

At last one day when they and some other new disciples were all gathered together in an upper room, suddenly a sound like a mighty, rushing wind came sweeping through the house. A beautiful light like a flame of fire came and rested on each disciple's head. The light was the sign of the gift of God's Spirit.

As the beautiful light rested upon them, a wonderful change came to the disciples' hearts. They became braver, truer, nobler hearts, hearts filled with even greater longing to work for Jesus.

Shall we not ask God to send his Holy Spirit down upon us? He will not come with a light upon our heads as he did in those olden times. But he will come into our hearts in the same way that he came to those first disciples. He will help us to be wise and true and brave.
