Get the Most Out of Your Food

You don't find out how much a weak stomach does not get out of it until you have tried it. It is not until you have tried it that you know how much it is worth.

Among the signs of a weak stomach are: indigestion, flatulence, and disagreeable belching. You will be very glad later on when the years have brought you a wholesome, refined view of life.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Strengthens and tones the stomach and the whole digestive system. You will be very glad later on when the years have brought you a wholesome, refined view of life.

Not long ago Aunt Bride heard a young man at a working girl's club, and she thought that the only way many girls could meet young men was on the street corners.

Risen from the Rank.

Col. Sir John Harrington, who is now in this country, and who was entertained last week by the president at Oyster Bay, is the only envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary in the service of the British crown who has risen to that office from the lowest ranks in the army.

At the age of 24, after successively holding the grade of corporal and sergeant, he received a commission as a second lieutenant, and fifteen months later was transferred to that picked body, the Indian staff corps.

Before long he volunteered for service as vice consul at Zillah, a pestilential place which serves as one of the depots of Abyssinia, the post in question being avoided, as much as the service of those who are ruled by higher principles.

Dr. McLaughlin, in a paper read the other day before a Catholic Total Abstinence Convention in Chicago, said he had long been convinced that bad cooking was a chief cause of drunkenness.

Literary Note.

Monks John Vaughan's fine paper on the danger of indiscriminate reading, in the Ave Maria for July 27, abounds in quotable passages, of which the following is all we can lay before our readers this week:

"The misfortune is that there is so much to attract us in what is evil. The mere knowledge that a fruit is forbidden is almost enough, of itself, to excite an immediate desire to taste it. The secret, drawn is always the one we are most anxious to pull open; and the hidden treasure the treasure we deem best worth finding."

"The misfortune is that there is so much to attract us in what is evil. The mere knowledge that a fruit is forbidden is almost enough, of itself, to excite an immediate desire to taste it."
