

Simply Wonderful for Chest Colds Makes 'Em Well Over Night

Nothing Half So Quick to Relieve and Cure as Good Old "Nerviline."

Don't be awake to-night coughing your throat sore—don't let our chest cold develop further—that's the way to cough on pneumonia.

Be sensible, and, as thousands before you have done, use Nerviline. It is a truly fine thing to knock out a cold or bad cough.

After once using Nerviline you'll swear by it for all time to come. You'll say it's more like a miracle than anything else to feel your warm working action upon your tight chest.

You'll be amazed at the quick way it cured your cough and broke up your chest cold.

It's safe for even a child to rub on Nerviline. Although five times more powerful than most other liniments, yet Nerviline has never yet burned or blistered the tender skin of even a child.

It's worth while to remember that wherever there is an ache or pain Nerviline will cure it.

Try it on your sore muscles, on a stiff joint, on the most possible case of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, or lumbago. These are ailments Nerviline is guaranteed to cure mighty quick.

The mother of a large family can save heaps of work and worry, can cure little lilla before they grow big, can keep the whole family well by always having Nerviline handy on the shelf. The large 50c. bottle is the most economical.

Manifesto of British Bankers & Financiers.

THE NATION'S NEED.

At this time of great national danger it is imperative that every citizen should realize the vastness of the work which Great Britain has to perform and should so act that the full strength of the nation may be put forth. Not only must everyone pull, but in order that the work may be well within the nation's strength, all must pull together.

The Allied fleets have driven the enemy's ships from the seas, and have established a blockade of the enemy's coasts. The enemy are thus prevented from carrying on their foreign commerce except to a very small extent, their income is seriously curtailed and their financial strength diminished. Moreover, the fleet has enabled both the British people and their Allies to draw abundant supplies of food, of material and of munitions from all parts of the world.

The enemy are thus prevented from carrying on their foreign commerce except to a very small extent, their income is seriously curtailed and their financial strength diminished. Moreover, the fleet has enabled both the British people and their Allies to draw abundant supplies of food, of material and of munitions from all parts of the world.

greatly greater than the enemy's. Therefore, the enemy's efforts have been directed to three essential matters:

(1) To seize victory before the forces of the Allies could be mobilised in overwhelming strength.

(2) To reduce the economic and financial strength of the Allies.

(3) To prevent the Allies from making or purchasing sufficient equipment and ammunition for their ever expanding forces.

The endeavours of the enemy to accomplish these objects have been completely frustrated by the co-ordination of the armies, of the financial resources, of the equipment and of the munitions of the Allied nations. The success of the Allies in defeating the enemy's efforts to cripple them in men, munitions and money before they could assemble their full strength has now brought the war nearer to its final stage. Indeed, only one thing is now needed to command victory. The Allies have assembled new armies of overwhelming strength in France, in Russia, in Italy, and in Great Britain, and everything needed to equip them and to supply them with munitions has been secured, or is in process of manufacture. The only thing remaining to be done is to provide all the money needed to support these great armies of new men, and to pay for the vast quantities of arms and munitions now being manufactured in all parts of the world.

The task of finding the greater part of the immense sums of money needed by the Allies is the special duty of the British people, for they in particular possess the necessary financial resources. Their manufacturing power has not been reduced by invasion; their cities have not been destroyed; their ports have not been shut off from the rest of the world, and their income has not been diminished by the absence of tourists and by other circumstances. Indeed, the income of the British people has been maintained at a very high level. Their exports, though not so great as before the war, are greater than they were as recently as 1908, their income from interest on capital invested abroad has been reduced but little, the earnings of their ships are greater than ever, and their factories are working full time. Moreover, the effect upon the production of the nation of the mobilisation of a great army has been largely civilian population in general, and of the women in particular. Lastly, the average individual income is much in excess of any total hitherto reached. Thus the power of Great Britain to meet her own expenditures and the sums needed by her Allies is very great.

What is it, then, that the country has to do? The Chancellor of the Exchequer has informed the nation that the Government expenditure in the current fiscal year will be:

Navy	£190,000,000
Loans to Allies and Colonies	423,000,000
Army	715,000,000
Miscellaneous	92,000,000
Interest on Debt	67,000,000
Civil Services, Post Office, Local Taxation, &c.	103,000,000
Total	£1,590,000,000

And that in 1916-17 the expenditure will reach £5,000,000 per day, or £1,825,000,000 per annum.

Therefore, the work that the British people are called upon to perform is to provide out of all their financial resources a sum of nearly £1,800,000,000 in the current fiscal year, and over £1,800,000,000 in the next fiscal year. In the current calendar year (1915) the British people will spend about £1,300,000,000 upon war and government, and next year (1916) will need to spend about £1,800,000,000 in place of a sum of about £200,000,000 a year before the war. To raise this vast sum is a stupendous task, and one that will try the mettle of the nation as it has not been tried for a hundred years. Not only has the nation to find this great sum of £1,800,000,000 next year, but it has to find it with several millions of its most active sons in the fighting line.

No one can realise the vastness of the task before the nation without becoming keenly conscious that it demands the strenuous co-operation of every man and woman, youth and maiden in the country; that the nation's energies must be completely concentrated upon the production of really essential things; and that the production of all non-essentials must be wholly stopped. Moreover, not only must the nation avoid the consumption of all non-essentials, but must even restrict the consumption of essentials to the limits of efficiency. Furthermore, individuals possessing securities marketable abroad must sell them in order to pay for goods and munitions purchased abroad for which no other means of payment can be provided. Lastly, the credit of the nation and of individuals must be en-

On March 10, according to the chief's story, a bomb was to be placed in the central power plant of the General Electric Company's river works at Lynn. The conspirators hoped to destroy generators that could not be replaced within a year, and thereby hold up operations in the buildings that are now making shell cases, fuse-caps, torpedo heads and similar metallic parts for ammunition.

The plot was conceived and prepared, the investigator says, by expert chemists and other trained men of ingenious minds. They were well supplied with money and spared no effort or expense to gain information and devise ways and means whereby the campaign could be carried on effectively and with minimum danger of capture.

The trail, he said, first led to Newport News, Virginia, where the France Canada Company had its principal station before opening the Watertown yards.

There the conspirators maintained an office under the guise of an advertising concern. A woman operative obtained a place as scrubwoman in the building and found the office to be filled with maps and other data concerning the marked factories. Later a dictagraph was installed, and through this instrument the first definite information of the plot was obtained.

In time the secret agents, always wary and suspicious, transferred their office to a New York hotel patronized by business men. There they continued their plotting.

Was Helpless For Ten Long Months.

NEWFOUNDLAND MAN TELLS HOW HE TURNED TO DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS WHEN EVERYTHING ELSE FAILED.

Lewisport, Twillingate Dist., Nfld., Feb. 22nd. (Special.)—People all over this district are talking of the wonderful cure of Walter J. Roberts. For ten months he was so crippled and helpless he could not even feed himself. He found a complete cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"My trouble started from a cold after measles," Mr. Roberts says in telling the story of his cure. "For nineteen months I was confined to the house and for ten months I could not take one step. "I tried many doctors and medicines, but got no relief from them. The trouble was in my legs and arms and was almost unbearable. I could not feed myself for those ten months. "As a last chance I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills, taking twenty-eight boxes in all and am glad to say they made a firm cure of me."

The moral of this is that if Dodd's Kidney Pills are good as a last chance they are far better as a first chance. If Mr. Roberts had taken Dodd's Kidney Pills at the first symptom of kidney trouble he would have avoided ten months of suffering.

A vegetarian dinner served once a week is a real resource to the housewife and cuts down the meat bills. Red meats and highly seasoned dishes are generally believed to be unwholesome for people past fifty.

Nowadays, in many homes where health is valued, the table beverage is

INSTANT POSTUM

Not alone because it is served so quickly, but more because it is a pleasant, healthful beverage. Made of wheat roasted with a bit of wholesome molasses, Instant Postum is entirely free from the subtle, cumulative drug, caffeine, in tea and coffee—free from any harmful substance.

More and more, people are finding out by personal experience that tea or coffee is the frequent, though often unsuspected cause of nervousness, biliousness, heart flutter, insomnia and various other ills and discomforts. The alternative when tea and coffee don't agree is POSTUM.

German Plots in Boston.

PROVIDED FOR WIDE ATTACKS.

Boston, Feb. 15.—The chief of a group of private investigators employed by New England manufacturers engaged in turning out war material for the Allies last night told of an astonishing chain of disclosures which resulted from several months' investigation of the charge that secret agents, who had headquarters in Boston, were plotting for the destruction of munition plants.

The agents have now fled to Montreal, and the chief of the detectives left last night for that city. According to his story, a veritable reign of terror extending over several months was prepared. Factories were to be burned or dynamited in the heights of their activities. Workmen were to be frightened from shops where supplies for the Allies were being made, and no expense or danger was to be spared to the end that shipments to the Entente Powers might be stopped or retarded.

Four plants, he says, were marked for early destruction. The New England Manufacturing Company at Woburn, which is working night and day turning out chemical components for high explosives, was to be dynamited on February 16, by a well-dressed man, ostensibly calling on a matter of business.

The Union stock yards at Watertown, now used by the French-Canadian Company, one of the principal shippers of horses to the Allies, was to be burned about February 21, through the explosion of high-powered combustible bombs that were to be sent into the yards enclosed in baled hay.

Within the next few days, although no definite time was set, the plant of the United States Cartridge Company at Lowell, was to be dynamited, to the end that the manufacture of rifle shells might be stopped.
