

Distractions

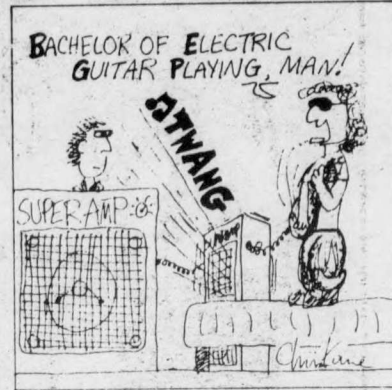

Find a way out from each star so that the two paths never pass through the same room.

BY CHRIS KANE

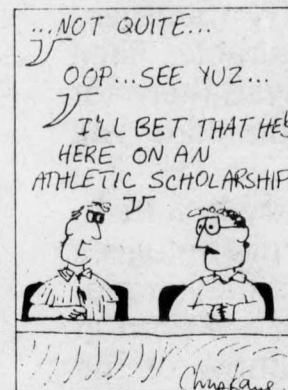

Two brothers live in this vast palace, and although they get along fine most of the time, they always quarrel when they meet in the morning before going to work. (Yes, a palace that size is very expensive to run.) They have decided, therefore, to leave the palace each by a different route so that, whatever time they get up, they won't meet.
