COMMUNISTS CALL STRIKE.

TOKIO, May 5. According to advices received from Seoul, a devastating forest fire started near Kaakio, Hokudo Province, to-day, sweeping through numerous villages and leaving thousands of persons homeless.

OFFENSIVE AGAINST RUM RUNNERS.
NEW YORK, May 5. Twenty-one boats of the United States coastguard steamed out of Gibraltar Bay, Staten Island base, this morning, bound for rum row, to open an offensive which will seek to sweep the liquor armada off the Atlantic seaboard by June. They included some of the dry navy's speediest cutters, and behind them were similar vessels, converted submarine chasers with patrol boats, all liberally sprinkled with guns and most of them capable of high speed. Secrecy marked the departure. It was not known what steps were to be taken in the event of extermination, but it was understood that one of the plans would be to post one or more boats of the coastguard fleet towards every ship in rum row every hour, thus making it impossible for the shore boats to take on cargoes or bring out provisions and water.

DRUG HABIT SPREADING.
TORONTO, May 5. Addressing the annual conference of the Ontario Medical Health Officers' Association to-day, Dr. J. A. Mayot, Minister of the Federal Dept. of Health, said the drug habit is spreading alarmingly in Canada. Cardin, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, requesting that the season for shad be open on May 9, and not on May 18, as it stands at present. The reason is that shad are now making their appearance in the harbor and fishermen are desirous of losing no time in their catches.

KEEPING IT DARK.
MONTREAL, May 5. The Gazette to-day says "Montreal's red light district is to be wiped out. Pierre Belanger, Chief of Police, had received orders to close and keep closed the vice area. Publicity attending the smashing of the district is one thing official Montreal wishes to avoid. The executive committee and Chief of Police himself even, flatly deny that special instructions to seal up disorderly houses have been issued, but positive information as to the true state of affairs was available last night from an unimpeachable source."

PRINCE INVOLVED IN COMMUNIST OUTRAGE.
BELGRADE, May 5. The discovery that Communists were taking advantage of the condition of Prince George, brother of King Alexander, to use him as a tool in their campaign against the King and the Jugo Slavian Government, now it is declared to have led to his internment the decree for which was signed late last week.

SLAYER STILL AT LARGE.
OTTAWA, May 5. Charles Umett, alleged slayer of Charles Edward Underwood, during a fight in a local rooming house last Thursday night, was still being hunted by the police in Gatineau Hills this morning. ### Can You Make Meringues?

Meringues are not difficult to make, but they require care in the baking. The cases can be kept for some time in a tin with a well-fitting lid. Ingredients—5 whites of eggs, 6oz. of caster sugar.

Method—First prepare a board on which to cook the meringues by oiling it with salad oil. Do not put on too much oil or it will give an unpleasant flavor to the meringues. If a new board be used, bake it in a cool oven for two hours before using it.

Beat the whites of the eggs very stiffly until they are perfectly solid, then stir the sugar gently to them. Dip a dessertspoon into a basin of cold water and take up a spoonful of the meringue in it. Smooth it over with a knife dipped in the cold water, shaping it with the knife. Dip another dessertspoon in the water and scoop out the meringue from the first spoon and place it on the prepared board. Continue this until the egg mixture is used up, wetting the spoon and knife again for each meringue. Sift caster sugar over each and place them in a cool oven. As soon as the meringues begin to colour slightly leave the oven door open a little and continue to dry the meringues for two hours, then lift them very carefully from the board and scoop out some of the sugar from the inside. Scrape the board quite clean, and place the meringue upside down on it and leave them in the oven for another hour to crisp. Put them on a sieve to cool and cool and then store them in a tin.

The oven must be just hot enough when the meringues are put in to set them or they will spread and lose their shape, but it does not matter how slowly they are finished.

To Use—Fill the meringues with whipped cream sweetened and flavoured to taste with vanilla, coffee, or chocolate, put two together, and serve.

Chatterbox, the Red Squirrel, looked out of his warm nest in the Tall Pine Tree. All through the winter he and Mrs. Chatterbox had been very comfortable in their little home lined with shredded bark, moss and dried leaves.

"Dear, dear me," sighed Chatterbox, "I certainly have had a narrow escape from Mr. Marten. He almost caught me by the tail. If he had stripped off my hairy plume I would have had a hard time jumping from one branch to another."

"I guess you would," cawed Professor Jim Crow from his Pine Cone Bungalow above. "I once heard of a Red Squirrel who lost part of his tail and never could leap safely afterwards. A red squirrel's tail is like a parachute, breaking the force of a hard fall."

"I hope Mr. Marten never sees me again," sighed poor Chatterbox. "My, how I fear him. Any animal who is so unsocial with his own kind and keeps away from men, is to be dreaded. Whenever I catch a glimpse of a chocolate-brown fur coat and a blotch of yellow on the breast, I know it is Mr. Marten."

Just then Mrs. Chatterbox looked out of the doorway of their house. Her mouth, her ears closed on the skin of her little squirrel's stomach, and her legs and tail curled close around her neck, she held her frightened baby.

"Mr. Marten doesn't know where your home is," cawed the old Professor Crow. "You need not worry. Take your baby back into the nest."

"Yes, don't worry," added Chatterbox. "I'll look about for food. Maybe I can find a nest of eggs."

"Hold on!" cawed Professor Jim Crow. "Let eggs alone. You have a bad reputation already. Go over to the orchard for some left-over dried apples. You ought to be able to come across some mushrooms. In the cornfield you may find a forgotten corn-cob. But let the eggs and little bird alone."

Jack Rabbit, his knapsack bouncing up and down on his back and his red-striped candy cane swinging from his left paw.

"Here, there, young bunny," cawed Professor Jim Crow from the treetop, "let me read you a thing or two from my Wisdom Book, caw-caw, kerchoo!" And wiping his beak with a red silk handkerchief, the wise old bird turned to page 23 and began:

"Chatterbox, the red squirrel, is a scolding, chattering little fellow. He is so light that he can run out on slender twigs and thus escape Mr. Marten, who being as large as a cat, dare not follow him. Red squirrels have no pouches in their cheeks, but carry nuts in their mouths. There, bunny boy, you have learned a thing or two," and into the next story the old crow flew.
