LORD NORTHCLEFFE SOUNDS WARNING. (Continued from Page One.) Cluding Mr. Stead, and by others, but they have not yet, as you say, begun to sit up and take notice. Leaders on that side of politics to which I belong, including, I hope, Lord Rosebery, and Mr. Balfour and Mr. Chamberlain, have also directed attention to the need for national precaution, but without avail.

"We have a superb navy. We have in the line a battle fleet, such as the Indomitable and the Inflexible, now in New York, which are the efficient in the sphere of our Maritime and Lusitanian are in their. We are not wasting time on aeroplanes and gas bags but are developing submarines and wireless. Why then worry?"

Those of our people who think as I do are looking ahead. We have the official figures of the German naval programme up to 1912, which are serious enough, but we know that these figures are just as inaccurate as are the figures made public by Germany prior to the Franco-Prussian war of 1871. We know that the German press, unlike that of the United States and Great Britain, is prohibited from telling the truth about these matters. We know that at the Hague Peace conference, Germany declined to discuss the limitation of armaments or the use of floating mines at sea. These are a few of the reasons why many of our younger men think it time that Great Britain should respond effectively to the naval programme of Germany.

FIRST FALL FAIR AT LAKE WABAMUN

(Continued from Page 1.) M.P.P. for the district, was to "press the button," after a few words by C. H. Dunn, the president of the society. Mr. Dunn said he did not think six years ago that in such a short space of time the development of the country would be such that agricultural fair could be so successfully conducted on the shores of Lake Wabamun. He reminded those encircled about him that the Edmonton fair and others in the West had sprung from such small beginnings as this and although small today there was nothing to tell that proportions it might attain. He accordingly declared the first Wabamun fair opened and wished it abundant success.

It was evident that Peter Gunn thought a great deal more than he says and he was not far wrong. Mr. Dunn and with mellowed voice said "Little did we think when we met here six years ago that this fair would be such a scene like this today." A visitor close at hand remarked that he did not think there was another place in the world where such a transformation could be accomplished against such great odds.

Judging of Exhibits. With the fair set on its way, the judges dispersed to perform their tasks in the different tents and in the live stock ring. To everyone who made a round of the exhibits, the wisdom of the fair was at once justified. It was a revelation to the visitors, some of whom were from Edmonton, Stoney Plains and neighboring localities to see the display of vegetables grown by the Wabamun farmers. A. G. Bennett, a man who four years ago entered on a homestead six miles west of Wabamun, showed potatoes which for size, symmetry and texture would take a prize anywhere. He has been experimenting in cross fertilizing with the potato and has perfected some new varieties. Equally commendable were the large exhibits of onions, carrots, turnips, cabbages, green corn and grain. What turnips! The grain was of most excellent quality, the oats being particularly large and plump, the wheat and barley of the best measure. D. R. Fraser of Edmonton, has been in the Wabamun district lately and was so impressed with the growth of the vegetables and grains that he took a collection book with him to show the people of Edmonton what the West country can do.

In keeping with the conditions of the district the prize list slighted registered stock and called for small draft and general purpose horses. One of the judges was A. E. Pattison, farm instructor on the Wabamun Indian reserve. Mr. Pattison, a man who is chief of police of Edmonton and was present at the first agricultural fair held in Edmonton a quarter of a century ago. He was particularly interested in the fair in the Capital City last year, so knew what it meant to see a big fair spring from a small beginning. The newspaper representative, who attended the fair was introduced to Chief Fitzgibbon as a representative of the Bulletin.

"Big talking paper," said the chief with a good-natured grin on his swarthy features. "Indians Want to Show. The chief lamented very much that he had not been given the opportunity of showing his farm and stock fair. He understood that the fair was a place for rivalry among the farmers as to who could produce the most, as a farmer on the reserve, he wanted to be in the race. He said through an interpreter, that he and forty-three sacks of potatoes as good as those at the fair, that he had so many turnips that he wanted to give away two wagon loads. Further enlightening on his agricultural achievements, he said he had cut 140 loads of hay and had six stacks of oats on his farm. Other Indians beside Fitzgibbon were regretting that they were not in the competitions, and as a result the 140 or more Indians on the reserve will probably have a joint exhibit at the fair next year.

Among the leading exhibitors of agricultural products were George Amundson, Mr. Graham lumber dealer, all of Stoney Plains, and John Gillespie of Edmonton. Directors and Judges. The list of directors and judges was as follows: Horses—Director, W. K. Shields; Judge, A. E. Pattison and Mr. McCauley. Cattle—Director, T. Lock; Judges, J. Bell and L. H. Beck. Sheep—Director, A. L. Root; Judges, H. T. Smith and J. McConnell. Hogs—Director, F. J. Francey; Judges, A. E. Hopkins and H. Brown. Poultry—Director, R. S. Hadley; Judges, W. C. Harris and W. Barrett. Vegetables and grain—Directors, T. E. Lord and W. C. Dunn; Judges, Mrs. Hopkins, Mr. Page and Mrs. White. Dairy and kitchen exhibits—Judges, Mrs. Page and Mrs. Francey. Arts and Flowers—Directress, Mrs. Hurst and Mrs. Wood; Judges, Mrs. C. H. Dunn, Mrs. W. C. Dunn, and Miss Reid. Horse races—Director, L. H. Hurst; Judges, H. H. Rondall, R. McClelland, and G. Dixon. Fishing—Director, W. J. Taylor; Judges, Dr. C. E. Carthew and R. P. Cull. Beautiful Lake Wabamun. That the Wabamun fair could organize and successfully conduct such a fair speaks volumes for their unshaken optimism and progressive ness. But they have ambitions other than the agricultural development of their country. They have a beautiful sheet of water in Wabamun and they are not slow in turning this won-
