19110 On the 17th November, 1849, the late Rev. Abram Wood united in the bonds of matrimony, at Waterborough, Queens county, Geo. W. White and Mary Wiggins, daughter of the late Eben Wiggins. The bride has reached the three score and ten, while the groom is her senior by three years. They both still are very active, enjoy good health, and retain many impres sions of the early part of the 19th century. One of the most interesting family satherings was held at their home in Centreville on the 17th inst., to celebrate their golden wedding, with their hildren, grandchildren and friends, who all joined in making the occasion one of particular pleasure to the worthy couple. One hundred persons were present from Michigan, Houlton and various other places. Among the invited guests were: L. A. and G. N. White, A. C. Gibson and wife, G. L. White and wife, Dr. Pep-

Burtt and wife, Mrs. Henry Bradley, Frank and Fred Gibson, Clinton, Helen and Mollie Cody, Gwendolyn White, and seventyothers. Many congratulations in letters were received by the bride and groom from those who were unable to attend, together with many valuable gold pres-ents, including a gold-headed cane the most distressing accidents which and a valuable brooch to the bride, presented by their eight children, upon which were inscribed the recipients' name and the initials of the children's names, as tokens expressing their best wishes for an extension of the many years of happiness that Mr. and Mrs. White have enjoyed. Both the interested parties were nnual Wage Agitation in Cotton Mill Towns to the Front-Interesting Items About Provincialists at the Hub and Vicinity.

(From Our Own Correspondent.) BOSTON, Nov. 20.-Boston has been avored sgain with more open weaher. Yesterday and today it was mild and warm, with dust flying in the country districts. There has been only one snow flurry this season, and that was not sufficient to whiten the ground.

The market men are looking around brisk. A large amount of produce, fowl, sheep, etc., will come from the provinces. Prices of all kinds of market stuff are generally high, as the housekeeper learns when an attempt is made to supply a Sunday table for scarce, many manufacturers find themselves short, and prices are moving upward. The unusually large consumption, scarcity of vessels and lack of cars are the principal causes of the shortage. The low water in New England streams all summer and in the early fall compelled many manufacturing plants to fall back on their coal supply in lieu of the cheaper power, and as a result their sheds are by no means full. Practically every cotton mill and most of the woollen mills are running on full time, thereby consuming an enormous amount of fuel. Soft coal seems to be scarcer than the anthracite. Stove coal at retail here is worth $6. This year, thus far, 127,705 tons of provincial coal have been received here.

Heavier receipts from the provinces, high prices and a sudden falling off in building operations hereabouts, have imparted an easier tone to the spruce lumber trade here. While the market is still in a satisfactory condition, yet the demand has lessened and the ward march of prices has been che ed. The agreement prices decided upon in October by millmen still pre-vail, but in some cases lumber has sold below the quotations. A quiet market during the winter months is looked for. Thanksgiving day this year falls on Nov. 30, only about thres weeks from Christmas, so that for the next month the country trade is expected to be as good as a week ago. Barrel herring are in short supply, with prices higher. Nova Sco-tia split are quoted at $6.50 to 7; me-dium, $5.50 to 6, and Mancy Scatteri at $8. Sardines are firmer at $3.50 to 3.70 for quarter oils and $3.75 to 3.95 for three-quarter mustards. Canned lobeters continue scarce and firm at $3.25 for flats and $3 to 3.10 for talls. For the space of a year, at the request of his father, he refrained from visiting Miss Alderson, but at the expiration of that period he found that his attachment had in no wise abated. His father thereupon told him that he might marry if he liked, but that he should receive no marrying allowance. The son married and for eight years supported himself and his wife mainly by journalistic and his wife mainly by journalistic work. He was at that time member of work.
