Machinists Being Taken Back by Firms on New Conditions.

HAMILTON: Aug. 14.—No further cases of infantile paralysis have been reported in this city, and Dr. Roberts, M.O.H.. stated that the one case was progressing favorably. Infectious discases for the past week reported by the doctors are: Diphtheria, 3; measles, typhoid fever. 1.

Two horses were burned to death, one house demolished and another partly detroyed by a fire, which it completely define on Edinboro avenue last night. The fire broke out in a laundry at 320 Ottawa at reset, jumped to the vacant house on Edinboro street, which it completely detroyed, and then to the house next to it, occupied by Mrs. Bird and family. The entire loss amounted to about three thousand dollars.

A. D. MacKay of this city has bought the steamer 'Napironco' from the National Steamehip Company of Toronto. The vessel, which at present is carrying coal and grain on the upper lakes, is of steel construction and was built in Detroit in 1892. What Mr. MacKay's intentions are for the steamer has not, yet been divulged.

Daylight saving time ended in the city last night, when all, the clocks were turned back as hour at 10 o'clock. Many objections were registered against the new time, but it is quite likely that a daylight saving bylaw will be submitted to the people at the elections next January.

There is every likelihood that the strike of the machinists will end very soon, as the several firms in the city are taking the men back under conditions recommended by the royal commission. This week eighty machinists will start work at the Otis Fensom Company's plant on the schedule of the nine-hour working day and double time for Sundays. Out of the nine hundred men that went on strike only a few hundred are not employed, the rest accepting positions outside the city.

While no definite particulars of the accident could be obtained from the injured men, Sergt English informed The World that it was probably due to the speed at which the cars were traveling and to the wet pavement, as it was raining very heavily at the time of the accident. the Sereth in the north of eastern Galicia, the Russians had disposed their lines in a sort of crescent. They also controlled several railways leading from the south, and meanwhile feeding the right wing of Von Bothmer's forces in the centre. The Teutons had tried to parry the Russian thrust at both wings by undertaking an offensive against the Russian centre at Tarnopol. Here the Russians stood firm and repelled every assault of the enemy. By the time Stanislau was captured last week the Russians were in a position to launch their stroke against the Austrian centre on a front of 70 or 80 miles. By alternate threats to Kovel and to the Carpathian passes they had kept the Austro-German high command in the dark as to their exact plan of campaign till they are ready for the deciding blow. This was finally launched on Friday or Saturday last.

The outcome of the latest fighting is that the Russians have advanced southwestward on the Tarnopol-Lemberg railway, from Tarnopol, for twenty-five or thirty miles, driving the enemy before them. They apparently broke thru on a fifteen or twenty-mile front, or sufficient to make the enemy give up all his fortified remaining positions on his original front. The Slavs are now pushing rapidly forward each army on both wings, the southern on Halicz, called the key to Galicia, and the northern, across the Sereth towards the Lemberg-Tarnopol railway. The immediate object of their operations is to envelop and destroy as much of the Austro-German forces as possible before these complete their retreat to beyond * * * * * *

Two methods are practicable for the destruction of the army of the enemy. One is by the delivery of a smashing blow to do as much damage as possible, and the other is by envelopment. The Russians delivered their blow in the first two weeks of June. Their operations to envelop have taken about five full weeks. A good swift pursuit will further greatly weaken the Austrians and further increase the drain and strain on Germany. It is ample proof of the feebleness of the enemy that altho the Russians took seven weeks in which to complete their operations, he was unable to accumulate sufficient forces to check them. It is probable that the Austro-German losses at present exceed four times their rate of re-

* * * * While the Russians were starting the last stages of the debacle of the Austrians in the east the French took another large bite out of the German defensive system in the west by carrying at one blow four and one-sixteenth miles of German third line positions north of the Somme to a depth of three-eighths to five-eighths of a mile. The success gave our ally part of Maurepas and the cemetery and church, as well as a saddle west of Clery. His new lines are established on the southern slopes of Hill 109, the road between Maurepas and Clery, and the saddle west of Clery One thousand unwounded prisoners were taken in this operation and a further advance was made on the slopes of Hill 109, southeast of Maurepas. A German attempt to regain the cemetery and church in Maurepas Village failed under the fire of French machine guns.

The British also assisted in the discomfiture of the enemy by gaining ground on the plateau northwest of Bazentin-le-Petit, in the direction of Martinpuich, by capturing German trenches. They also made a further advance of 300 or 400 yards on a front of nearly a mile northwest of Pozieres. German counter-attacks were repulsed. Raids were undertaken on other portions of the front. Unofficial reports from press correspondents speak of the British artillery fire as really terrible and as inflicting heavy casualties on the Germans. It goes on night and day, and as a result of the British capture of the crest north of Pozieres they have a clear field of observation right up to Bapaume. As a result German batteries are knocked out whenever they make their presence known, and the Germans have been compelled gradually to move thir guns back.

The Italians added to their gains by captures of Austrian positions east of Gorizia and Monfalcone and on the northern edge of the Carso Plateau. They took about 2000 prisoners, they announced yesterday, in these operations. They have captured since their offensive began 15,393 Austrian soldiers and 330 officers, 16 guns, many machine guns and much war material. They are now well across the lower Isonzo.

Marked Contrast to the In-

After the heat of the last few weeks was quite an unexpected pleasure r people to wake up on Saturday to for people to wake up on Saturday to find the weather pleasant on account of a cool breeze. Rain on Saturday night was followed by an almost unbelievable drop in the temperature. So cool was it in Toronto that many of the fair attendants at the morning services of Toronto churches wore coats that were far more suggestive of fall than mid-summer. In marked contrast to the extreme popularity that the bathing beaches have enjoyed for the last couple of weeks was their desolate appearance yesterday. Except for a short period in the afternoon the city's verandabs, especially in cept for a short period in the afternoon the city's verandahs, especially in

He said that the temperature in Alberta was higher than that in Toronto, and in Manitoba and Saskatchewan it was about the same. Frost had not and in Manitoba and Saskatchewan it was about the same. Frost had not been met with in any of the wheat country, and in Ontario, White River, on the north shore of Lake Superior, was the only place reporting frost, there the thermometer reached three degrees below the freezing point.

He concluded the conversation with the statement that the cool spell had done no damage to the crops in the Dominion, and there was no indication of frost for the night. After which of frost for the night. After which it was possible to sit back and enjoy the cool weather, that was twice welcome after so many days and nights spent in trying to find the non-existent cool spots, without any fear of it being any way injurious to the wheat upon which Canada and the empire is counting.

BRANTFORD, Ont., Aug. 14.—Terrace Hill has for several weeks been agitated by the unsatisfactory water supply to that city and which has been very strongly expressed in the city press and by a largely signed petition of ratepayers complaining of the unfair treatment they were receiving. A motor trip up thru the central portion of York County and down thru the Townships of Whitby and Pickering showed thousands of acres of heavy oat abundant yield and giving an air of thrift and prosperity to the whole country. The country never looked more promising than at the present time, and one of the most gratifying things is the tremendous growth taken on by the ensilage corn, one of the most important of all the Ontario crops, and which until the last fortnight was practically given up as a failure. Today it is making a marvelous growth, due to the hot, dry weather, and, given a month's absence from frost, will yield an abundant crop. Pastures have been wonderfully benefited by the refreshing rains of last week, the only exception to the cheerful outlook being the root crop, which on the average will be less than half an ordinary yield.

Farmers are well ahead with their work, despite the alleged scarcity of labor, and, with the end of harvest well in sight, there will be a large exodus of Ontario laborers to the west at the next harvest excursions,

Dissatisfaction has been expressed by a number of wives of soldiers killed in action at the manner in which the civic authorities are paying out the $1000 insurance, payable on the death of soldiers resident of the city.

Secretary William Russell of the British Imperial Association said that he had received several complaints in this regard, and had taken up the question with the mayor and board of control, and had received the following communication from William Johnston of the legal department;

partment:

"I beg to advise you that the payments and the manner of payments on the proceeds of a policy on the life of a deceased soldier, or a grant where there is no policy, is entirely in the discretion of the city, and, subject to certain exceptions it is paid in monthly instalments. It has sometimes transpired that a dependant wishes to pay off or reduce a mortgage on a home or invest in a home, and the city would probably make an exception in these cases, provided the money was paid thru the department as an evidence of bona fides."

AUTO THIEVES AT WORK.

Riders Nearly Got Away With Large Touring Car Last Night. For the past couple of weeks auto thieves have been busy around the nonth-west part of the city and several owners have found their garages broken into and some have had their cars taken for several hours.

Last night a large Abbott touring car of L. C. Hughes was removed from the garage at the rear of his house at 658 Euclid avenue about 10 o'clock. While the thieves were taking the car down the side drive the engine stalled and feating to be seen working with it along-side the house, the would-be joy-riders left it there.
