

ONTARIO

The capital of Ontario and Canada's largest city has found its place in the sun. Toronto is often cited as an example of a North American city that works. It is the banking and business centre of Canada with pleasant downtown residential areas, a diversity of cultures and a rich variety of restaurants.

The slim building with the bulge is Canadian National Railway's communications tower, the tallest free-standing structure in the world. The Royal Bank Plaza glittering in the background is covered with gold leaf and glass.

The photographer was Douglas Fisher.
