

Mexico has a civil law system, which is based on the Continental European legal tradition stemming from Roman law and Napoleonic principles. Under this system, basic legal principles are largely codified in civil, commercial, criminal, judicial and procedural codes. Judicial precedents are not binding except for Supreme Court decisions under certain circumstances.