

JEWETT

A Thrifty Six Built by Puget

An Economical Motor Car

SOME of the records made by Jewett drivers in the small amount of petrol and oil used are truly astounding.

However, it is not only economical on petrol and oil, but also on spares and repair charges, as it is infrequent that one needs to concern oneself in regard to repairs. The Jewett engineers have so constructed the Jewett motor car as to need little or no concern outside of the ordinary care that one gives a running machine. This is an advantage that the Jewett has over other cars in its class.

Jewett drivers are enthusiastic. They get years of service from the Jewett. This is what the firm of Jewett claims for their motor car and what 110,000 drivers know.

New Revelations at Pompeii

Astonishing discoveries continue to reward the labors of archaeologists at Pompeii, where, as we are told, "a city has been born again, bringing joy to the soul and culture to the intellect—a city that holds for us an unknown world." Little by little that unknown world is disclosing itself, sometimes in "intimate" detail. According to Mr. Guido Calza, the archaeologist, when recently excavating the remains of a house in the so-called "Street of Abundance," found "the dining-room is still intact, with couches around the center tables, on which are a fruit-bowl, a brazier, and other articles in place ready for use." Mr. Calza writes in Art and Archaeology:

"In another place, the whole atrium has been preserved with stairs leading to the upper rooms, and the wardrobe still in its place. The front door has been so faithfully cast in the ashes that we can see the long, heavy chain that unbared it, and the bell that summoned the janitor."

"And one is astonished, on crossing the threshold of such a house, to find so much fresco and stucco decoration in the ordinary home of a little provincial city, so much exquisite artistic feeling in composing and distributing graceful scenes and figures on the pavements, walls and ceilings."

"The decorative frieze in white stucco on a blue background, shown here, has been recomposed from a thousand scraps found in excavating, and is, indeed, worthy of remark as a conspicuous example of minor Roman art. It represents Priam, who has stepped down from his chariot, bringing gifts to Achilles in his tent and imploring him to restore the body of Hector, whom Achilles had killed in battle. There are mosaics, as well as stucco, in this House of Achilles, and also some fragments of beads with ivory feet."

As Mr. Calza remarks, "In truth, the smile of art lies upon these beautiful Pompeian ruins, and animates them." He describes a Pompeian garden:

"A jet of water spouts out from a marble mask beneath a little shrine with red and white stuccoed columns, filling a basin that has frescoes on the inside; and, above the basin, is a charming genre group in colors—a little Eros holding up a mask, and supplying other water-jets, that keep this fountain, painted with large figures and country scenes, cool and noisy. Yet this is not enough; for the imprint left in the ashes shows the design, even of the pergola over the fish-pond, and the casts have reproduced the forms and interlacings of these lattices, adorned by grapes and vines clambering over the yellow and blue marble groups, against the green of the fields and the white marble of the fountains. The whole garden of this lovely residence has stepped back to life just as it was two thousand years ago, with its alleys and rows of streets, with the palings of its pergolas, and with its rippling brooks and noisy little fountains."

Women Police

NEW YORK, May 2. — (Canadian Press)—For a few hours of a certain April day there was a new officer in charge of traffic at 42nd St. and Lexington Avenue. "A slim, bronzed figure in high boots, a dark blue coat reaching to the knees and a trim, gold-plated cap, on the chest was worn the Order of the British Empire." This was Commandant Mary S. Allen, head of the London Police-women. Speaking of the latter to a reporter, she said that the 20 London policewomen differ from those of American cities, in that they are always uniformed conspicuously. The sight of a woman police officer prevents many crimes, and prevention of crime, she says, rather than the capture of offenders, is the chief purpose of the women. They began their work during the war, when they watched over the young women and soldiers who flocked through the great railroad stations. Since then their work has grown to taking charge of women prisoners, collecting testimony from women, protecting girls who are strangers in the city, taking charge of lost children and runaway girls, inspecting places of amusement and patrolling parks. In addition, Commandant Allen visited the occupied area of Germany and established six British women there to assist the police.

THE KIDNAPER WORLD

When the fish begin to bite
And the stream begins to run,
And the clouds are fleecy white
In the glory of the sun,
Then another world than ours
Seems to beckon me away,
Where the birds and trees and flowers
Live and laugh and sing and pray.

This old world wherein we dwell
And go toiling through the years,
Has so much of pain to tell
With its oft repeated tears,
And so much of care and grief,
That another world was made
For the weary soul's relief.

Filled with sunshine and with shade,
There the people are the trees,
And the butterflies a-wing,
And the golden-crooked bees
And the birds that sweetly sing;
And some drowsy afternoon
One may hear out there alone,
If his soul is but in tune,
Language sweeter than his own.

They will have no shame to tell
As he lies out there and dreams,
They have nothing they would sell
And they'll talk no sordid schemes,
But the marvel of the deed
They will everywhere display:
Down the avenues of God
They will lead his soul away.

And it's I who soon shall pass
Out of city street and wall,
To lie full length upon the grass—
For I've heard the summer call,
And the soul of me shall stray,
While I fish with rod and line,
To be happy for a day
In a kinder world than mine.

An Unknown Ivory Mine

Why are ivory billiard balls so expensive? The answer is that the supply of ivory, a natural growth depending mainly upon the tusks of elephants, is exceedingly limited. Nevertheless, if some wanderer through the illimitable forests of Central Africa, probably in the vicinity of that inland sea of fresh water called Lake Victoria Nyanza, could stumble upon a certain "pit" and communicate his discovery to the world, the value of this commodity would drop to the merest fraction of its present worth.

Seeing that in Africa there are tens of thousands of wild elephants, one would imagine that travellers like Stanley and Cameron would have recorded coming upon the carcass of a dead beast. Yet they never did, nor has any other African explorer come upon an elephant which has died in its tracks from natural causes.

What becomes of all the elephants that die? It is said that somewhere in the million square miles that constitute the African continent is a mighty pit, with precipitous sides, which contains the bones, and therefore the tusks, of countless thousands of elephants.

How did they come there? It is said, further, that wherever an African elephant may be, when it feels the approach of death it leaves the herd and "treks" unerringly for the death-pit. It may travel days and even weeks, and when it arrives at the edge of the pit it leaps to its death. How much ivory lies there? Who will discover it?

Shareholders Pay Home Bank Claims

DOUBLE LIABILITY PAYMENTS OF ALMOST $200,000 RECEIVED
TO DATE.

TORONTO, May 2.—Something over $200,000 was received at the Home Bank to-day from those who must pay the double liability. This brings the amount paid on this account up to nearly $200,000, or about 90 per cent of the total to be paid. There are 1,686 shareholders and of these only about 235 have paid up, or partially paid.

The Depositors' Committee of the Home Bank has a meeting to-day and decided to go down in a body and besiege the House of Commons. They will be reinforced, it is understood, by many representatives of municipal and political organizations in their efforts to secure relief from the Government for the depositors of the bank.

Beavers as Builders

Few people realize the value of the beaver as an aid to irrigation. A plan has already been developed and put into operation in Colorado whereby beavers are taken from one section of the State where they are plentiful, and transported to other sections where their services are more essential, the animals being trapped in high wire nets placed on the banks.

In a recent survey in Colorado forty-six dams were located in a distance of about five and three-quarter miles. If these structures had been built of concrete by man, the total cost would have been about $2,000.

Landlord and Tenant Disputes

MONTREAL, May 12.—(Can. Press)

Two cases recently before the courts deal with the various aspects of landlord and tenant disputes. In the first, a person could take in washing without changing the destination of the premises. But in the present case he thought that the tenant had really become engaged in an industry, and as the sound of the not, or used, and the steam produced, had become of unusual inconvenience to the other tenants in the building, the lease was annulled. The tenant was ordered to leave the premises 48 hours.

The judge, dismissing the case, declared that the grievances alleged by the plaintiff concerning noise made by the children and sewing machine were not serious ones; and that though the plaintiff had only complained of the noise, he had previously encouraged it by it by giving work to the daughter, a modiste.

that it was necessary to avoid adopting too strict an interpretation of the rule forbidding a tenant to change the destination of the premises, as, in some cases, a person could take in washing without changing the destination of the premises. But in the present case he thought that the tenant had really become engaged in an industry, and as the sound of the not, or used, and the steam produced, had become of unusual inconvenience to the other tenants in the building, the lease was annulled. The tenant was ordered to leave the premises 48 hours.

In the second case before the courts, Alfred Walker claimed that the plaintiff concerning noise made by the children and sewing machine were not serious ones; and that though the plaintiff had only complained of the noise, he had previously encouraged it by it by giving work to the daughter, a modiste.
