

SMILE IF YOU GOT IN

Eric Champion was jubilant Wednesday night. He is our new First Vice-President. Eric's two friends seem to enjoy being with him. . . let's hope he can hold his own for the next 12 months.

Lawson Hunter, SRC President by acclamation was smiling too. Now he and vice-president Eric Champion are faced with the problem of setting up committees and preparing to reconstitute the SRC, as they proposed before the election.

UGEQ Loses At McGill

A late report from Montreal says that the students of McGill University have voted down their SRC-proposed entry into UGEQ. The organization is a French-Canadian student organization.

The proposal was defeated for the second time. In December a referendum was held but it was declared invalid because of irregularities at one of the polls.

Our McGill source said the turnout at the polls was uncertain but that 56% of the voters were anti-UGEQ. Discussion before the referendum was "unusually quiet", he said. This was in contrast to last term's debate.

In November the McGill Daily supported UGEQ to the extent that the anti-UGEQ faction at McGill published their own paper, Resistance.

This time there was only a short note in Tuesday's Daily, which mentioned the second referendum. "We really heard about it from the Resistance," our source said.
