HERALDGRAMS

London, Sept. 3.—A despatch to the Evening News from Copenhagen says: "Great numbers of wounded are arriving in Berlin daily. The trains are not unloaded until dark in order to avoid undue curiosity on the part of the people. The wounded are coming mostly from east Prussia."

Vienna, Sept. 3.—Princess Louise of Belgium has been ordered to leave Vienna within twenty-four hours.

Paris, Sept. 3.—The government will issue a proclamation tomorrow transferring the Bank of France from Paris to Bordeaux.

Paris, Sept. 3.—An immense and complicated system of entrenchments is being constructed outside the city. It is reported that the engineers in charge of the work are keeping several hundred thousand men busy.

Paris, Sept. 3.—Beginning tonight, no person may leave or enter Paris between 8 o'clock in the evening and 5 o'clock in the morning without a military pass. Automobiles may enter freely during the day but cannot leave without permits.

PROBABLY CAPTURED

London, Sept. 3.—The following message has been received from Brisbane, Queensland, Australia.

"Room's passengers arrived and give thrilling account of their experiences."

It is assumed that a censor has held up an early message regarding the room. The North German steamer Roon sailed from Antwerp on July 5th for Sydney and was last reported to have arrived at Colombo July 30. The fact that her passengers have reached a British port suggests that the German steamer may have been seized by a British warship.

Minards Liniment Company, Ltd.

Dear Sirs,—While in the country last summer I was badly bitten by mosquitoes, so badly that I thought I would be disgraced for a couple of weeks. I was advised to try your Liniment to allay the irritation, and did so. The effect was more than I expected, a few applications completely curing the irritation and preventing the bites from becoming sore. Minards Liniment is always a good article to keep of the mosquitoes.

Yours truly,

CANADA'S CHANGE

TS EXTEND TRADE

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 3.—Hon. Geo. Fester, who was today the chief guest at the Toronto exhibition luncheon, delivered a forcible speech in which he suggested that instead of closing factories and laying off men, the manufacturers and industrial owners of Toronto should seize the opportunity to extend their fields which the war offered.

Canadians have, he said, already competed successfully with Germany, and it is now both their opportunity and duty to go out to the German markets and wrest trade from them. Mr. Fester also predicted better times for the farmer who now would get more for his products.

RIVER OISE CHOKED

WITH GERMAN DEAD.

been crushed and broken. Our gunners were magnificent and shelled the advancing German columns so that the dead lay heaped up along the way which was leading down to Paris; but, as one of them told me, "it made no difference, as soon as we had smashed one, another followed, column after column and by sheer weight of numbers we could do nothing to check them."

After this the British forces fell back, fighting all the time. The line of the Allies was now in the shape of a V, the Germans thrusting their main attack deep into the angle. This position remained the same until Monday, or rather had completed itself by that date, the retirement of the troops being maintained with mastery "skill and without" undue haste. Meanwhile General Pau was sustaining a terrific attack on the French centre by the German left centre, which culminated on (date omitted).

The river Oise, which runs between beautiful meadows was choked with dead and was red with blood. From an eye witness of the great battle, an officer of an infantry regiment who escaped with a slight wound. I learned that the German onslaught had been repelled by a series of brilliant bayonet and cavalry charges.

Hundreds of them were bayoneted and hundreds were hurled into the river. The whole field of battle was outlined by dead and dying men whom they had to abandon. Certainly their losses were enormous and I felt that the German retreat was in full swing and the Allies could claim a real victory for the time being.

The Germans had the elite of their army engaged against us in their tenth army corps and the Imperial guard but our troops were sublime. Every man knew that the safety of France depended on him and was ready to sacrifice his life if need be with joyful enthusiasm.

They not only resisted the German attack but took the offensive and in spite of their overpowering numbers gave them tremendous punishment. They had to recoil before our guns. Nevertheless the inevitable happened.

Minard's Liniment Cures Diphtheria.

ed owing to the vast resources of the enemy which brought up four divisions and General Pau was compelled to give ground. On Tuesday German skirmishers with light artillery were coming southward and the sound of their field guns grated my ears in that town, which I shall always remember with unpleasant recollections.

I managed to get to Paris. It was in the middle of the night but extraordinary scenes were taking place. It had become known during the day that Paris was no longer the seat of the government, which had moved to Bordeaux.

The people had notice of four days in which to destroy their houses with in the zone of fortifications and to add to the cold fear occasioned by this news, aeroplanes had dropped bombs upon the Gar Du L'Eit that afternoon. There was a rush last night to get away from the capital and the railway stations were great camps of refugees in which the rich and poor citizens were mingled with their women and children.

But the tragedy increased when it was heard that most of the lines to the coast had been cut and that the only line remaining open to Dieppe would probably be destroyed in the next few hours. A great wail of grief arose from the crowds and the misery of these poor people was pitiable. Among them were groups of soldiers of many regiments. Many of them were wounded and lay on stretchers on the floor among crying babies and weary-eyed women. They had been beaten and were done for until the end of the war, but alone among the panic stricken crowd—panic stricken, yet not nervous or hysterical, but very quiet and restrained for the most part—the soldiers were cheerful and even gay. Among them were some British troops and I had a talk with them. They had been fighting for ten days without rest and their story is typical of the way in which all our troops held themselves.

THERE is one thing more deadly than shot and shell on the battlefield. It is hunger.

Bread is the foundation for the soldiers' rations.

Bread that makes bone and muscle and girds the strong right arm for the bayonet charge—bread that feeds and nourishes the entire body and permits of unerring aim to decimate the enemy's ranks. But any bread won't do. It must be made from the ripest, plump wheat. It must be cleansed of all impurities. A perfect flour for Tommy Atkins is
