

Was So Nervous Could Not Stay In The House Alone

Mrs. Arthur Moore, Freeport, N.S., writes:—"I would recommend Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills to anyone who is weak, run down and their nerves all unstrung. I was troubled with nervousness of the very worst kind, and when I started in to take your pills, I was so bad I could not stay in the house alone, nor could I sleep nights. Since taking the pills I am entirely cured and can recommend them to anyone who is nervous and run down."

To any of those suffering in any way from any derangement of the heart or nerves, we can recommend our MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS with the greatest confidence.

They have been tried and proved, for the last twenty years, to be exactly what we claim for them.

A farmer returning home late at night found a man standing beside the house with a lighted lantern in his hand. "What are you doing here?" he asked, savagely, suspecting he had caught a criminal. For answer came a chuckle, and—"It's only mee, zur."

The farmer recognized John, his shepherd. "It's you, John, is it? What on earth are you doing here this time o' night?"

Another chuckle. "I'm a-coortin' Ann, zur."

"And so you've come courting with a lantern, you fool. Why, I never took a lantern when I courted your mistress."

"No, zur, you didn't, zur," John chuckled. "We can all see you didn't, zur."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Miscellaneous.

SOUR CLOVER.

I am sending by this mail a plant which I found in my clover field. P. G.

Ans.—The weed sent is an oxalis—Oxalis corniculata—sometimes known by the name "sour clover." It associates with clover, and is chiefly harmful when that plant is cut for seed. It is characterized by its spreading habit, yellow flowers, three leaflets at the end of each petiole similar to clover, and the acid taste of its herbage. Apart from the fact that, like any other weed, it draws on the soil's store of nourishment, it seldom becomes a nuisance except in the clover-seed crop. J. D.

FILLY GIVES MILK.

I have a filly three months and a half old. When it was two weeks old, its mammary glands developed and ran milk. The udder has diminished a little, but still when it lies down it sometimes runs milk. The filly is doing well. Is this a damage to the animal? If so, what steps should I take to stop it? If not a damage, what causes it to do so? A. M. H.

Ans.—This is a remarkable case. Activity in the mammary glands at this age is extraordinary. It is likely that it will gradually disappear, and as the colt is doing well, it would be better to allow nature to take its course. If any bad effect begins to make itself apparent, call your veterinarian.

SHARE FARMING.

Last spring I took my brother-in-law's farm (which is next to mine) to work on shares. Of the hay and grain he was to get half. There are three cows. For some reason I did not say anything about their share of the cows; there are three calves; the last one came in August. We have them yet.

1. What share should they get?
2. What share of the butter?

The cows are just ordinary producers. J. F. B.

Ans.—1 and 2. This is a question you can settle best, between yourselves. One calf and one-third of the butter should be a fair share for the owner of the place, or he might take all the calves and you keep all the butter. Of course, the owner will retain possession of all the cows.

PIGS COUGHING—FEED FOR CALVES.

1. Have a number of shoats and young pigs that are troubled with a dry cough. They feed well and are looking well, but don't grow as fast as they should. Might this be caused by worms, and what is best to do for them?
2. Which would be best to feed calves for show purposes, oil cake, molasses meal, or feeding molasses?

J. W. G.

Ans.—1. Coughing in pigs may be caused by small worms (strongylus elongatus) in the lungs. They live in the air passages, and may occur singly or together. When numerous, they set up a great disturbance, often resulting in the death of the pig. The first symptom of the disease is a cough, which soon becomes distressing, suffocation or inflammation often resulting. The disease is difficult to diagnose, as there are several hog ailments of which coughing is a symptom. It sometimes is possible to find worms coughed up and ejected from the animal's nostril. This is the only absolutely sure symptom. Treatment is difficult. Small quantities of turpentine injected into the nostrils may reach the worms. Inhaling fumes of carbolic acid has been recommended. Turpentine given in teaspoonful doses three times daily, will sometimes be of use, as the turpentine is partly thrown off by the lungs.

2. The oil cake is the strongest feed of the three, and if fed in proper quantity would be likely to give the best results. A little molasses might be added.

There are some persons so averse to trying a new and plainly better way of doing things that they resemble the man who saw a barrel for the first time. He looked it over carefully for a while, and then turned away with a positive shake of the head saying: "That ain't no such beast."
