Mr. Major Theakston, of Halifax, the father of newspapermen in Wolfville and many other towns, the publisher of a paper here called The Acadian, recently celebrated his 84th birthday. For many years Mr. Theakston has been engaged in mission work in Halifax where he has done splendid service. That he is still in harness is evidenced by a handbill which we have received describing a contest which he has arranged for those engaged in 'Back Yard Farming' in the city.

The Baptist people of Wolfville were very highly favored on Sunday morning last when Professor Osborne, of the University of Manitoba, occupied the pulpit of their church and preached to a large and appreciative congregation. The sermon, which had special reference to the world war, was an able and eloquent one and listened to with close attention. The speaker drew his central thoughts from the words of Paul in his letter to the Galatians, 2:20, "There can be neither Jew nor Greek, there can be neither bond nor free, there can be no male nor female: for ye all are one man in Christ Jesus." Professor Osborne spoke in the highest terms of the beauty of Wolfville and vicinity, surpassing anything of the kind he had seen in the loveliness of his natural scenery.

L. W. SLEEP.

A Record Family.

Mrs. John L. Murphy, of this town, has already seen four of her sons leave for the overseas fighting, and now her son Harry, who has been in the West for several years, arrived in town on Monday on his way to the front. He belongs to a regiment that have been stationed in Winnipeg for some months undergoing the necessary preparations. This makes five sons, all strong young men, all fighters, that she has sent to the front.

Harry had a somewhat interesting experience while journeying from the West to his home here a couple of days in advance of his regiment. While passing through Quebec, he was seriously insulted by the natives, spit upon and booed. Harry was alone, but they could not frighten him. Nothing is more like a red rag to a bull than for a French-Canadian to see anyone in khaki.

A Pretty June Wedding.

On the 20th of June, 1917, at 2:30 p. m., a very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Pick, when their eldest daughter, Vesta May, graduate and recent L. brian of Acadia College, was united in marriage to Mr. Philip Sidney Liley, formerly a prosperous young farmer of Somerset, N. S., now holding a position in the Botany Department of the Agricultural College at Guelph, Ontario.

To the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, played by Mrs. R. R. Blauvelt of Lawrencetown, N. S., the bride entered the parlor leaning on the arm of her father and took her place beside the groom under an arch of apple blossoms and ferns. She was the picture of girlish beauty in her handsome dress of silk crepe de chene and lace, wearing a veil caught up with lilies of the valley and carrying a bouquet of lilies of the valley and orchids.

Rev. N. A. Harkness, pastor of the Wolfville Baptist church, officiated, using the double ring ceremony, in the presence of the immediate relatives and girl friends, followed by a solo "Because," sung by Mr. Lewis Pick, brother of the bride, accompanied by Miss Frances Stackhouse.

After congratulations and dainty refreshments, the happy couple left by auto, and showers of confetti and good wishes, for the afternoon express enroute to their future home in Guelph, Ontario, on their way intending to visit Truro, Ottawa, Montreal and Toronto.

The numerous and beautiful gifts received, including a large amount of silver, cut glass, nipped china, linen and money, testified to the popularity of the bride and groom. The present to the bride was a substantial cheque; to the pianist and accompanist, brooches set with amethysts and pearls and to the soloist, an emerald and pearl stickpin.

You cannot pull the wool over the eyes of the modern housewife. She knows or soon finds out the quality of what she buys. In former times many fraudulent articles were advertised in the belief that people liked to be fooled. Nowadays, to make advertising pay, there must be repeat sales and established confidence. That means the article advertised must be worth the price asked.
