CHICAGO. Oct. 9.—"Hod" Eller was far less effective in the concluding game of the world's series today than on last Monday, but the pitching analysis proved him plenty good enough in comparison with the brand of hurling displayed by the three White Sox pitchers. They had to throw 163 times in nine innings, while Eller tried his arm 130 times.

Eller missed the plate 40 times, giving 39 balls and hitting a batsman in the ninth inning. The Chicago trio was wide of the plate 65 times, having 63 bad ones called on them and hitting two of the visitors. More than half of these poor pitches were charged to "Big Bill" James, whose inability to find the corners caused his removal early in the sixth inning. Wilkinson's control was none too good either, as evidenced by the 26 wide pitches in jour innings.

The White Sox hit an even sixty of

The White Sox hit an even sixty of The White Sox hit an even sixty of Eller's offerings, but only eight vere on the grass. There were sixteen foul strikes, fourteen ordinary fouls and twenty-two fair flies recorded by the Chicago sluggers. A goodly numbe of these fair flies went far afield, but their height allowed the Reds' otter defence to reach them.

Eller's best innings were the fourth and fifth, in each of which he averaged only three pitches to the putout. His longest session was the second, but

SERIES NOTES

CHICAGO, Oct. 9 .- The crowd 32,930 all but jammed Comiskey Park to capacity. The only vacant seats were in the right-field boxes. Ticket speculators, who bought seats yester day expecting to sell them at fabu lous prices lost heavily. They were eager to accept face value for them fifteen minutes before the game time and I am the happiest man in the world tonight," sald Manager Pat Moran of the triumphant Cincinnati club. "I cannot praise my players too highly. They played remarkable ball, fought every minute to win, and there never was a time when they lost confidence. "Eller got himself in a couple of bad holes today, but he recovered quickly and had the Sox at his mercy. I want to say that the Sox are not quitters. They are a game lot of players. They fought to win, but were outclassed, in my opin-lon. The series ended as I thought It would, but I must admit that the Sox gave us a scare."

GLEASON

"If Williams had shown some 'stuff' in the first inning it would have been a different story to tell tonight," said Manager Gleason of the Sox. "But he didn't have a thing the Sox. "But he didn't have a thing except a desire to beat the Reds. That first inning, when the Reds scored four runs, was enough to take the heart out of any ball team, but the Sox came back fightling. "We were handicapped at the start of the series in pitching, but I was confident that we could pull through. The Reds were lucky to win those early games. However, they beat us in one of the greatest series ever staged, and my hat is off to them. But I still believe the White Sox the better ball club."

CHICAGO, Oct. 9 .- The world's series baseball championship pennant for Pat Moran's athletes invaded hostile territory today and annexed the eighth and deciding game against the Chicago White Sox by a score of 10 to 5.

As expert baseball it was as funny as a sack race. Nearly everything possible happened, including a comic four-run rally by the athletes in the pale hosiery. It never would have happened just as it did if the sun had not entered the lists and blinded the visiting fielders. It was all the funnier for the reason that the Sox were nine runs behind at the time. The Reds, after dropping two games on their own grounds, on the banks of the Ohio, permitting the Sox to get back in the running for the big emblem, started after the deciding game at the onset. They descended on Claude Williams' left-handed offerings with a determination which sent him into security had been the third man was out and Bill James. Who have the seclusion before the third man was out, and Bill James, who hurls from the other side, was trotted out. Three runs were scored off Williams, and one off James. It was the latter's first start in the series, and he led a terrible life until the sixth, when with two men on bases, he was given the beckoning finger by Manager Gleason, and Roy Wilkinson, also a right-hander, came forth to remain through the holocaust. The invaders continued their on-slaught, and sent three runs across the rubber. In the seventh inning the rangy twirler was somewhat wild and walked two men, but no runs were

Their position was so secure that they appeared indifferent, even bored, at the Sox rally which had the effect, largely, of merely stretching the contest out into the longest of the series, namely two hours and The remarkably good weather of the series was again in evidence, and 32,330 persons paid to see the massacre of the local idols. The attendance for the series was 236,928, and the receipts, exclusive of war tax. $722,414. Of this, the players receive $260,349.70 of the amount taken in during the first five games. The winners' share is $117,157.68, which will give $5,207.01 to the participating athletes. This is more than the salaries of most of the men it The Sox players will distribute 24 shares of $3,254.36 each. The Slaughter Starts.

Rath started the first inning for the Reds by popping to Risberg. Daubert took a grim swing at the spheroid and singled to centre. It was the beginning of the end. The mighty Rousch declared himself in the onslaught with a double to right. scoring Daubert with the first run of the game. Groh on the throw to the plate went to third. Duncan, observing that left field had been discriminated against in the matter of drives, singled in that direction, scoring Groh and Rousch. This series of wallops ended Williams' career as a major league pitcher for this season. He retired to the bench, and the towering James strode into the fray. He was wild, and Kopf walked on four bad ones. James stradied when he faced Neale, and the Red right-fielder struck out. Rariden Rousch. This price to centre, sending Duncan home. The Sox started out as if they had solved Eller's delivery and intended to do what they did in Cincinnati the other day, overcome a four-run lead for a victory. The hope was shortlived, however. Liebold singled to left and went to third on Eddie Collins' double to left centre. Weaver struck at two and missed, and was informed by the umpire that he also should have struck at the third one.
