The annual meeting of the Dorchester Station Cheese Factory Board convened in the cheese structure recently, when the following items were summarily passed: Milk received, 2,648,648 pounds; cheese, 244,104 pounds; receipts, $23, 432 18; disbursed among patrons, $20,-905 71; paid for manufacturing cheese, $3,339 82; the manufacturer paid patrons on the route $965 50; average pounds of milk per pound of cheese, 10.85; average price, 9.81 cents. Mr. Monk proposed to make cheese for the current year at $1 for seif-drawing patrons and $1 75 per hundredweight to those having control of routes. Thomas McFarlane presided and Wm. Wiglow was duly elected secretary pro tem.

Treasurer Charles Deo, of Gladstone, is negotiating for the position of post-master of Dorchester Station at a stipend of $400 per annum.

Pinemalt is the new cure for coughs, colds, and all throat, bronchial and lung ailments. It is in the new wayon the new lines of medical advanceantigerm, antiseptic, cleansing and healing to all diseased parts. Unlike old style remedies, it neither injures the delicate nervous system with narcotics to overcome coughs, nor impairs digestion with nauseants, to cure the disease. Pine has been celebrated in all ages as a cure for throat and chest troubles. The tall pines (not shrubs) Gilead furnished the famous balm of Scripture history. Malt stands in the front rank as a remedy in all throat and chest ailments. Malt has no superior in nourishing and stimulating properties. Pinemalt is a rare combination; is both a local and constitutional remedy. Pinemalt is not a cure-all-does not pretend to be; but all the same, and more surely, it cures in its special field, and here it stands unrivalled. Rev. J. G. Calder, a prominent Baptist minister, has the following to say:

"What shall I take to break up this bad cold?" Answer: Pinemalt. "But it has gone to my lungs and hangs on." Then get a bottle of Pinemalt and Hypophosphites instead. I advise this from personal and family experience. I nemalt acts like a charm, allaying coughs, curing hoarseness and other symptoms with surprising quickness. It is a great medicine, safe and pleasant. th in Pinemalt is unbounded. The icine is all the talk hereabout. pastor, Brooke Baptist on, Ont., Jan. 30, 1895.

The Question is Not Yet in Politics,

But Will Be When the Government Answers Manitoba's Appeal.

(Hon. Mr. Laurier's Toronto Speech.) There is another question as to which I have been asked to say a few words. do so. I had not intended to do so at the present time, because the time has not arrived to speak upon that ques-tion, but I would be unworthy of the position I occupy if I ever failed to respond to any demand coming to me from any of my fellow-citizens. There is a question, premature it is true, at the present time, which promises to agitate the community—the Manitoba school question. I have been asked to state what position I occupy upon that. Let me tell you then at once, I do not wish, either here or anywhere else, to make any political capital out of that. Even if I had it in my power to be borne into office over that question I would not do it. It is a question that affects our common humanity, in which a section of my fellow-countrymen, my own co-religionists, pretend that they have been offended and they have come for redress. The question is a legal con which is before the Government to answer today. It is for them to speak. I do not desire at the present time to say anything or do anything to make their position more difficult than it is. It is a difficult question. We have had experience in the past, not only in our own country, but in the country of my own ancestors-in France-that religious passions are the most dangerous, and can the most readily inflame the popular mind. At the present time the question stands in this way: Legislation has been passed in the Province of Manitoba which deprives the Catholic minority of their separate schools. They have appealed to the Government. A QUESTION OF FACT

tion of fact. I never saw any question of law or interpretation of the constitution. I think it was a question of fact, and nothing else. What was the complaint of my fellow-countrymen and the Catholics of Manitoba? That the Legislature of Manitoba, although in name, it establishes a system of non-sectarian schools, in reality imposed upon them, a system of Protestant schools, and they ask to be relieved from such a system. I may say I am a firm believer in equal rights and a strong believer in Provincial rights, but I have stated on the floor of the House of Commons more than once, and elsewhere, that if that complaint were true, if Roman Catholic children were forced to attend Protestant schools, it was such an outrage upon conscience that no Protestant community would tolerate it. (Cheers.) I know the heart of my fellow-countrymen of English origin. I am of French origin, but I have lived long enough amongst English-speaking men, and have read enough of their history to know that if there is any point, any common ground on which we can al-ways stand it is whenever an appeal to the fairness to be found in the breast of every Englishman. The Government did not take up their position. They have shifted. They have referred it to the courts twice and now they have to deal with it. It is a pure question of fact, and I have nothing to say until the Government has spoken upon it . That is the position I have adopted. I have said already that if the facts are true it would be an outrage upon conscience. I stand upon that ground. If the Government have any better ground I would be ready to assist them in solving that question. 1 do not want to make any political capital out of it, but in Quebec popular feeling is very different, you know, from what it is in Ontario. There are popular passions in Quebec, and there may be in Ontario, but the population in Quebec is Catholic, and the population here is Protestant, and though I am not anything at all, though I am simply in Quebec a citizen of Canada, though I the Bleu papers every day call upon me to speak upon the question of the Manitoba schools, and solve it for the Government. Well, I have no objection. (Laughter and applause.) Here is, for instance, what a Bleu paper, La Minerve says:

We are obliged to conform to the law and also to apply it, whatever may be the consequences for us. As to us, who have made the cause of the Catholies of Manitoba our own, we will not stop to think if the decision of the Privy Council is going to force Mr. Laurier to leave his cowardly reserve. The cause of the Catholics has made a great step towards success, and this is what strikes us the most in the circumstance.

If it be cowardly reserve on my part in the eyes of the Ministerial paper to have taken the attitude I have, by what name shall that good Ministerial paper characterize the action of the Government of Canada? By what name shall they characterize their action in shifting the question from place to place as they have? Let me quote to you now the opinion of La Minerve two days the opinion of La Minerve two days afterwards. After having recited that the Privy Council has just rendered its stallment of the "Personal History of the Privy Council has just rendered its judgment stating that the Government of Canada has the right to interfere, La Minerve proceeds thus: "Such being the condition of things, we must commence by ascertaining what is the lebal value of the rights of our co-religionists. As to this it is the part of simple prudence to wait for the complete text of the judgment of the Privy Council. This is what we are doing and this is what every one should do." It is the part of wisdom on the part of the Government not to speak, but it is cowardly reserve on the part of Mr. Laurier not to speak. (Applause.) appeal to the common sense, the fairness and the intelligence of every man in this audience. I do not want to interfere with this question before the The appeal is before the Government; let them answer it and we will gard. It is a weird, exciting novel. judge their answer. For my part, I Saall be only too glad to support them if K is just. If not I shall oppose it. At the present time I protest against insiquations, which are made in order o go me to say a word. I know what they hean. They are Bleus in Quebec. They at Tories in Ontario. The Bleus in Quebe can appeal to a section of public pasion; the Tories can appeal to a section of to a section of passion. If Mr. Laurier could be made to speak before the time they hoped that if he escaped the Bleus he would not escape the Tories. That is the extent of heir patriotism. I make it a boast that never yet shirked a public question, watever it was.

(Applause.) make it aboast that upon past occasion I spoke by mind, and upon every ocasion I shat speak my mind at the proper time-when the question has ben properly investigated NOT A POLITICAL QUESTION.

have given their decision upon an appeal of the minority in Manitoba.

Sir, we are on the eve of a contest. I do not know what the result will be, but I believe our people will arise at last to a proper appreciation of their duty as citizens of Canada, the duty they owe to themselves, their families and their country. If we win, as I believe we will—(cheers)—we will give to the people of Canada a Government that will endeavor under all circumstances to discharge its duties without any equivocation without feer and any equivocation, without fear and without favor. A Government that will on all occasions meet all the problems that come in its way, and solve them according to the right, as God gives it to see the right. (Applause.) A Govern-ment that will endeavor to administer the public affairs of Canada according to the laws of business and morality which prevail in private life. A Gov-ernment which will not take from the people of Canada one single cent except what is absolutely necessary to carry on the business of the country. (Ap-plause.) A Government which will, under all circumstances, while remembering that this country is populated by different races and creeds, endeavor to bring them into harmony towards a mmon purpose, the making of a great country upon this continent. A Gov-ernment that will endeavor to be Canadian first, last, and always. This is the policy we intend to pursue.

A Comprehensive Bill of Fare for Those of a Literary Turn.

The February Outing tells so much of outdoor sporting with the gun and rod and dogs, and of outdoor games, and the telling is done in such variety of literary form-straight-away storytelling, poetry, romance, etc.-that it seems impossible that there can be anything more to tell. "An Adventure With a Tarpon" is enough to stir the For my part, I must tell you frankly blood of the most sluggish. "With Gun and Palette Among the Redskins" is that I see in the question but a quesanother good yarn of adventure.

> The question why gold is exported is answered in the February Forum by a New York banker. This one act is worth to any reader the trouble of procuring this number of the Forum. Another financial discussion is on the retirement of Government from banking, by the president of the New York Bankers' Association. Henry Holt be-gins a series of articles on the causes of the social discontent. Wm. B. Horn-blower discusses the "commercializa-tion" of law; Rev. W. B. Hale has a religious study of a Baptist town; Carroll D. Wright writes of Governmental railroads; Joel F. Vaile discusses Colorado's Populism. Other articles of in-terest unite with those mentioned to give this number creat literary strength.

In the Century for February Prof. Sloan's Life of Napoleon is continued, coming down to the first success at Napoleon," by Henriette Corkran; "The Toulon, and to Napoleon's captivity at Antibes, following the fall of Robespierre. Mrs. James T. Fields contrib-utes some reminiscences and letters of Dr. Holmes; Mr. Victor Louis Mason describes the new army weapons; there is a poem by Sir Edwin Arnold, and an account of Emin Pasha's death by Mr. Dorsey Mohun, United States agent in the Congo State. The illustrations of the number are excellent, as usual; and the contributors whom space will not permit us to name are those on whom readers of the Century can always rely. * * * *

It is full of valuable information and reflects credit on the publishers as well as on the enterprise of the English Company.

The North American Review for February opens with three timely articles on the currency qustion, which are bracketed together under the title of "The Financial Muddle." They are by leading United States financiers. This important symposium is followed by a trenchant article on "Literature and the English Book Trade," from the pen of Ouida. A paper on "Politics and the Farmer," by the Hon. B. P. Clayton, president of the Farmers' National Congress, next claims attention. "The New Pulpit" forms the subject of a vigorous paper by the Rev. H. A. Haweis, which cannot fail to attract wide attention. The literary feature of the number is furnished by Andrew Lang, who contributes some delightful "Recollections of Robert Louis Stevenson." In other articles Senator Orville H. Platt discusses the "Problems in the Indian Territory," Prof. Simon Newcomb tells "Why We Need a National University; H. H. Boyesen deals with "The Matrimonial Puzzle." Charles Sedgwick Minot writes on "The the Second Empire," by the author of 'An Englishman in Paris," Albert D. Vandam, also appears in this number. Other topics treated are: "Images in Dead Eyes," by Dr. Ellerslie Wallace, "The Cat in Law," by Gertrude B. Rolfe; "Newspaper Row and National Legislation," by Albert Halstead, Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette; and "How to Repel Train Robbers," by Lieut. J. T. Knight, U. S. A.

the Governor-General of Canada, contributes to the February Arena an article outlining the platform and purposes fo "The Coming Triennial Meeting of the Council of Women of the United States at Washington." This council has become necessary to bring into common relations the different organizations of women that are working along various lines without knowledge of each other. Its aim is to find a com-mon platform for social progress, without reference to creed, church or class.

Under the lead of Robert Louis Stevenson, and not a little under his inspiration, there has come forward lately a whole group of young Scotch writers of remarkable grace and strength. The chief of these-Barrie, Crockett and Ian Maclaren-have written each a tribute to their brother and master, Stevenson, which appear with portraits and other pictures in the February number of McClure's Magazine. In the same number appears, also, an illustrated article on "Stevenson in the South Sea," written by a friend of Stevenson's who helped him in his preparations for the voyage and saw him aboard ship at San Francisco.

A new writer has recently appeared who bids fair to rival Barrie and Crockett on their own ground. He calls himself "Ian Maclaren," but in reality he is a Mr. Watson, a minister of the Free Church in Scotland. He has a story in McClure's Magazine for February.

To be a constant reader of Littell's day. Current numbers show the same judicious selection, the same agreeable variety, and the same general excellencies which have always marked this unique and sterling publication. These numbers comprise what is most notable in the great reviews and monthlies, such as Sydney Whitman's article on "Count Moltke, Field Marshal," Mrs. Alexander's "Recollections of James Anthony Froude," E. N. Buxton's interesting paper on "Stony Sinai," Prince Krapotkin's "Recent Science," etc. The first number in February shows a delightful table of contents: "A Little Girl's Recollections of Elizabeth Bar-Queen and Lord Beaconsfield." inald H. Brett; "Treasure Islands in the Polar Sea," with Part III. of "The Crimea in 1854 and 1894," by Gen. Sir Evelyn Wood, G. C., B., V. C., etc. The same issue contains also the first installment of "The Closed Cabinet," a powerful short story which is concluded in the following number. Any reader desiring to be in touch with foreign periodical literature cannot do better than subscribe for this invaluable magazine.
