Glen Buell Architecture

GLEN BUELL, Oct. 10, '04.

Mr. Editor.—The Glen Buell correspondent wants to know who built the chimney on the Glen Buell school-room. Being one of the trustees, I thought it my duty to uphold the honor of the old schoolroom and try to give an answer to the problem that causes so much sensation.

Mr. Gray, the old president of the Belle farm, while working at Joseph Towns, highly recommended a certain bricklayer and plasterer; so we, the trustees, employed the man to do the work, which he did in the latest style. But the Glen Buell correspondent thinks the chimney is crooked. I think the correspondent's eyes are a little crooked. The taping is better than to have the children freezing, as they have been when the ex trustee was in.

PERPENDICULARIS.

W. C. T. U. CONVENTION

The eighteenth annual convention of Leeds County Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held in the Methodist church, Athens, on Friday last. For a variety of reasons, the attendance was not as large as was expected, but there was a good representation of delegates and all the county officers were present excepting Mrs. Britton of Gananoque, who had been called to Toronto by the death of her father.

The three sessions held, under the able direction of the County President, Mrs. Wm. Johnston, were of a decidedly business character.

The morning session opened at 9.30, and following devotional exercises the usual committees were appointed. Reports of the county superintendents were then presented and all indicated that good work was being done by the subordinate unions in the various departments. The report of the county treasurer showed the finances to be in a satisfactory condition. Mrs. C. C. Slack, the corresponding secretary, gave an excellent report of the work of her office during the year.

At the opening of the afternoon session, Mrs. I. C. Aigue gave a Scripture reading, the minutes of the morning session were read and confirmed, and the reports of local unions presented. Several of these reports were incomplete, but on the whole they showed that members were alive to the importance of the great work of the union and desirous of promoting it. A paper by Mrs. Mackie of Lake Elio-da on "Work Among Lumbermen" was heard with a great deal of interest and pleasure. Mrs. Mackie has been a most zealous worker in this, keeping it constantly before the local and provincial unions and originating plans of work for increasing its resources and efficiency. With Mrs. Dowsley of Brockville presiding, a "parliamentary drill" on the subject of "Franchises" was conducted, in which nearly all present took part.

A resolution of condolence with Mrs. Britton on the death of her father was passed. The subjects of Temperance and Hygiene, as taught in the public schools, received attention, and it was resolved that no changes should be made in the curriculum that would give them less recognition than they now receive. The excellent work done by Miss Whitworth of Brockville in organizing an anti-cigarette league was recognized in a resolution.

The question box contained several enquiries, and these were answered very satisfactorily by the president and Mrs. Hughes.

Immediately on the arrival of the train from Brockville in the evening, an extra session was held at which officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:—

President—Mrs. Wm. Johnston.
1st Vice-Pres.—Mrs. B. O. Britton.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. M. Dowsley.
Rec. Sec.—Miss G. Coad.
Cor. Sec.—Mrs. C. C. Slack.
Treas.—Miss Jessie Findley.

At the evening session a very large audience assembled and the interesting programme presented was closely followed. The meeting opened with devotional exercises conducted by the pastor of the church, Rev. S. J. Hughes. Mrs. Johnston presided over the meeting, and her annual address as County President was a very able deliverance. After extending a warm welcome to the visitors and making a sympathetic reference to the causes preventing the attendance of several worthy workers in the cause, she briefly reviewed the work of the county. As one of the duties of the hour, she emphasized the importance of instructing and educating the children along temperance lines. Looking abroad as well as at home, the President saw much that was encouraging to temperance workers. On the continent of Europe as well as in Great Britain and the United States a determined effort was being put forth to stay the progress of the evil of strong drink. The statistics of crime and insanity traceable to this cause were alarming even the nations that had a short time ago manifested only indifference. In this country, despite the disheartening effect of the era of legislative uncertainty through which the temperance cause had passed, progress was being made. In support of this latter statement, figures were quoted and conditions stated as they exist in the various provinces of the Dominion, from which it was made plain that prohibitionists are far from fighting a hopeless battle. The Scriptural quotation at the bottom of the programme correctly expresses the tenor of the concluding part of this able address: "Be ye strong, therefore, and let not your hands be weak, for your work shall be rewarded."

Rev. Mr. Hughes spoke briefly, highly commending the President's address.

Rev. R. B. Patterson delivered a brief address, in which he expressed his sympathy with the work sought to be promoted by the union.

Rev. Mr. Emmet of Brockville spoke most earnestly and forcibly along temperance and prohibition lines for upwards of an hour, and received the close attention of the large audience.

A recitation, "Rock of Ages," was very feelingly given by Miss Weeks and vocal solos by Mrs. Emmet and Miss F. E. Dowsley of Brockville.

The full choir of the church, under Mr. Clow's leadership, rendered a fine choral service.

DELTA

Miss Helen Wood of Plevna, who has been visiting her relatives, returned to Kingston to attend college.

Mrs. Phillips and daughter of Orillia, who came to Delta for the purpose of attending the wedding of her son to Miss Anna E. Copeland, have returned home.

Filling silos is now the order of the week. The corn crop is not as good as in previous years.

From the appearance of the orchard generally this fall, pines and apple sauce will be dished out at a premium this winter.

Potato digging is about completed. They are a fair crop. Some farmers are complaining of the rot.

Mrs. S. H. Mott has gone to Toronto to join her husband, who is a High School teacher there.

The Delta Methodist choir has lost a fine singer in the person of Miss Anna E. Copeland, recently married, and has received a valuable successor, Miss Bernice Jackson, a young lady with a good voice.

James J. Sexton and his sisters have moved to Delta to live. James will do the fish business at the upper lake.

Miss Emma Johnston of Charleston visited her sister, Mrs. H. E. Johnson, and returned home last week.

There were glad tidings of great joy came to the home of Rev. and Mrs. G. H. Williams, when a little son arrived to be one of the guests.

A PAGE OF THE PAST

Through the kindness of a delegate to the W.C.T.U. convention held here Friday, the Reporter is able to reproduce the following ancient "extra" of the Recorder. Those were strenuous days in the political history of this country, and the jubilant, exclamatory notes in the announcement were no doubt re-echoed with three cheers and a tiger by the victorious party. There is nothing new under the sun, history repeats itself, and to-day the sons and grandsons of the voters of that day are putting on their political war paint and going forth to battle. And shall we add, in the words of the preacher, "all is vanity and vexation of spirit"?

Diminished Vitality

Some people talk very flippantly about diminished vitality.

They don't stop to think that vitality is the principle of life—that it is that little understood something on which every function of their bodies depends.

Diminished vitality is early indicated by loss of appetite, strength and endurance, and Hood's Sarsaparilla is the greatest vitalizer.

THE MAN IN THE MOON.

Some Curious and Varied Beliefs as to His Identity.

According to Plutarch, the man in the moon is the patriarch Isaac, carrying the bundle of sticks which were to be lighted to sacrifice his own body on the mountain top. Dante believes him to be Cain, carrying a bundle of thorns, the meanness offering his lands afforded, as a present to God. In Iceland the people claim that they can see the face of Adam in the moon and that of Eve in the sun. Among the Frieburgers there is a superstition which says that the marks and spots on the moon's face are the outlines of the traitor Judas Iscariot, holding his hand over his face while sneezing just prior to hanging himself. This last belief accords with the old Frankish legend which says that there was no spot on Luna's bright face until after the time of the crucifixion of Christ. Still another story tells us that in the time of the creation God threw an offending angel against the face of the moon, while another is to the effect that the moon witnessed the creation of Adam and Eve and took an impress of their features on his surface, intending to people his own land with similar beings. When he essayed to imitate God's works, he made nothing but a slimy serpent, which since that day has continued to fold and unfold its mighty coils in full view of the descendants of the God created beings.

THE TOMB OF CAIN.

It is Said to Be Not Far From the City of Damascus.

The early traditions concerning the city of Damascus are curious and interesting, even though untrustworthy and contradictory. By some of the ancient writers it was maintained that the city stands on or near the site of the garden of Eden, and just opposite there is a beautiful meadow of red earth from which he created Adam. This field is called Ager Damascus, and near its center there formerly stood a pillar which was said to mark the precise spot where our first parent was created. A few miles off there is an eminence called the Mountain of Abel, supposed by some to be the place where the first two brothers offered their sacrifices, also the spot where the first murder was committed. The most interesting spot pointed out, however, is about three leagues from the city, where an old ruin is shown which all the orient believes to be the tomb of Cain. The traditions respecting this famous spot are known to antedate the Christian era by several hundred years. Up to the time of Vespasian the interior of the tomb is said to have been lighted and warmed by one of the "ever burning" lamps so commonly used by the ancients.

THE FERRONNIERE.

An Ornament That Probably Dates Back to Remote Antiquity.

A ferronniere was a band or chain round the head, holding a jewel in the center of the forehead. The last instance of its being in fashionable use was furnished by America early in the nineteenth century. Mrs. Earle, the historian of transatlantic costume, vouches for this curious survival. This ornament is known to have been popular in Europe in the sixteenth century, and in the east it could probably be traced back to remote antiquity. Biblical students know that the Jews, following a custom of the ancient Egyptians, often adopted this method of wearing their phylacteries, or frontlets, between their eyes.

The modern application of the name is, according to Mrs. Earle, obscure, but there does not appear to be much doubt about the matter. One of the pictures of Leonardo da Vinci goes by the name of "La Belle Ferronniere." It would seem to be a portrait of Lucrezia Crivelli, a favorite of Ludovico Sforza, and, as the lady is depicted wearing one of these ornaments, it is clear that the name owes its revival to this picture—London Standard.

An Odd Swimming Contest.

Sir John Pakington, a courtier of Queen Elizabeth, was a reckless layer of wagers. He once bet £3,000 that he would swim the Thames from the bridge at Westminster to the bridge at Greenwich faster than three relays of young noblemen. Sir John won this bet. The relays of noblemen, though they swam hard, were badly beaten. The queen was present at the race, and to the losers she gave, by way of a consolation prize, a butt of sack.

Character Analysis.

"He is a great deal of an optimist," said one bright girl.
"Yes," answered the other, "and an egotist as well."
"Can one be both?"
"Certainly. He is cheerful because he firmly believes that the world cannot go wrong so long as he lives in it and looks out for it."

A Venus.

Sister—You have told me her name, yet I know no more than I did before. Is she beautiful? Brother—Beautiful! Why, she could make even the present fashions look artistic.

Knew by the Question.

"Doctor," said the patient, entering the office with a most lugubrious expression, "how does a man feel that has indigestion?" Doctor—You haven't got it!

Always.

Hewitt—What is the best business to which a young man can give his attention? Jewett—His own.—Harper's Bazar.

Thousands of

Are Using

Zutoo

Before taking Zutoo many doubted my assertion that it will cure any headache, sick, bilious, nervous or otherwise in 20 minutes, cure a cold in a night and stop the monthly pains of women. More still doubted our statement that, unlike the drug cures it will leave no bad effects behind. They have no doubts now, however, on either point. On the contrary, they now swear by Zutoo. One dose converted them and one dose will convert you. A woman who once takes them invariably becomes a permanent user.
