"The Advance House of The North Shore"

EMPRESS THEATRE ON MONDAY

Black Beauty, the most famous horse in the world's literature, has a number of interesting human acquaintances. The wonderful horse, whose autobiography as recorded by Anna Sewell has run through countless editions and been read by millions in the past forty years, knew many things about these humans, and related them, but could not know or relate the intense drama going on indoors.

In preparing the motion picture version of "Black Beauty," Mr. and Mrs. George Randolph Chester have added the human story, to supplement the "Story of Black Beauty." The "Indoor Story," however has been kept entirely separate from the "Outdoor Story," which Anna Sewell had Black Beauty tell.

The film version has been completed at last, in spite of almost insuperable difficulties, as a Vitagraph special production, and will be shown at the Empress theatre on Monday with Jean Paige in the leading human role.

Contrary to the general supposition, the work of visualizing the story of "Black Beauty" was more a matter of awaiting and seizing opportunity than it was of training horses. In the action of horses described by Anna Sewell there are things which no horses do not do at some time under certain circumstances, naturally and spontaneously. It was the author's ability to observe with alert and sympathetic intelligence the conduct of horses under all circumstances, and present her observations in a brilliant literary style, that made her book one of the world's masterpieces for all time. After forty years it still ranks among the world's ten most popular books.

The visualization of "Black Beauty" was no small undertaking, but the splendid result has justified all the thought, energy and money expended in its accomplishment.

The entire enterprise, from the preparation of the film version to the final editing of the production, has been conducted with reverent regard for the sacredness of Anna Sewell's immortal work.

They have always given the greatest satisfaction and I can gladly recommend them to all mothers of little ones." STEVEDORE CHARGES
The mill-owners on the Miramichi have received advice from the Lumber Brokers that if they wish to have vessels come here this season to load lumber that the stevedore charges will have to be reduced to pre-war rates. If shipping is to be encouraged and this port particularly, wishes to receive its fair share of that shipping, in order to get rid of the vast amount of lumber now piled on the wharves, it will be necessary for the shippers and labor to get together and arrive at a fair rate of charges, so that there will be no hang-ups when the vessels do come, which in turn will make it easier to charter vessels for the Miramichi. This is a most important matter and is worthy of the consideration of all interested in lumber, so that during the coming season, business will be made brisk on the North Shore.

BILLS AGREED TO
The Municipalities committee of the Provincial legislature last Wednesday morning agreed to bills to amend the municipalities Act in respect to the Town of Newcastle and to amend the act authorizing the municipality of Northumberland to effect temporary loans.
Mr. Morrissey said he had received a letter from County Secretary Teed relative to the bill to authorize the municipality of Northumberland to effect temporary loans, stating it was desired that the amount be increased from $12,000 as stated in the bill to $20,000. The municipality had found that $12,000 was owing from the town of Chatham, which could not be collected at present, and that some par-
