

Bump the Bumps

---

The name of this attraction does not sound good to a person of a nervous temperament, but there is absolutely nothing to fear in the Bump the Bumps. It is a laugh from start to finish, and has made a big hit where it has been introduced in the big parks in the United States. You may get bumped, but it is in a mild way, and you cannot patronize it once without wanting to go back. The Bump the Bumps was named by a young lady, who received a prize for naming the device when it was installed at Coney Island. She was the first one to patronize it, and as she named it as soon as she came out the management decided that she had struck the right name and she carries a beautiful diamond ring as a result.

The owners of the device have no hesitancy in saying that the device is harmless in every way, and no man need be afraid to take his wife and children to the Bump the Bumps.