In view of the success which Miss Churchill achieved in organizing and managing the Borden street school for so many years (in attempting which male teachers have signally failed), the manner in which she raised the moral tone of the school and the satisfactory progress made by the pupils under her in their studies, caused us to regard with regret greater than we can express har removal from our midst which we should have felt bound to represent to your honorable board had we known that there was a probability of her being removed to a distance.

The vacancy in Bathurst street school now affords us an opportunity of bearing testimony to the high esteem in which we hold Miss abilities and experience.

is Life With His Wife a Hell Upon Earth-Not Ruined by the Army. EDITOR WORLD: Kindly permit me to entradict some of the lies which appeared n your paper this morning. In the heading it reads "ruined by the salvation army." Now I wish it to be distinctly inderstood that the salvation army had othing to do with me leaving my wife. Long before the army came to Toronto I left her. The first winter we were marleft her. The first winter we were married I left her for several days, and last summer I left her for three months and only took up housekeeping upon her promising to do better. She wrote me a lefter, telling me she wished to see me, and when I went she told me she wished to take up house again. At that time I was a soldier in the salvation army, and I lived my profession before the world. I thought it over and came to the conclusion that if I served God I ought to give her another chance, and I would to God I never had.

As regards myself, I would not take the trouble to contradict a word of the scandalous report, but for the sake of my family and the cause of God and salvation army I am duty bound to do so. My life while with my wife was a hell on earth.

As regards my going home and asking my wife for money I did nothing of the kind. I did not speak half-a-dozen words to her and if I could have avoided it I would not have gone near her again, but up till the time I left her I took home I would not have gold the law is a way to be the time I left her I took home every cent of my wages and consequently had not a cent in the world and I told her father he could have everything I had for $30, and let any person go and see for themselves who had the best of the bargain. As regards me bullying her or threatening to smash the furniture, that is a base lie, and no such language passed my lips. Her father and I cursed one another with all the bitterness "we could, from the day I left her. I never tasted any kind of liquor, neither did I smoke. I did the best possibly could to get a comfortable

f possibly could to get a comfortable home for her and me, and from the day I joined the army till I left it her tather will honestly say he never heard a wrong word pass my lips.
Her brother has told me repeatedly he would not live with such a woman twenty-four hours, and last night he spoke vary kindly to me and told me he didn't blame allogather, but said that I could not kindly to me and told me he didn't blame me altogether, but said that I could not expect him to say anything about his sister. Of my wife's talk to me at various times I shall say nothing so long as they stick to facts. And as regards my trade, I am a bricklayer, not a brickmaker, as stated, and have nearly always worked for my father, who has carried on business in Toronto for nearly 30 years.
