted to be; what percentage of dividends was to be allowed, or what maximum price of gas, was to be permitted.

A commedy called "Roaring Llons," and a News Weekly completed a program which will be repeated today and tomorrow.

Overlapping of Delivery Routes Pointed As Wasteful Arrangement.

Milk producers and milk distributors packed the county buildings last night and discussed the problem of the cost of milk in a manner that promised little rellef for the ultimate consumer may be derived as a result a simplified and business like system for the distribution of milk which will save money for producer, distributor and consumer may be derived that Ald F. R. Walkinson, who had announced his intention to be present to advocate a municipal milk depot as a means of reducing the cost to the consumer, was not present.

President J. C. Nichols of the Middle-sex Milk Producer's Association, acted as chairman, and the following took at leading part in the discussion which, while quite good humored, was at times quite warm: John Leidia, w. W. E. Grieve, R. Brown, W. McGuffin of Thorndale, J. D. Rose, manager of the London Pure Milk Company, and Wm. Graydon expressed distribution of milk and producers claimed that the greater of the services of the company, whose franchise was a means of reducing the cost to the consumer, was not present.

Will Slash Estimates This Afternoon.

Government review of the business had shown that in order to make a profit on the transaction he should receive $2.80 per cwt. In addition to this the producers claimed that it costs them 26 cents per cwt. to deliver the milk in the city, so that the price they receive should be $3 per cwt.

The distributors claimed that they could not afford at the price they receive for the milk to ray more than the $2.40 per cwt. In regard to the seasonal reductions in the price pald to the producers, they claimed that if the farmers would assure them of the delivery of the same quantity of milk in January as in September the fluctuation of price would not take place.

Unbusinesslike Methods.

William Rogue declared that the milk business was carried on in the most unbusinesslike way of any business in the city or country. He advocated the abolition of the present overlapping of deliveries, where anywhere from two to a dozen different distributors go over the same route one, two or three times a day. Referring to the co-operative milk distribution in Indianapolis, Ind., where the producers distribute their own milk, Mr. Bogue claimed that such a system here would be to the decided benefit of both the producer and the consumer. With a desire to meet the efforts of the city council to keep the city's tax ate for 1921 down to about 35 or 36 nills, the public utilities commission milis, the public utilities commission will meet at 5 o'clock this afternoon to revise, if possible, the parks department estimates so that they may conform to the half-mill rate as near as possible. The amount that it will be necessary to cut off to do this will be about $8,000. The reduction of the estimates will also mean that the proposed new bandstand
