OUTRAGES IN IRELAND.

Moonlighters Terrorize a County Clare Magistrate's Family.

FARNELLITES ON A WRECKING TOUR.

A Dublin cable says: Another outrage by Moonlighters is reported from Tuilish, a small town in County Clare. On Saturday night a band of Moonlighters, who had a grudge against a man employed as a servant by the family of the late Judge Browne, visited the residence of the Browns, who is situated a short distance from the town.

One of the band, who was in disguise, entered the house and demanded to know the whereabouts of the manservant. The man was absent, and the only occupants of the house were the daughters of the deceased magistrate. They informed the Moonlighter that the man was not in the house. This information seemed to enrage the Moonlighter, who drew a revolver and fired upon one of the girls. Fortunately his aim was bad and the bullet went wide of its mark. He then amused himself by firing at random about the room until his weapon was empty, when the Moonlighters withdrew without making any further trouble.

The Misses Browne notified the authorities of the affair, but as yet no arrests have been made.

A party of Farnellites, who were celebrating the New Year's eve night, became imbued with alcohol and proceeded mostly after they had filled themselves with Irish whiskey, and determined to wreak vengeance on their political enemies, and Anti-Farnellites. They marched in a body to the rooms occupied by the Workmen's Club, and made an attack with stones upon the building, smashing all the windows and doing other damage. The mob gained fresh accessions while this attack was going on, and when a proposal was made to attack Temperance Hall, it was received with shouts of approval. In a short time the latter building was in as bad a state of wreck as the Workmen's Club. The police were absent, and the fact that no opposition was offered to their rowdism encouraged the mob, who attacked the residences of the town commissioners, who are supporters of Mr. Timothy Healy, and the houses of other men who have been active opponents of the Farnellites. Considerable damage was done. Towards morning the mob dispersed. To-day a number of the rioters were arrested.

BOOTH SNUBS THEM.

The Salvation Army General Resents Lord Oatlaw's Interference.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—General Booth, of the Salvation Army, has refused to accept Lord Oatlaw's committee, who recently finished an inquiry into his "Darkest England" accounts, as permanent trustees of his fund. The refusal was accompanied by a suggestion that he did not feel the need of more masters outside the ranks of the army. As General Booth is appealing to the public constantly for enormous contributions to his fund, the general opinion is that, even if he desires that the donors should be completely excluded from direct connection with the enterprise, he might express his mind a little less brusquely.

SHOT HIS BROTHER.

A Fratricidal Struggle Over the Question of Annexation.

SAGINAW, Mich., Jan. 2.—The last hour of the dying year in one of Saginaw's homes witnessed a terrible fratricidal struggle, the outcome of which was murder. Fred Footie came to Saginaw with his family nine months ago from Toronto, Ont., and started a small grocery, the sleeping apartments being upstairs and the kitchen in the rear of the building. George Footie has resided with the family some months, and latterly the brothers have had warm discussions on the question of annexation.

On Saturday night the arguments waxed warm and furious, George being a strong anti-annexationist while his brother held opposite views. The family had retired, leaving the disputants in the kitchen to continue their wrangle, when suddenly the report of a revolver was heard, followed by a groan of intense agony. Mrs. Footie rushed down stairs and was horrified at the sight of her husband lying unconscious on the floor covered with blood, while George stood beside him with a revolver in his hand. Physicians found the ball had pierced the body near the fifth rib, glanced upward, passing near the heart and lodging in the shoulder blade. He died at 10:30 last night. George is behind bars. His claims he shot in self-defence, as his brother attacked him first. He shows as evidence of this a bruised eye. He says the struggle was a savage one, and that his brother upon seeing the danger of the family, had a telegram sent to her father. The last name of her lover is not known. He signed the letters "Herman."

SHE TOOK ARSENIC.

A Girl Who Preferred Death to Life Without Her "Herman."

CINCINNATI, Jan. 2.—Fannie Buchert, daughter of aristocratic parents in Krakins, Austria, committed suicide on Friday morning. The girl loved a young and handsome man much below her social position. Her father sent her to her uncle, Julius Waldner, proprietor of a button factory, who lives at 307 Richmond street, this city. Her first act was to write to her lover, and since then they have kept up a correspondence. Lately she became very despondent. Often her aunt would catch her crying. When asked what was the matter she would cry out "Herman." In the night she would wake up and cry "Herman." Fannie retired on Thursday night in a spotless night robe prepared for the end. Beside her couch on a table was a wine glass containing arsenic. She was only 17 years of age, and a blonde of striking beauty. The coroner was notified, and a telegram sent to her father. The last name of her lover is not known. He signed the letters "Herman."
