Fashion's Fancies.

Black is extensively worn. Muffs have increased in size this winter.

New veils match the color of the bonnet. Striped velvets will be fashionable again.

Gray in all shades is the most fashionable color. The smallest button is the most stylish for dresses.

Rubies are the most fashionable jewels at present. Very large bows of ribbon are placed on all caps.

Crushed orange is one of the newest shades of yellow. The handsomest tailor-made suits are trimmed with fur.

Engagement rings made entirely of sapphires are the latest. Kill plantings of dress skirts are made fuller than heretofore.

Little boys, little misses, school girls and ladies all wear Jerseys. Blouse vests of satin are seen on the newest waagons and jackets.

Natural beaver is the most popular fur for trimming children's garments. Tinsel threads are seen in the handsomest chenille fringes for trimmings.

Rich mixed plaids are the most popular of materials for children's costumes. The palest colors in broades, ottomans and satins are imported for evening dresses.

Black colored stockings are more worn than the unbleached Balbriggans on striped ones. A dainty sacque for the little girl is of deep blue velvet, bordered with swansdown.

The pointed velvet girdle, thickly studded with jet, is seen on a great many of the new dresses. Dark blue and salmon pink is one of the prettiest combinations for children's cloaks and hats.

One of the newest shades of blue is known as Soldat blue, which has a light greenish blue tint. Black velvet jackets, trimmed with gray astrachan fur, are pretty for girls of six and eight.

Quilted crimson petticoats, bordered with fur, are among the comfortable novelties of the season. Narrow mohair braid, either red, gilt, bronze or silver, is used to trim light colored cloth suits.

Fashionable women dress their hair very high, with puffs at the back and crimped bangs in the front. Dresses of bright plaids are worn over plain silk skirts of the predominating color shown in the plaid.

Fancy buckles are in great demand for trimming hats and dresses; the most popular ones are of steel. As necklaces are considered passe, those ladies who have handsome eyes convert them now into bracelets.

Dressy belts for little girls are of leather or velvet, with fancy laces in front and bows of ribbon at the back. Dregs of wine color and pale pink are among the newest combinations of colors for hats and evening dresses.

The Jerseys of pale colors are becoming popular for evening wear; white and pale blue ones are especially liked. It is stylish to wear the fan suspended from the side by a ribbon, and when worn this way are called Portia fans.

Laces are used in every possible manner, and the older the lace and the queerer the pattern the greater value is set upon it. Plush is retaining favor as a trimming. Some of the most elegant costumes lately made by Worth are trimmed with plush.

Black stockings are the only correct kind for children to wear, except when the dress is plaid, then plaid woolen stockings may be worn. Broad ribbons are worn on all children's hats and tied under the chin, passing over the ears. On large hats the effect is very picturesque.

The newest cashmères for evening wear are in the most delicate shades, such as shrimp pink, Nile green, silver gray, pale blue and sapphire. Some of the new vests intended to improve Jerseys are made of tan-colored cloth, or they may be of white cloth with rows of gilt braid over them.

Handsome skating costumes are in demand at present. One of the prettiest suits shown is of red velvet trimmed with chinchilla fur.

The man who really found liberty of thought in Germany was Frederick the Great. In the history of his race there is no character more attractive, for there is none more human.

And the babies! Little bundles of blue cloaks, fleecy white cloaks, warm crimson cloaks, indescribable bundles of shawls and wraps and hoods and swansdown, shapless and motionless, until the car starts, the door is shut to with a bang like a Mississippi shot gun, and baby crawls out of his crumpled, a fluffy tuft of crinkled hair; a fat, dumpled fat; then a plump face, rosy with the kisses of Jack Frost; a pair of big, round, wondering eyes, and a dancing head that goes swinging around on that little cross that passes for a baby's neck, while the baby unwrapping process begins, and baby crawls out of his crumpled, a fluffy tuft of crinkled hair;
