INSURANCE: Every man believes in both fire and life insurance. Why? Because of the protection it affords. The first step toward the insurance of a good crop is the purchase of good seeds. Can you afford to be without this insurance? Why take the risk when the protection is largely within your own choice and keeping?

SPRING RYE

One of the most profitable crops to grow. Possesses the double advantage of being used either for hay in green state or for grain. Many farmers sow Rye as a cleaning crop, especially to eradicate Wild Oats. The cost, compared with its enormous yield, high quality of feed and ease of cultivation, is trifling.

1½ bushels sows an acre.....1.35 1.50

WINTER RYE

The coming crop of the West. Increasing in popularity by leaps and bounds. Can be sown with advantage in June and July, thus producing abundant fall pasturage the same year, and the earliest green pasturage the following spring, and will still produce a grain crop. We recommend ordering early—Our stock is extra selected and re-cleaned.
