The Prohibition Act.

Let there should strangely remain some among our legislators who agree with the view which the News takes of this matter and the absurdity we have pointed out to be permitted to go uncorrected, we feel compelled to add another word to the controversy, trusting it will be the last. We would have agreed with that paper that it should require neither a legal mind nor legal training to understand the meaning of plain English if it had not itself provided the strongest proof of the contrary. We invite the News to focus all its attention, not on the phrase concerning which it says so much, but on the preceding one, "Or spirituous liquors containing two per cent. or upward of alcohol by volume." That is the generic description of what is prohibited. It is not plain to any child that it covers every conceivable species of liquor containing that amount of alcohol? And that the following phrase, concerning medicinal, toilet and other preparations, is therefore redundant and gives the Council power merely to specify certain liquors already included in the large definition? And that the very important power of exempting from the operation of the Act is nowhere given it? We will take an example by way of illustration. We believe that Wincarnis contains more than two per cent. of alcohol. If that is so, and if the News will show us how, under the provisions of the Act as it stands, the sale of Wincarnis can possibly be legal, or, assuming that it is a proper medicine to sell, how it can possibly be made legal, we shall not merely recant all the objections we have raised but pay a hundred dollars to any patriotic fund it may indicate. But perhaps the News has objections to bettering.

The whole trouble, we think, has arisen from an endeavour to be too laconic and precise. It is impossible to describe the prohibited liquors generally without including some that ought not to be included; it is equally impossible to define them precisely without leaving out some that ought to be included. The Governor in Council should therefore be empowered to publish both exceptions and additions, where necessary. And the proper method is first to define more exactly what it is intended to forbid.

The Anglican Teachers Meet.

Yesterday morning at 10 o'clock a goodly number of the Anglican teachers who are attending the Summer School met Dr. Blackall in the Synod Building to consider with him the question of religious instruction in the day school. The particular problem considered was the arrangement of the work in the sole-charged or teacher school. It was agreed that the best method would be to divide the whole school into two groups—an upper and a lower—for the purpose of religious instruction and to arrange a lesson with the teacher and a lesson without the teacher for each group on alternate days for Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of each week. It was thought that on Fridays the whole school could and with advantage be taken together and that the teacher could give a talk or conduct a catechism on some point of common interest to the school in relation to the religious or moral life—the point possibly being suggested during the week in connection with the school life. Dr. Blackall dealt particularly with the importance and the difficulty of conducting the lessons for the little ones and gave a practical illustration by conducting—as for a class of little ones—the lesson prescribed in the scheme for religious instruction in Church of England schools for the first week in September.

Obituary.

MISS ANNIE SHEEHAN.

With deep regret we record to-day the passing of an estimable young lady in the person of Miss Annie Sheehan, daughter of Mr. John Sheehan and grand-daughter of Mr. Jno. Hagerty, the well-known naval pilot. The deceased lady was of a lovable disposition, and had won the respect, esteem and admiration of her numerous friends who lament the early death of one who was such a loyal companion and sincere friend. The sympathy of the community goes out to the bereaved relatives in the sad loss they have sustained and the Telegram joins in the general expressions of regret.

Accident at Saw Mill.

Mr. Richard Mealey, of Colinet, St. Mary's Bay, met with a serious accident to his hand a few days ago while working at Simmons' saw mill. The accident occurred while he was in the act of feeding a large circular saw and it is only by good luck that his hand was not severed from his arm. Mr. Mealey suffered much pain and loss of blood while on his way to the train which he joined Saturday night. On reaching the city he was conveyed to the hospital in a cab by Mr. E. H. Whiteaway.

Personal

Doctor A. B. Lehr has received the pleasant information that his son Harry has passed the second year's examination at the Baltimore Dental College, obtaining the remarkable average of 95.9 marks. Mr. Lehr, in the 1916-17 term, came second in the class with an average of 95%. Next year we hope to have the pleasure of welcoming the young Doctor back to St. John's where he will practice his chosen profession.

Household Notes.

All glass bottles in the house should be saved to hold preserves or dried foods.
Outside leaves of lettuce can be cooked for greens.
Bits of cold boiled ham may be utilized in potato salad.
A breakfast menu is always more pleasant if properly aired.
Boiled dressing for salad keeps longer than the other kinds.
Stuffed eggs in nests of white lettuce make an attractive salad.
Do not forget that pea pods have in them good material for soup.
Ammonia is invaluable when cleaning paints that are greasy.
The water, if poured from rice, can be used for a soup foundation.
It is cheaper to buy a hind quarter of lamb than chops and roasts.
Spaghetti and tomatoes cooked together make a cheap and filling dish.
If the cake seems to boll over the pan there is too much baking powder used.
When the hands are rough, rub vinegar into the skin and they will soften.
If you wish to soften butter quickly, turn a thoroughly heated bowl over it.
Ammonia will relieve the burn from iodine which has been put on too thickly.
The rich spiced syrup left from pickled peaches may be used to baste a roast.
All left-over cereal should be used, either in griddle cakes, muffins or soup.
The one-egg cake will be delicious if a little sour cream is used with the mixture.
All meat and trimmings and grease drippings should be clarified and used.
Save the water in which vegetables or rice are cooked for a soup foundation.
Waxed paper drinking cups can be used in an emergency as little gelatin molds.
It is said that moth balls put in the runs made by moles will drive them away.
Oyster shells in the bottom of the tea-kettle will prevent a rusty crust from forming.

Mysterious Drowning at Quidi Vidi

WITNESSED BY VISITORS TO THE LAKE.

Under mysterious circumstances a young man named George Wm. Holland, aged 30 years, met death by drowning at Quidi Vidi Lake on Saturday night. The unfortunate man, who resided with his father at 55 Cabot Street, was seen to approach the south side of the lake just west of the C. L. B. boat house by three men, Messrs. Vavasour, Raynes and Earles, who were sitting down on the bank at the head of the Lake. Immediately on reaching the waters edge the stranger was seen to remove part of his clothing and made out in the water to his waist. He was next seen to return to the land, remove the balance of his clothes and rush out into the water and disappear. The three witnesses of the sad affair hurried to the scene, shouting in the meantime that a man was drowning at the place described. The shouts of the men were heard by Sergt. Mackay, who was rowing up the Lake in a small boat, and also by Mr. E. Brophy, watchman at the Government oil store. Reaching the scene the men proceeded to search for the body but owing to darkness having set in the search had to be discontinued till daylight yesterday morning. At daybreak the police were at the scene, assisted by a number of citizens, and at 6.30 Michael Sheehan, Angus Goodland and W. Mills succeeded in bringing the body to the surface. Previous to this an addressed letter found on the clothing of the drowned man was the means of locating his relatives, his father and sister, who identified the body at the morgue shortly after it was taken from the water.

The deceased left his home on Saturday afternoon, and not turning up at tea hour, his relatives thought possibly he might have gone to some friend's house, but later on wondered at his not returning home and were horrified to learn of his tragic death.

This is to certify that fourteen years ago I got the cords of my left wrist nearly severed, and was for about nine months that I had no use of my hand, and tried other liniments, also doctors, and was receiving no benefit. By a persuasion from a friend I got MINARD'S LINIMENT and used one bottle which completely cured me, and have been using MINARD'S LINIMENT in my family ever since and find it the same as when I first used it, and would never be without it.

GOOD GAME TO-NIGHT.

Last Thursday night's tied game between the B.I.S. and Cubs has only infused greater spirit into both their players and supporters, and the clash between them to-night promises to furnish thrills to the crowd. The Irishmen feel rather peeved over the result of the last game in view of their former prowess this season, whereas the Cubs are jubilant of the showing they made and are looking for a win to-night. The game will start promptly at 7 o'clock, weather permitting.

THE LINEUPS.

The players to-night will likely be as follows:

CUBS.	Pitcher	B. I. S.
Hall	Carew
Clouston	Brozie
1st base	French
2nd base	Brien
3rd base	Doyle
Short Stop	McGrath
Right Field	Williams
Centre Field	P. Grace
Left Field	C. Grace

IT'S A SMALL WORLD AFTER ALL.

A few days ago, Nord Northcliffe was the guest of Mayor Mitchell of New York at a baseball game between the New York Giants and the Boston Red Sox. At an informal dinner afterwards, according to the New York Journal, speaking of baseball he said:

"Baseball is a war game. It always was. The soldiers, both North and South, played baseball in your Civil War, and taught the whole country to like the game. It's the same way in this war. England is playing 'more baseball than ever before. They are playing the game in France and Belgium close up behind the trenches within the range of the German guns. Our soldiers like it and will have it. Baseball is a good wholesome game and just the thing for our brave soldier lads. I saw my 'first game of baseball in Newfoundland—a little neighboring British 'land—a little Atlantic seaboard—'the year previous to the war, when

"my heart went right out to the game; but since, I have witnessed many 'contests, not only in the stadiums of London and Paris, but away up 'on the fighting line where the applause of the enthusiasts was plentifully interspersed with the 'shrieking Berthas' and 'fery Fritz'."

It was in 1913, during the inter-town games at Grand Falls, that Northcliffe, as he says, witnessed his first game of ball when he saw Grand Falls defeat St. John's by 1 run. He was so enthused that he allocated a large sum to be spent for laying out and equipping a regular ball park in the paper town, with an additional yearly grant for its upkeep.

HAPPY MOMENTS OF A MANAGER.

When your best batter strikes out on a ball three feet off the plate, with two men down, bases full, one run needed and the call three and two. When with the bases full of hostilities and two down, a pop foul goes and the umpire tumbles in front of your catcher as he starts for the ball. When the star pitcher, after six hitless innings, passes all that do not soak him hard, and voices of said pitcher's pals, around the stand, are heard shouting: "The beer is working now."

When the signal is passed for a double steal; your man on second doesn't get it, your man on first intelligently does, and steals second on top of your other man amid shrieks of "Bonehead."

When you have your best batter laid up with eye trouble, your pitcher with a twisted ankle and strained back muscles, your third baseman with the front of hand pushed out to the back, and then your Club rosters want to know why you can't win ball games.

THE FLATHEAD.

We were never known as a hasty class. We are generally meek and mild. It is seldom or never we start a fuss. And it's rarely they get us riled. But we're on the trail of a certain guy. There's a simp we are out to trim. And when we have finished, his folks will buy
A kimono of wool for him.
We will smite him even as Samson smote.
We will leave him among the slain, Just show that flathead to us that wrote
"How beautiful is the rain!"
