WEEK-END NOTES.

(I. C. M.)

The good work which is being done by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is well worth the sympathy and support of the public, and it is gratifying to find that so many people are interested in it. There is ample room for the vigilance of such a society, and especially so where we have so much steep, uphill hauling.

The movement on behalf of our dumb animals is now on a better footing than ever before, and the literature in its favor has gained a standard place. By this means a better knowledge of these animals, and a keener sense of their protection, is being disseminated, and we are seeing more than ever our duty in this direction. Our horse parades, and horse shows, and poultry shows, all tend to mental in accomplishing a lot of good, and the ladies and gentlemen who devote so much time to these humane works have long ago gained the "well done" of the public. True it is, that some people may differ in this opinion, but when all is said and done, there still remains the fact, that our dumb animals have rights, and these rights have been well protected by the society in charge of the same.

And this reminds me that our esteemed correspondent "Theobald" in one of his late contributions expressed his doubts as to the wisdom of holding a dog show, and he seemed to think that such a step would be out of place, especially under present conditions.

With the views of "Theobald" generally, I am in sympathy, and without doubt, his contributions were among some of the best that were published in our local press. But I differ with him in the matter of a dog show, and think that the show should do good, and that it ought to inculcate a greater spirit of kindness towards our dumb animals. Somehow many of us hold false ideas towards the dumb animals, and we think because we are the lords of creation, that the whole universe is ours, and that the dumb animals are beneath our attention or our dignity, and therefore such a thing as a dog show would be a mistake.

But where would mankind be without the service and assistance of the dumb animals, and what animal is more faithful than the dog? Like all other species of animal life the dog has its bad traits but it has a thousand good marks to its credit, and the part it has played in North American colonization and in Newfoundland history, is not soon to be forgotten. The need for the dog in this latter respect does not now exist; but there is still room for him, and it was meant that the dog have its place among the haunts of men under the sun.

The fact of holding a dog show should not in the least detract from the charitable spirit of the public, nor should it cause less attention to be given the children in our midst. St. John's is not slack in its work of philanthropy, its business men have always displayed a commendable spirit of liberality, and the holding of a dog show should not be looked upon as an indication of carelessness or undue extravagance.

The show would have many features in its favor, and under proper management ought to be of great interest. The many species of dogs that would be exhibited should of itself teach a lesson and with all our superiority of wisdom we do well to learn from the book of nature. Who has not been struck with the sagacity of the dog? Who that has looked intently into the face of his dog and watched its eyes, has not seen the intelligence of the animal craving for utterance? Who that has read of the Monks of St. Bernard and of their devotion amid the perpetual snows of the Alps, and of the rescue made by their noble dogs, has not been filled with admiration for both dogs and masters? Who that has read of the rescue made by our own faithful and world-renowned Newfoundland dogs, has not felt that the animal has much to its credit?

Yes, the dog has always been a faithful companion of its master, and an affectionate follower of its mistress, and it has its place and its right in the State. Whatever extreme marks may be placed against the dog or against its wilder species, the common household dog, such as we have here in the city, is of sufficient worth to his owners to justify them in holding an exhibition should they so decide.

Whatever tends to broaden men's vision and to deepen their sympathies is well worth their consideration. It is this spirit of kindness which has called into existence our societies for the protection of dumb animals, and these good which these organizations have done is beyond knowing.

Gentleness and kindness in daily life are becoming in every manner, and whether it be shown to our fellows, or to our pet dumb animals, it is sure to result in good. Many of our daily bounties come from the lower order of life, and to forget this is a mistake, and one into which we easily fall.

Girls! Girls! Try It! Stop Dandruff and Beautify Your Hair

Hair stops falling out and gets thick, wavy, strong and beautiful.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine" hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This cleanses the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair. But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.

SUB. CASUALTIES.

LONDON, To-day. The British barque Invercauld, 1416 tons, the Central News Agency says, was torpedoed and the crew landed. Lloyd's announced to-night the British steamer Belgium, 4558 tons, had been sunk.

DEBATE IN COMMONS ON RESTRICTIONS.

LONDON, To-day. Opening the debate in the Commons to-day on the statement of the Premier, David Lloyd George, Walter Runciman, after alluding to the gravity of the pronouncement, said that the last Government had adopted drastic measures of a prohibitory nature in many directions, but that the country had borne them with fortitude. Difficult negotiations with the Allies had to be conducted by the Government on this subject. He commented, adding, "Our hardships here are mighty ones, as great as those of Italy, but as a matter of fact there is a difference of temperament. We in this country do not make the same fuss about restrictions as did the Italians. In this country men are ashamed to give expression to their feelings, even if the restrictions are felt to be hard." Runciman said he thought the Government should endeavour to reduce the amount of tonnage used for Government purposes, which at present was sixty-three per cent. If it could be reduced to fifty per cent. of the total tonnage, he said supplies would be permitted to enter freely to that extent. If not, the members of the House, he declared, had not heard the last of the shipping tale. Walter Hume Long in reply paid a tribute to the dominions and colonies for the manner in which they had received the restrictions upon imports which to them might be very important. The Premier, he said, desired him to say that the importation of rum was stopped altogether, there being now a sufficient stock for the needs of the army, while there would be a reduction in the importation of wine and spirits of 75 per cent. on the basis of 1913.

WAR SUMMARY.

LONDON, To-day. German submarines continue to sink Entente ships. The total tonnage sunk reported on Friday was 25,456. This includes the French steamer Athos, of 12,000 tons, which was sent to the bottom in the Mediterranean, while carrying troops to France under the guard of warships. One American, Robert Allen Haden, missionary to China, lost his life in the torpedoing of the Athos from which 1,450 persons were saved. Thirteen of the vessels reported sunk were of Entente registry, except one Norwegian; several are of unestablished identity. There has been no activity of importance on the battle fields of Europe. In the Somme and Ancre sectors additional small gains of ground by the British troops are reported by London. The repulse of German raids in the vicinity of Arras and Amiens is also reported. Artillery bombardments continue as usual against the remainder of the western front. In Galicia the Germans and Russians have been engaged in isolated fighting near Skodoch. Berlin records the destruction of four mine shafts and the capture of 250 prisoners. Petrograd says the attackers

NEWSPAPER COMMENT ON THE RESTRICTIONS.

LONDON, To-day. The statement in the Commons by the Prime Minister of the Government plan to meet the situation due to the shortage in tonnage, which he said was now affecting the ordinary needs of the nation and the military, has been received by the Press with universal approval, and in many cases with enthusiasm. Even the newspapers which are least friendly to the Government accept the restrictions uncomplainingly and declare the nation will loyally respond to the plans. "It is a small sacrifice," said the anti-Lloyd-George Daily News, "that the citizen at home is called upon to make in comparison with the ordeal others daily are facing for his security across the sea." Newspapers which approved the old coalition write enthusiastically of the country having found a fearless leader, and declare that the measures now proposed ought to have been taken two years ago. The hope is expressed in these quarters that the section of the British people which hitherto has indulged in the comfortable conviction that nothing serious can happen to them will be jolted out of their easy complacency by the Premier's declaration that the food stocks are alarmingly low. Liberal newspapers criticize adversely some details of the scheme. The Daily News is indignant that 10,000,000 barrels of beer will be allowed to be brewed.

This newspaper also re-affirms that the agricultural production cannot be increased if the army is allowed to draw away farm laborers. The Daily Chronicle maintains that if farm restrictions are to be minimized the new measures must be accompanied by many other methods and also by a good deal of commandeering. Everywhere it is recognized that the ordinary routine of trading will be seriously affected, but it is too early yet to give any reliable indications in this direction. Some traders have said that considerable alarm exists in some quarters, for instance in the fruit market, which it is declared will have to be closed as regards foreign fruits. It was declared at Burton-on-Trent, a great brewing centre, last night, that there will not be enough beer to go around and the prediction was put forward that the price would soon be a shilling a pint. The full effect of the new plan on trade opinion in all directions will not be seen until next week.

The Overwhelming Factor.

London Daily News: Germany relied upon her army and it has failed. We relied upon our Navy and it has not failed. In the ultimate analysis this has been a war between the land power of Germany and the sea power of Britain. As the difficulty of reaching a military decision has been realized, the struggle has turned increasingly upon the question of supplies, not only supplies for the armies, but supplies necessary for the existence of nations. And in this struggle the silent power of the British Navy has been the overwhelming factor.

LOOKING TO RUSSIA.

London Times: We in the West are preparing unceasingly for great events which we hope and believe will prove decisive. We look meanwhile with unshaken confidence to the valiant Russian Army and to the inspiring figure of its Imperial leader, in the firm belief that when we and our Western Ally strike home with a majestic strength such as even this war has never witnessed we shall see our Russian brethren-in-arms acting in complete union, and driving from the soil of holy Russia the arrogant invaders who pollute it.
