MORGAN BACKED THE MILLINER

Not First Time He Has Given Helping Hand

GOSSIP OF GOTHAM

Public Smoking By Women is on Increase — An Artist's Rapid and Successful Work — Judge Bars Women From Sensational Trials — The Millionaires' Region Campaign

(Times Special Correspondence.)
New York, Oct. 20.—The discovery that J. Pierpont Morgan, the Nestor of American finance, had been backing a fashionable Fifth avenue milliner, who failed recently because his society clients neglected to pay their bills, has led to much good natured chaffing and bantering of the multi-millionaire who holds the purse strings of Wall street in his finger tip. How and in what manner the financier came to be interested in the millinery shop no one seems to know outside of those directly in the secret, and they of course won't talk about it. For a number of years the shop enjoyed the patronage of the smartest matrons in town and was seemingly sailing along on the crest of a wave of prosperity when suddenly the bottom dropped from under. An inventory of its debtors disclosed the names of many of the best-known women of society, with a dozen or more of the prominent favorites of the stage.

The revelation that the King of American Finance had furnished some of the concern's capital, proved a big surprise to those in the financial district, who are familiar with his penchant for picking out "sure things." They are wondering how so astute and experienced a master as Morgan came to be lured into an enterprise so far removed from the thrills of finance, especially one so prosaic and tedious as the millinery. It is a mystery, the business of supplying head ornaments for the gossamer set. Wall street says the stock game beaten a thousand ways.

Some of those in the street, who affect to know say that Mr. Morgan, in spite of all the stories his enemies tell of him, has a soft spot in his heart for those who are struggling to get to the front, and that he has helped out hundreds of business people in the same way.

Public smoking by women in the fashionable hotels and restaurants of the city is again occupying the attention of the city authorities. There has been a considerable increase in this practice among women of the better set ever since the Ritz Carlton management set aside the "no smoking" rule for those who like the "weed." Every afternoon from 3 o'clock until 6 this room is filled with fashionably dressed women who, between sips of the Chinese-Indian vintage, puff their gold and cork tipped cigarettes in evident enjoyment.

Protests to the management against the practice have been of no avail. The hotel is run by a wealthy syndicate operating establishments under the same name in most of the European capitals, where cigarette smoking by women in public is looked upon as eminently proper. American women, who patronize these hotels while abroad, smoke as freely as do the European women, according to the Ritz Carlton management. The fact that they want to do it here also, the hotel people say, is evident by the number who are taking advantage of the privilege daily in their New York establishment.

Encouraged by the favor which has marked the innovation of the Ritz-Carlton, other hotels and restaurants in the city have recently removed the traditional ban from women smoking and now allow their patrons to smoke as long and as often as they want to. Once a rare sight to see a woman smoke in public, it is now common place. Hearing the protests of a large element in the city, who believe the practice inimical to public morals and want it stopped, the Board of Aldermen has asked the Corporation Counsel to determine their authority to pass an ordinance making it illegal. Three years ago the board passed such a law, but Mayor McEllen, vetoed it, claiming it was unconstitutional. Now the city fathers want to have a legal opinion upon this point before proceeding to re-enact the ordinance.

Art's Quick Work Successful
New York's art colony is greatly interested in the achievement of Frederick Stahr, a slightly built young man, who in a single week completed a symbolic picture of "Good Government," which won him a $5,000 prize at the hands of a committee of the Metropolitan Museum of Art. His money, apportioned off at the rate of $1,000 a year for three years will be used to defray his expenses for a trip to Rome, where he is to study the mural paintings of the world's famous artists on exhibition there.

Before completing his painting Stahr was unheard of. He belongs to a poor family living on Staten Island in the outskirts of the city and has been helping to support his mother and sister working as a sign painter. A week before the contest closed, he learned of it and decided to enter. For seven days he worked on his conception of "Good Government" with little rest.

His mother and sister brought his meals to him in his little studio in an out of the way street and from early morning until late into the night he toiled on. Within an hour of the time fixed for the end of the contest he added the last touch to his work. Packing it up he hurried to the Academy of Design, with it tucked under his arm. Nine other paintings had been submitted.

Interesting Facts Concerning Women

The Los Angeles Tribune of September 10 says:

It has become clearly apparent that every interest identical with plutocracy in this state has been ordered into line to fight against the adoption of the equal suffrage amendment. It is a tremendous opposition that has been invoked to overwhelm the women battling for political equality and to stifle their demand for justice. The character of the agencies and interests that are thus leagued together is such as call for the utmost endeavor and vigilance on the part of all who stand for the right.

"Supporting suffrage, men of character and conscience will be opposing the Southern Pacific machine, for it opposes suffrage. If local proof were needed, it is supplied by the mere glance at the Committee of Fifty, the roll of membership of which reads like a list of the most prominent names in the state. The S. P. has created just such organizations in almost every campaign to do its work, and the people have grown so familiar with its tactics that the deceit has become transparent. While the conspicuous selfish body of the committee remains exposed to public view, it is idle to thrust the Southern Pacific head in a bush of concealment and hope to be unseen."

"Supporting suffrage, men who believe in the sacredness of womanhood, and who believe in the rights of the people, oppose the associated forces of Special Privilege and Private Interest that are ever striving for government by plutocracy for the exclusive benefit of Big Business. All those forces are arrayed against justice to women, and are doing damage to the cause of equal suffrage wherever money can make mischief."

"Influences that will not bear examination and that could not endure the light of day, secretly and stealthily are being employed to compel men who at heart recognize the righteousness of the demands of the women, to oppose them. Under such conditions the supporters of the amendment that will establish political equality have a right to appeal for the active help of every progressive citizen who believes in good government."

"Abstract considerations of justice and the requirements of the square deal being for the moment set aside, good government to the real issue involved in this fight against giving women the ballot."

"MERE MOTHERS."
An interesting incident came under my observation recently which may have escaped general notice. It was in regard to a petition sent to one of the city departments concerning the welfare of children of the city, and was signed by about 100 names. It happened to him, Mr. Sims, referred to children, so I waited, to see what would happen. As the days went by and nothing was done, I thought I would inquire, so I sought the offices of the department. The chief was out of town, and I was told to wait. I waited for a week, and then I was told to wait some more. I waited for a month, and then I was told to wait some more. I waited for two months, and then I was told to wait some more.
