Do you know how to begin the new year? Review the past: so much of life is gone. What is its record? Have you made the most of it? Have you done the best you could? Have you gained the point of mental, moral and material success which it is the duty of every good citizen to attain? Have you done for your children what the fathers did for you? Can you now leave the farm and the world better than you found them?—Here, then, is a turning point.

Now resolve to make the most of the future. Success is a duty you owe to yourself, to your family, to the country, to posterity. Make up your mind to attain it, and energy, untiring patience, and application, will do the rest.

Now is the time to plan the operations for the coming year. Pay off old debts. Interest eats into your substance night and day. It grows while you are sleeping. Better drive a little closer to the wind, work a little harder, spend less, and "owe no man anything." I've seen people lounge about the store and the post-office, when they might have been filling up the time with something useful. Do you keep a regular farm account book? How is it with the barn-cellar, etc.? If you begin right, I can most heartily wish you a happy new year!

"WHAT do you know of the character of this man?" was asked of a witness at a police court the other day. "What do I know of his character? I know it to be unbleachable, yer honor," replied he with emphasis.

A man with a very small head is like a pin without enny, very apt to get into things beyond his depth.—Josh Billings.

THOSE persons who spend all their time watching their symptoms, are the kind who enjoy poor health.—Ib.

A kicking cow never lets drive until just as the pail gets phull,—it is jiss so with sum mens blunders.—Ib.

WHENEVER a minister has preached a sermon that pleases the whole congregashun, he probably has preached one that the Lord wont endorse.—Ib.
