SCANTY RECEIPTS SEND CORN HIGHER

December and January Deliveries Sell at Highest Prices on Record.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—Scantiness of re-ceipts and offerings sent the corn mar-ket today to the highest prices yet for December and January delivery. The lose was strong at %c to 2c net advance, with January at $1.41% to $1.42, and May $1.36% to $1.36%. Oats finished % to %c off to %e up, and provisions

Tightness in the corn market showed itself principally in the last half-hour of the session. Before that time the bear side attracted the majority of active traders. Their chief incentive was the assumption that the prevailing seasonable weather conditions would, enlarge the crop movement and would came evident, tho, that selling on this basis did not appeal to producers, and basis did not appeal to producers, and that for the present any big increase of arrivals was still in abeyance. Then prices bulged quickly, and the close was the highest point of the day. Notice that all quantity restrictions on trading would be removed Jan. 1 had no apparent effect on values.

Oats lacked support. Seaboard interests were said to be selling, and some of the smaller markets were said to be so over-stocked that embargoes were not unlikely. were not unlikely.

Provisions were dull and heavy from the outset. Hog supplies continued ex-

LIVE STOCK MARKET.

The Union Stock Yards Exchange was open for a short time yesterday, but the volume of business transacted was so small, only eight loads coming on the yards, as not to merit the name of a market. Not until next Monday will business really get under way at the Union Stock Yards.

HIDES AND WOOL before Mr. Justice Clement into the operation of the alleged whiskey ring. He may possibly be called as the first witness when the investigation opens tomorrow.

Findlay, it is understood, has agreed to lay bare everything on a promise of immunity from further prosecution.

If Findlay had not voluntarily returned he would probably have been arrested today. Leaving Victoria nine days ago, he stayed several days in Seattle, Wash., and then went to Portland, Ore., where it is said he used the name of "I Z White"

GOLD-MINING BECOMES

UNPROFITABLE VENTURE

Montreal, Dec. 26.—Gold outputs continue to dwindle, the Rand's output last month having been the lowest since February, 1914. Influenza is hand for some of the decrease, but mining interests also assert that the present price of the yellow metal is unprofitable. Evidently, with a high-morofitable. Evidently, with a high-morofitable. Evidently, would inunprofitable. Evidently, with a higher quotation, production would increase, and herein is a nugget of truth, that is applicable to other things than gold. The Rand is not the only British district that is doing less in the way of producing gold. For nine months of this year, six of the principal possessions show a de-
