

CONTENTS

SECTION	PAGE
214. Distribution Through Subscription Privileges . . .	391
215. An Opportunity Thus Given for Cheap Investment . . .	392
216. Cashing the Privilege—The Subsequent Sale . . .	393
217. " " " —Short Selling . . .	394
218. " " " —Sale of Old Stock . . .	395
219. " " " —Sale of "Rights" . . .	395
220. Theoretical Value of a Right . . .	397
221. Privileged Subscriptions as a Method of Stock Water- ing . . .	399

CHAPTER XXVI.

MANIPULATION BY CORPORATION OFFICERS.

222. Ought We to Study Manipulation? . . .	401
223. The Corporate Form Favors Manipulation . . .	401
224. Is Manipulation a Necessary Evil? . . .	402
225. Scope of the Chapters on Manipulation . . .	403
226. Exorbitant Salaries . . .	404
227. Fraudulent Contracts . . .	405
228. New Companies for Profitable Business . . .	407
229. Misuse of "Inside" Information . . .	410
230. Is Manipulation by Officers Common? . . .	412
231. Canada Fairly Free from Manipulation . . .	413

CHAPTER XXVII.

MANIPULATION BY DIRECTORS.

232. Usual Methods . . .	414
233. Fraudulent Contracts . . .	415
234. Attitude of the Courts . . .	418
235. New Companies for Profitable Business . . .	419
236. Juggling Accounts . . .	420
237. An Accountant's Observations . . .	423
238. Remedies for This Kind of Manipulation . . .	424
239. Inflicting Loss on the Corporation . . .	426
240. The Danger in Losing Control of a Corporation . . .	428