Grand today, Friday and Saturday the feature attraction will be Dora Deane and her Dancing Sunbeams, including Edgar Connor and John Vaughner, offering vaudeville's fastest moving cycle of song and dance. Miss Deane has an international reputation, formerly of Johnston and Deane, the original act which toured the world and played before royalty. In the present offering, which was conceived mainly to give vaudeville something bigger and better in this particular line, there are five girls in addition to Miss Deane, and two clever comedians, formerly featured with big productions. Each member of the company is a specialist, and they are all given a specialist. On the same bill will be Billy Chase and Charlotte La Tour in "Vaudeville Nonsensities." Billy offers a line of monologue exceptionally bright and new; his rapid-fire delivery is always two or three jokes ahead of his laughing audience. Charlotte La Tour is gifted with an exceptionally good voice, and is a perfect foil for Billy's jokes and repartee. The singing of the duo is good, and their parodies are cleverly written. The act as a whole is well worth while.
