Quebec, April 1.—(Canadian Press)—Detective Trudeau, a former member of the Montreal police force, died suddenly yesterday on a C. N. R. train near Chamard Junction. He is survived by his wife.

CHARGE AGAINST A POLICEMAN

Fred Gaudet Denies Allegation of Getting Liquor for Man.

In the police court this morning Fred Gaudet, a member of the St. John police force, was charged with getting liquor for a man. It was said that Frank Gavin was on his way from St. John to his home in P. E. I. and when between Moncton and Sackville a liquor inspector searched him and found part of a bottle of whiskey which he said he bought from the accused in St. John. On the promise that he would return when wanted, he was allowed to proceed to his home.

Inspector Bellevue of Moncton investigated the matter and the principal witness was notified to come to this city, and with the inspector arrived here last night. The case was called this morning and Gavin was put on the stand.

He told of being in the city and said that the evening of March 4 he met the accused in Brussels street in uniform while on his beat, that he asked the policeman if he could get him a bottle of liquor and he answered that he thought he could, so the witness said he waited there about half an hour when the policeman came back with a bottle of Royal Arms whiskey, for which he said he paid about $4.50. He said he put the bottle in his pocket and went to the Prince Albert hotel to his room and for the next morning for his home in P. E. I., but while on the train between Moncton and Sackville the bottle was taken away from him by a liquor inspector.

On cross-examination by J. A. Barry, counsel for the accused, the witness said he was with a man named Stapleton and they met the accused with Policeman McElhenney. When asked if he was drunk he said he was not although he may have had a drink or two. He said that he was not paid to come here to give evidence and that he had paid his own expenses and did not expect to get any of it back. He said he was not arrested on the train when the liquor was found on him. Many questions were asked the complainant as to whether he had been drinking before he met the accused, to which he said he had taken a drink while in the accused's residence at 88 Acadia street, that same evening. Besides the liquor alleged to have been gotten from the policeman, the witness said he had gotten a prescription from Dr. J. T. Dalton for a bottle of liquor and had it in a drug store in Mill street. He said he paid the doctor $1 for the prescription and the druggist $3.50 for the liquor. He said he took the liquor to his home and it was not opened until then. He said that he was not sick when he went to the doctor. This closed the case for the prosecution and the defense was taken up.

Policeman Gaudet said he knew the complainant and he met him in Brussels street but he emphatically denied taking any money from him or giving him any liquor. But he did say that the man who was stipulation and they were both under the influence of liquor, the complainant in a worse condition than the other man, and he told them to go to their room and he advised Stapleton to see that the complainant got there safely.

Policeman John McElhenney corroborated this evidence.

Before allowing the policeman to leave the stand the magistrate called attention to the oath taken by them and read it over. The case was postponed until this afternoon. W. M. Ryan conducted the prosecution and J. A. Barry acted for the defense.

As a result of the previous case Doctor Dalton was called to court and charged with prescribing liquor unlawfully on March 4. He pleaded not guilty.

Gavin was again put on the stand and he said he went to the doctor's office and got a prescription for liquor. He said the doctor asked him if he was sick, and told him he had a bad cough, so the doctor examined him, wrote out the prescription. He said he paid the doctor and walked out.

Dr. Dalton said he remembered the man calling at his office and that the way in which he prescribed for him was proper and legal. He said he examined his heart and lungs and the pulse, and as a physician he prescribed what he thought was the medicine needed.

Gavin went on the stand again and the doctor did examine him. The case was postponed until Tuesday at two o'clock.

Gladstone Johnson was charged with assault. His sister, Mrs. Evelyn Skinner, said she was in her home in Union alley on last Friday after her husband had gone to work and her brother muttering an oath made a rush at her with a knife, threatening her. She said she rushed out of the house. Her little girl also gave evidence, corroborating her mother's statements. The accused was sent up for trial. J. A. Barry acted for the defense.

Vincent Omaro was charged with being a stowaway on the S. S. Millinocket from the West Indies. He was sent into jail until the ship sails.

Two men charged with drunkenness pleaded guilty and were remanded.
