

Nothing detaining me longer at Nantes, I took leave of all my friends, and departed on the eighteenth of December, 1734, for Paris, with an intention of fixing my residence there, and to form a proper establishment, if an opportunity presented

F I N I S.