GIRL NOT ABLE TO BE IN COURT

Arrests in Case Referred to Yesterday — Parker Testifies and Falls in Faint.

Theodore Saunders, of Godola Point, Harry Ketchum of Nauwigewauk and William Reynolds of Bethesda, were before the magistrate this morning, charged with a statutory offense. The preliminary hearing will be held Friday morning if the girl is able to come to court. This is the case referred to in the Times last night in which the three were taken for an automobile drive, two of them taken home, but the third driven out the Marsh road and found the next morning in a house to which she had gone in the night. A warrant was sworn out on October 27 and the three were arrested yesterday.

Daniel Mullin, K. C., appeared for Reynolds and J. A. Barry for Ketchum. The case against Fred Gallant, charged with breaking and entering the store of E. R. Taylor and stealing cloth valued at $400, was resumed this morning.

George V. Parker identified some pieces of cloth in court as some he had bought from the defendant who said he had found it under a wharf. He paid the defendant $65 for the cloth and a couple of pieces of fur. During cross examination by J. A. Barry, the witness said that he knew that the cloth did belong to the defendant and then said he did not know whether it did or not. Parker fainted at the end of the examination, but was soon revived. The case was postponed for further evidence. The preliminary hearing of the case against Joseph Neaves, charged with the theft of clothes, watches, and other articles from the store of William Jacobson, 48 Mill street, was taken up this morning. Mr. Jacobson said that on the morning in question he went to the store and found that one of the back windows had been forced and a quantity of goods taken. He identified some articles in the court room as part of his stock. The case was postponed until this afternoon at two o'clock.

The case of Saul Aronoff, charged with selling liquor, was also taken up. The inspectors are making an effort to locate a witness.

AMALGAMATION OFF FOR PRESENT

What is said Following the Wright Steel Memorial Home Decision.

Referring to the decision of the board of directors of the Provincial Memorial Home not to amalgamate with the St. John Protestant Orphanage, reached at a meeting held last evening, Dr. James Manning, president of the Memorial Home, said this morning that the financial affairs of the institution had become so greatly improved recently that it was felt in the best interests of the orphans to carry on for this winter at least. He said that things were looking better than they had for some time. The sum of $5,000 had been paid for the property and another $5,000 expended on a new wing and other improvements. A deficit of $12,000, which existed about three months ago, he said, had been reduced to about $400 and there was enough money in sight, outside the home's share in the receipts of the recent fair, practically to wipe out this deficit.

Dr. Manning expressed the opinion that there was a hard winter coming and every bit of accommodation possible would be required to care for the orphans. He said that the directors felt that the home in which $10,000 of the people's money had been placed should not be now abandoned when the need for its existence was so apparent. He was said this morning by one of the officers of the Protestant Orphans' Home that the situation now is practically the same as it was before negotiations for amalgamation commenced. He said that every concession that was possible to give was made in an effort to effect the union of the two institutions with a view to cutting down the overhead expenses in the care of the Protestant orphans of the city. Now that the plans had failed to produce the desired result, it was the intention of the older organization to proceed no further with the negotiations but to carry on the work as it had been carried on before the subject of amalgamation was brought up.

He said that the directors of the Protestant Orphans' Home did not feel like assuming the property of the Memorial Home but were agreeable to take over the children and caring for them. A request from the Memorial Home directors that five of the Protestant Orphan Home directors resign to make room for representation from the Memorial Home directorate had been agreed to. It was therefore in the nature of a surprise that last night's action was learned. After a meeting of the Memorial Home executive last night, the following statement was issued: This evening, November 1, after several weeks of negotiations, the terms of absorption offered to the executive of the Provincial Memorial Home in Wright street by the board of directors of the St. John Protestant Orphans' Home were very carefully considered. Chiefly for the reason that the board of directors of the Protestant Orphans' Home refused to use our building on Wright street, upon which we had paid $5,000 and expended over $8,000 more on a new wing, but stated that they would acquire another building to use in its place, the executive declined to accept the terms of the board of directors of the Protestant Orphans' Home by a vote of three to one. The resignation of Miss Lily E. Fraser as superintendent was accepted, with expressions of regret.

PURITY OF OUR WATER SUPPLY

Dr. Frink said the general policy was to buy all properties offering. He said last Thursday he found a man draining a boggy into a stream which flows into Little River, the water of which might be used in the city should the Loch Lomond supply be interrupted. Dr. Warwick was of the opinion that the prohibition of boating, fishing and bathing should be continued permanently.

The mayor said that the city might as well consider buying the land to the head waters of the streams feeding the lakes, as to buy the land surrounding the lakes.

Lake Lattimer.

Dr. Warwick said there was evidence of cattle being watered in Lake Lattimer.

Mr. Jones said he had three caretakers patrolling the lakes.

Mr. Bullock had a report of a mixed bathing party in Lattimer Lake this summer.

It is the suggestion of raising the intake pipe at Lake Lattimer, the engineer said, that no great amount of sediment was drawn into the pipe, but it was of the opinion that the raising of the end of the pipe would prevent sediment entering the pipe. The cost would be $2,000 to $3,000.

Commissioner Jones said he would bring in report on the matter, and the engineer would make soundings on the site.

To Mr. Mullock, Dr. Warwick said the pollution in Lake Lattimer was greater than in any other place.

Chief Blake said when pollution was first found, the health board found twenty-five or thirty cesspools draining into the lake, one of them from the home of the caretaker of Lake Robertson. It was found that many people were bathing in the lake.

Regarding the board's recommendation to have a duplicate set of screens, Mr. Jones said that duplicate screens were used, one being installed while the other was being cleaned.

Lake Robertson.

The board recommended the fencing of Lake Robertson to prevent cattle grazing.

Mr. Jones said he would look into this.

Regarding the diversion of the roadway and oiling the surface where it skirted the lake, Dr. Warwick said the dust from the road would cause pollution.

Commissioner Frink suggested that a spruce hedge would stop a lot of the dust.

Mr. Kelly thought diversion would solve the difficulty at a cost of $600.

Mr. Jones agreed to look into this feature.

Regarding the cess-pool at the caretaker's house, Dr. Warwick suggested that the overflow could be disposed of by running it into the subsoil.

Mr. Jones agreed to investigate.

Loch Lomond.

The board recommended the removal of the Barker House, barns and cess-pool.

Dr. Warwick said that the septic tank there was not working properly as it had to be bailed out twice a year. The caretaker, Dr. Warwick said, went into Lake Robertson.

To the mayor, Dr. Warwick said that he did not think the tank could be made septic while a hotel was operated there. He thought that conditions would be suitable for a private house only. One remedy to prevent the conditions was to seek legislation to restrain the building of hotels on the lake.

As the city built the tank at the Barker House, Dr. Warwick was of the opinion that the city should remedy it by the removal of the Barker House.

Commissioner Frink said the health board had the right to make the owners stop the nuisance.

It was decided to make tests on the city lands below the Barker House to ascertain the amount of sewerage in the soil.

The drainage from the barns, Dr. Warwick said, ran into the lake through drains.

Mr. Kelly said there was a pile of sawdust on the side of the lake.

The mayor said the sawdust matter was one for the health board to deal with.

Mr. Jones said he would look into the drain matter.

A General Scheme.

The board, recommending the covering of the stream between Loch Lomond and Lake Robertson over which the bridge near the Barker House passed, Commissioner Frink said an extension of the 42-inch pipe from the Lake Robertson dam to Loch Lomond would do away with the covering in the stream, the diversion of the Lake Robertson road, the drainage trouble at the Barker House and the continuation along the shores of Lake Robertson. This would eliminate Lake Robertson altogether.

The city engineer said that it would mean 1.14 miles of pipe.

The mayor estimated the cost at $100,000.

Mr. Jones was asked to make a survey of the scheme.

Regarding the fencing of the land along the lake where the road ran nearby, Mr. Kelly said this recommendation was to prevent the watering of horses and cattle in the lake.

Commissioner Frink said that the city had only one source of water supply and that should be protected.

Dr. Warwick said the matter of fencing had to be taken up with the provincial government.

Commissioner Frink said it might be well to have a bill providing for the prevention of the erection of dwellings on the lakes which supply the city with water.

It was decided to take up the matter of proposed sewer extensions at a later meeting.

PREMIER OF HEROIC SIZE—ON BILLBOARD POSTERS

The government has been billing up the town. Most of the posters are of an allegorical nature. A red-headed youth of heroic proportions, armed with an immense stick, is seen wading through the waters labelled: "The Aftermath of War."

As if the young man has not enough courage to mount the steep and immense rocks that confront him, the youth is seen to push him gently ahead. National Progress is on the rocks. What the red-headed youth is going to do with the big stick is not clear. The red-headed young man is labelled with the word "Mighty" and, with a stretch of imagination, wherein the color of hair must not be taken too seriously, there is indeed some likeness between the timid stick carrier and the prime minister. Another poster shows Mr. Meighen depicted as an animated semaphore.
