The property owners along South Railway street met the council on Friday evening last to discuss the proposal of having the C. N. R. pass along South Railway street. In fact no poor crop was to be seen. During the afternoon several lectures were delivered by experts on different subjects, and those who went to learn had ample opportunity to secure useful information. Thursday was the last day of the excursions and those along the main line claim that they have been the last visitors for the past few years, and have expressed a wish that the order should be changed and they be given a chance to visit the farm on the first day of these excursions.

The secretary of the live stock associations of Saskatchewan has issued a circular of inquiry to all the breeders of purebred stock in Saskatchewan, whose names have been secured. The object of the inquiry is to gather facts for a directory of the breeders of purebred stock in Saskatchewan. The large number of inquiries that the secretary receives from persons who wish to buy purebred stock for breeding purposes has impressed him with the need of this work. The directory will be published as soon as information is received from the live stock men, and will contain the kind and breed of stock raised and the number that he has for sale. Persons who have received the circular will be promoting their own interests by returning it as soon as possible to the secretary, F. Hedley Auld, Regina, while every person in the province who has purebred stock of any kind is invited to communicate with the secretary for a copy of the circular in order to impart the necessary facts. The great number of people who are asking for purebred stock is sufficient evidence that the interests of the breeders will be greatly promoted by supplying the information asked for.
