THE JAMAICAN OUESTION. The Jamaican Legislative Council, hav-

Canada, has agreed to consider a Reciprocity treaty with the United States, and pledged the Island to make up any deficiency which may arise in the revenue from such a cause. It will be interesting to the Canadian opponents of the confederation project to know that it is proposed to meet this deficiency by the imposition of an additional duty on fish imported from Canada, and cottons manufactured elsewhere than in the United States. One of the members of the Legislative Council said, during the discussion, that English cottons could compete in this if it is possible to prevent it. Not 6 set the idle spindles of New England in the field we stand a very good chance of being left out altogether.

THE TORY CONVENTION.

On Dec. 17th and 18th the Tories will one magnificent, affectionate, acclaim it appears that the English language in is away off. The Tory party is numerically strong enough and can get from public and private sources money enough to make the fortieth anniversary of Sir John Macdonald's entrance into public life very conspicuous occasion.

But when it is all over, when the char paigne has been drunk and the head aches have passed away, when the bills are footed and the delegates have got t he was when, dripping with the corru ing rejected the proposal of a union with tion of the Pacific Scandal, he gave solemn assurance to Parliament that hands were clean—the same Sir John sold the Railway Charter. Yes the easion is a unique one, and we are glad of it. We hope that the time will never ome, in Canada, when it will be possible o secure from the dominant party the record of Sir John Macdonald.

Don Antonio Conovas del Castello the long and not unmusical name of the Spanish prime minister. He has been threatening." According to him "a con flict between England and the Conti nental powers has been preparing for half a century. France, Germany, Australia, Italy, Russia and the minor States have been occupied during that time with frequent quarrels and with some erious wars. They have had comparaively no time for colonial enterprises or for the development of maritime con of Sebastopol, no serious wars on hand and her energies have been developed to colonization, to consolidating empires abroad, and to extending her commerce

He thinks that the continental powers are about to try their hand at colonization, and that this will lead in the end to concerted action against England, in which Germany will take the lead. He says "Prince Bismarck still guides the destiny of that empire, and there is no be going too far to say that Prince Bismarck hates England, but he abhors her present Government. He believes, also, that there is no better way in which he brilliant reign by Frederick William than by making Germany a great colonial power." He thinks that war is probable "and the result we can only judge by the past. Napoleon failed in similar schemes and became in the end a prisoner in English hands. At the present time Prince Bismarck's power, great as it is, is not equal to Napoleon's at the beginning of the century, and England is far possible that all these things may comto pass, which the Spanish statesman anticipates, but if the efforts of the continental nations abroad are not any more successful than the French assault upon China they will not greatly alter the political complexion of the world.
