riches that go to a modern champion of the ring. He received about $10,000 for last night's fight, a third as much as the deposed champion, but "big money" now is within his reach. This stalwart, broad shouldered youth of Slavish extraction, who has succeeded in a game at which three brothers failed, is only 23. Rugged a brawler as he is, he has also made a study of the science of the ring. It is to this he ascribes chiefly his crowning success.

"When Walker beat me three years ago, in Newark, I made up my mind I would take the title from him some day," said Latzo. "It took me quite a while, but I made an intensive study of Walker and his fighting methods." Details of the last few rounds follow:

PLUGS WALKER'S HEAD.

Round 8—Lazo plugged Walker about the head but took a battering on the ribs in return. Walker dug his right to the body while his left found Latzo's chin. The challenger sent Walker's head back with a straight left and took a series of jabs on the jaw in return. The referee was kept busy pulling them apart. Both landed lefts to the head and Latzo caught Walker on the ear with a stiff right. They were sparring at the bell.

OPENS WITH RUSH.

Round 9—Walker opened with a rush and pounded the challenger about the head. Latzo worked his right to the body, but was backed off with a flurry of choppy wallops to the head. The champion missed twice with his left and they clinched and they leaned their heads together and traded uppercuts to the chin. Latzo's left connected sharply to the jaw. Walker's left connected with Latzo's head just before the bell.

BOTH FLAIL AWAY.

Round 10—They came together with a rush. Both flailed away to head with both fists. Latzo sent the champion to the ropes with a smashing right and sent his head back with a left uppercut.

IVANHOE—

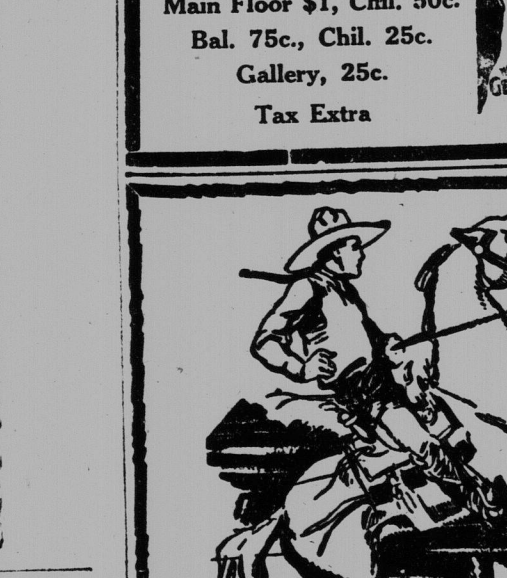

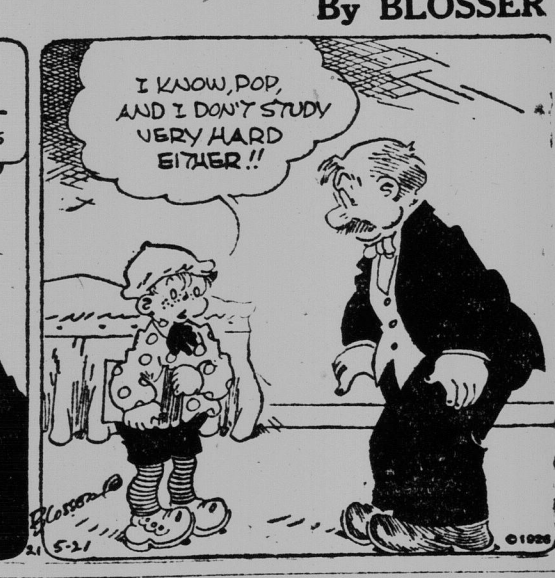

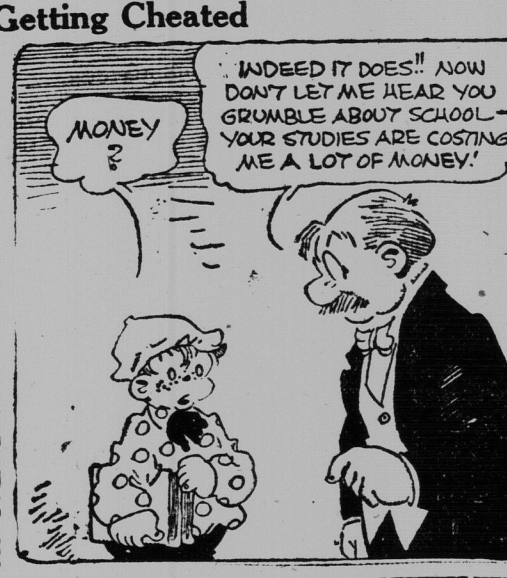

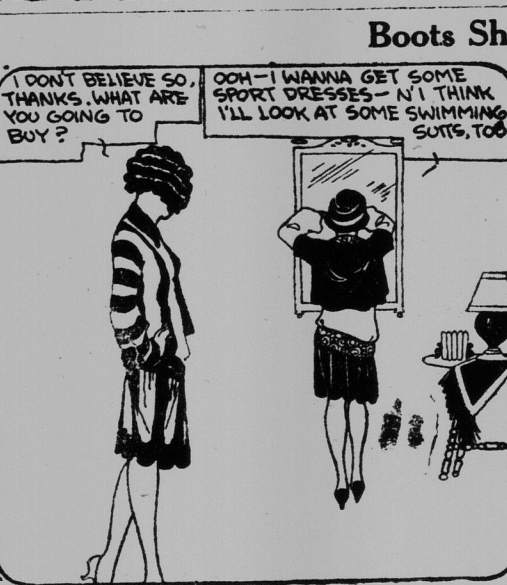

"CAN SAVE IVANHOE—IT IS MY PURPOSE," SAID DE BRACY, "FOR WHEN ROWENA CONSENTS TO BE MARRIED TO ME, I SHALL DARE TO PUT FORTH A VIOLENT HAND UPON HER KINGMAN, THE SON OF HER GUARDIAN, THE COMPANION OF HER YOUTH. BUT IT IS MY LOVE MUST BUY HIS PROTECTION. REBECCA, AND WILFRED DIE."

"REBECCA, UNMOVED AT HER GRIEF, WAS INTERRUPTED BY THE SOUND OF A HORN OUTSIDE THE CASTLE. THE SAME THAT HAD INTERRUPTED REBECCA IN HIS TORTURE OF ISAAC. MEANWHILE REBECCA, DAUGHTER OF ISAAC, HAD BEEN THROWN INTO A TURRET. THERE, ALSO A PRISONER, WAS AN OLD HAG, WRINED."

WALTER GILBERT, PROP.

percut. Walker chopped with his right to the head and looked a left to the jaw. They fought like a pair of bull-dogs with neither giving ground.

Walker smashed his right to the jaw. Two stiff lefts to the head jarred Latzo but he came back to pound Walker's ribs. Two overhand rights caught Walker on the side of the head. Both punched away with all they had as the final bell sounded, amid a bedlam of noise.

NO SMALL town person ever visited a large city without wondering where all the money came from.

YOU cannot convince a grave-digger that a good man ever "comes back."

JOY IN CAMP OF NEW YORK YANKES

Five Full Games in Lead With Ruth Chalking up 15 Homers

NEW YORK, May 21—Five full games ahead of Cleveland, their nearest rival, a string of nine straight victories, in incidentally 15 homers for Babe Ruth—there is reason for joy among the Yankees.

Yesterday they defeated the St. Louis Browns again on six hits, but two of them were crashes to the bleachers by Ruth and Collins. The final verdict was 5 to 4.

Byron's pitched excellently behind a heavy barrage from the bats of the Mackmen, and turned back Cleveland, 10 to 2.

Detroit battered Stanley Coveleskie for 10 hits in five innings and eked out a 6 to 5 victory over Washington.

There was another slugfest at Boston, where Chicago downed the Red Sox 13 to 4.

Brooklyn dropped a notch in the National League with another setback at

"Steel Preferred"

A wonderful film showing the interior of a great steel mill at night, with its tongues of flame and myriad sparks, reminding the spectator of Dante's Inferno—the panting locomotive plunging to destruction and releasing death in the form of tons of molten steel—here is real drama absolutely new to the screen.

Fast moving, finely acted, superbly produced, the story punctuated with laughs—a veritable treat for all who enjoy the best the cinema has to offer.

PARAMOUNT'S RECORD-BREAKING COMEDY

TALK ABOUT "ALF'S BUTTON" and "THE BETTER 'OLE" here's a six-reel wartime farce that will go down in film history as the most sensationally funny and surprisingly lifelike depiction of the oft-told ludicrous happenings at the front. Not one whit overdone either, just what you would expect of two such characters as Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton portray.

PACKING THEATRES IN EVERY CITY

HERE'S A SLANT AT THE YARN:

SHORTY McGEE A CROOK (Hatton) "irks" the watch of a country detective watching a parade of soldiers. He escapes into a rich man's dwelling. The daughter of the house is recruiting a regiment for her brother and vamps the robber into signing up. The detective (Beery) enters to find his man—he falls for the girl's kidding, too, and joins. Eventually the thief and detective are thrown together en route to the front and throughout their war career, wondering where they have seen each other. They don't know her brother is their colonel. They both have her photograph and when she arrives as a nurse—good night! In the clink, chased into No-Man's Land, right into the German trenches where they don the enemy's clothing, trying to get back to their own dugouts in this rig. Well, it goes on like that, a continuous storm of laughing for everybody.
