SIX WITNESSES WERE CALLED AT SEVENTH DAY OF THIRD TRIAL OF PARIS CHARGED WITH MURDER

New Evidence Introduced by Crown as to Date of Gasoline Transaction Caused Surprise—Lively Tilt Between Opposing Counsel—Truro Witnesses Testify as to Dates When Paris Was in Nova Scotia Town.

The seventh day of the third trial of John Paris, charged with the murder of little Sadie McAuley, on August 2 last, broke fine and warm, and the proceedings in the circuit court had a tendency to lag at times, throughout the long day's grind, owing no doubt to the change of atmosphere. Those connected with the trial, and the throng of people who crowded the court room, were given an opportunity of recovering from their lethargy, however, when late in the afternoon, after Stanley Nichols had sworn positively that he had received no gasoline from the Imperial Oil Co. prior to Aug. 2, in that month, the Attorney-General produced an original slip of the company, showing the sale of gasoline to Nichols on August 1, and asked the witness to explain it. At this juncture in the proceedings, there ensued quite a lively tilt between the opposing counsel, which drew forth some caustic comments from both sides in regard to certain matters, which each alleged had not been cleared up. Mr. Justice Barry was forced to intervene and the hearing continued, adjournment coming shortly afterwards. In all, six witnesses were on the stand yesterday, four of whom had not previously testified at any of the other trials.

The morning session opened with George Hill on the stand, under cross-examination by the Attorney-General. The witness said that he had known Paris since the latter was ten or twelve years old. He first knew that he would be called at this trial about three weeks ago. He said that the fact that the accused had been on trial twice before had not bothered him, as he did not know the date on which he had seen Paris on his marks. He knew that it was the last part of July or the first part of August.

He was alone on the marsh talking to Paris when Connolly drove along in his wagon. He said that he did not see Isaac Allen that day. Witness said that Connolly had a suit of clothes for his brother, Lloyd. Paris asked if there were any marmosets, and then started back towards Truro.

Lester Connolly

Lester Connolly of Truro was the next witness for the defense. He said that his sister-in-law died on August 3 last, and that same afternoon he had gone to George Hill's farm to deliver a suit of clothes to his brother-in-law, Lloyd. On his return there was a funeral service for his sister-in-law.

To the Attorney-General he said he did not know the minister who conducted the service.

At this juncture a tilt between the Attorney-General and Mr. Vernon occurred over questions regarding the knowledge of the service. Mr. Vernon offered to produce the death certificate.

"What I would like you to produce," said Mr. Byrne, "is the personal ledger of Mr. Ogilvie in the Eastern Hat & Cap Co. in which you say was entered the payment of ninety cents to Paris."

Continuing, the witness said that it was George Hill who had spoken to him regarding giving evidence at this trial. He said he drove down to Hill's in the afternoon, and saw another man near Hill, but could not say if he were a white man.

Isaac Allen

Another new witness was then called in the person of Isaac Allen, butcher of Lower Truro. He said that he knew Paris, and had driven him from Moose Creek Bridge to Truro on the morning of August 3, and that was the only time during that period he had seen him. There was a small colored boy with Paris at the time. The witness said that he took some meat into Norman Carter's store on that date.

Cross-examined he said that he knew Paris was on trial for his life on the former occasion, but did not make known his knowledge of having seen the accused on August 3. On further questioning, he said there might be other John Parises.

Afternoon Session

When the court resumed session in the afternoon, Isaac Allen was again placed on the stand, and cross-examination by the Attorney-General continued. Mr. Byrne said that the witness wished to be fair with the accused, but one of the theories advanced by the Crown was that if Paris had left St. John on the night of Aug. 3, he could get to Truro on the morning of the 4th, and be there on the 4th and 5th, leaving again on the night of the 5th, arriving in St. John on the morning of the 6th. The witness admitted that according to that theory, he could have seen the accused in Truro on the 4th and 5th. He said that he fixed the date of Aug. 3 as the time when he saw Paris, by turning over the records on his books. Speaking from memory alone he would not undertake to fix the date. It was four months afterwards that his attention was called to the matter.

At this point the witness was called upon to exert his memory in describing what he had done on Aug. 3, 4th and 5th. He said that his birthday fell on Aug. 5, and that "he would never forget those days, the 3rd, 4th and 5th." Asked why he could not remember what had happened on the 2nd, he said that he had no tab of that. He swore beyond any possible doubt that it was not on Aug. 4 that he had driven Paris, and said that, from memory alone he could look back and say that it was not on the 4th that he had driven a man. He also said that he could look back four months and, from memory, fix the date of Aug. 4th, but not Aug. 2nd.

Here he was again called upon to recount his doing on the days he said he could remember. In referring to the trip from Moose Creek Bridge to Truro, Mr. Byrne asked the witness if he could remember how Paris was dressed or if he had a moustache on that occasion, but the witness was unable to say as to either. Asked regarding the conversation which he and the accused had had on that occasion, the witness remarked that there was something said about marmosets, and that Paris had mushrooms with him at the time. The only fragment of conversation which he could remember was to the effect that the witness had said, "Jack, I haven't seen you for some little while," to which Paris replied, "No, it's been some time since you saw me."

In answer to a question as to whether Aug. 3 was the date of the Chantiqua parade, Mr. Allen replied that he had been at a gathering in Truro on that day, but he had seen no parade of children. Asked why, in the interests of justice he had not made known the information he had given this court, until after Paris had been sentenced to death, he said that his conscience had bothered him afterwards.

Norman Carter.

Another new witness for the defense was introduced in the person of Norman Carter, butcher of Truro. In answer to Mr. Vernon he said that he knew Isaac Allen, and did business with him, in regard to which he kept an account on his books. He produced a book showing entries of marmosets received from Allen on Aug. 3 and 4. This book was submitted in evidence by counsel.

Cross-examined, he said that he was Allen's partner and had been since June 4 last. He said that there was a Chantiqua parade on Aug. 2, and that he had killed a beef on Aug. 3. To his Honor he said that the Allen came to him to have his books examined regarding the delivery by Allen of a load of dead meat.

George Murray.

George Murray said that he worked in Stanley Nichols' garage in Truro last summer, and that he had seen Paris at the garage on one occasion during that time, but was unable to say what date or month it was. He said that Paris had brought in five gallons of gasoline on that day, and that he had entered the receipt in his books. He had paid him for the gasoline, and the company driver had left 150 gallons at the garage on the same day, but had left none there the day preceding.

Cross-examined by the Attorney-General, he said that the oil slips received from the driver were placed on file, but he did not know when they were entered in the books, as Mr. Nichols attended to that. He said that he had heard Nichols tell Paris that he had received 150 gallons that morning.

Stanley Nichols.

Stanley Nichols, garage owner, of Truro, was the next witness for the defense. He said that he had known the accused for ten years. He had five gallons of gasoline from him on the afternoon of Aug. 2, paying him $1.25. He also purchased 150 gallons from the oil company that morning. He identified a slip produced in court as one which the driver of the oil company had left with him on Aug. 2. When Mr. Vernon submitted this slip in evidence, Mr. Byrne entered an objection, on the ground that it was only a carbon copy, and the original should be produced. His Honor admitted the slip as evidence.

The witness identified entries in a book, produced in court, as entries of gasoline made by him on Aug. 2, and also from Paris. He said that this gasoline was the only purchase made by him from the accused that morning. Cross-examined by Mr. Byrne, the witness said that he did not know at the time that the gasoline supplied to Paris was stolen. He admitted that he gave evidence at the preliminary hearing and subsequent trial of Paris for the theft of gasoline on July 26, but he did not produce his books in court at that time.

A witness would not swear John Paris had not been in his garage on July 21, but would swear that he had not bought any gas from him on that date. As to August 2, he admitted that some questioning that he had no way of fixing the date other than by his gasoline sales book. He did not think he had any sales book at the time, but he would not say Paris was wrong if the accused said he did have them there.

As to the date of his purchase of the 150 gallons of gasoline from the Imperial Oil Co., Nichols said he did not learn the exact date until after Paris had been acquitted at the Truro trial. He said that the two oil slips produced, and were identified by the witness as records of sales made to him on the 2nd and 5th of August. Asked if he would swear that the date of the slip marked the 2nd had never been changed by himself or another, he said he would. He said his gasoline sales book contained an accurate and correct record of all gasoline purchased by him both as to the quantity and the date.

The serial number of each sales slip received by him would be the same as duplicate retained by the company, and could not be altered. He was positive he had made no purchase from the company on that date, and that his first purchase in the month of August was made on the 2nd. The sales slip for the 2nd bore the serial number 585,503, while that dated the 1st bore the number 585,482.

A sharp passage at arms between Mr. Vernon and the attorney-general followed the production of the new evidence introduced by the crown. Mr. Vernon said the date on the slip had been changed and defied the prosecution to produce Blair McCurdy, the oil company's driver.

Judge Barry interposed and said it was a very serious statement to say the date had been changed by any one, either to convict an innocent man, or to allow a guilty man to escape. Mr. Byrne said Mr. Vernon had

Automobile Assn. Annual Meeting

T. P. Regan Re-elected President—Will Co-operate With Commissioner of Safety on Traffic Improvements.

A full attendance of members from different parts of the province characterized the annual meeting of the New Brunswick Automobile Association, which was held last evening, in the Board of Trade rooms, with the president, T. P. Regan, in the chair. Mr. Regan, in his opening remarks, welcomed the outside members of the association, and also reviewed the activities and progress of the organization during the past year.

The secretary, Charlton Berrie, read a telegram from the Nova Scotia Motor League, informing the association that the drive to the right law had been passed in that province, and will take effect on Jan. 1, 1923. The secretary's report, among other things showed that, since April 10, eighty-two motor vehicles had been sent out to people in different parts of Canada and the United States, who had written in asking about touring and road conditions in this province.

R. G. Lee of Fredericton, who has motored all over North America addressed the meeting, at some length, telling in a most interesting manner, of his experiences derived from being a member of the N. B. A. He said that in travelling in other parts of the continent, he found that the association emblem on the car proved an "open sesame," and that he was accorded every courtesy and the best of service all along the line, one of the chief reasons for which he accredited to the fact that he was a member of the automobile association.

It was decided, last evening, that meetings would be held in the different towns of the province for the purpose of presenting to motor owners the aims and objects of the association, and the benefits to be derived from membership in it. It was also decided that every town in the province would have a local representative of the N. B. A. whose duty will be to impart information necessary to a motorist making a trip out of the province, and to indicate the places to which and the routes along which he will have travel.

Dr. William Warwick informed the meeting that the Public Health Commission will be held here between the dates June 6th to 9th, and asked for the co-operation of the association in entertaining the visiting delegates by supplying cars for one afternoon. On motion, it was decided that this request should be granted.

A lengthy discussion took place in regard to traffic conditions in and around the city, and in particular with reference to those at the head of King street. It was finally decided that the president should be empowered to appoint a committee to wait on the commissioner of public safety, with a view to co-operating with him in regard to any possible improvements, which might at any time be suggested.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: T. P. Regan, St. John—President; R. Downing Patterson, St. John—1st Vice-President; R. G. Lee, Fredericton—2nd Vice-President; E. W. Givran, Moncton—3rd Vice-President; H. J. E. Michaud, Edmundston—4th Vice-President; S. B. Meckbert, Chatham—5th Vice-President; Hon. Dr. W. F. Roberts, St. John—Chairman Legislative Committee; Percy W. Thomson, St. John—Chairman Good Roads Committee; J. F. Tilton, St. John—Chairman Publicity Committee.

Board of Directors—L. R. Ross, St. John; R. G. Lee, Fredericton; H. J. E. Michaud, Edmundston; H. M. Wood, Sackville; W. R. Carson, St. Stephen; M. N. Mowat, Campbellton; Charles T. Green, St. John.

Mr. take the stand, and Dr. Wallace advised the counsel for the defense to be careful in what he said. Mr. Vernon addressed the court and said that he did not wish to say the date had been changed for the purpose of the defense, but that he had been changed for the purpose of the defense, and that he had been changed for the purpose of the defense. He said that the crown had witnesses at the last trial who they did not now dare to produce, and Mr. Byrne retorted by asking why the defense had not produced Mr. Ogilvie's personal account.

Mr. Vernon promised to produce witnesses who would make the prosecution "eat crow" today, and the judge directed the counsel to continue with the case.

Up to the time the crown sprung the surprise on the defense, many of the jurors, owing to the vivid description of the courtroom were reduced to a state of drowsiness, but the tilt had the effect of a summer's thunderstorm and cleared the atmosphere, so that all were listening keenly to the evidence till the court adjourned.

Nichols was asked if he would swear that the figure "0" in his sales book, showing his purchase from Paris, had not been changed from a "4," and was asked to look at it with a magnifying glass. He did so, and said that he would. The book was then submitted to the jury for their scrutiny, and after it had passed the rounds, the court adjourned.
