They will nd that the old rate was in force till the we one was passed, and no new rate was ought down till Thursday night. It is that to the trade, especially to those to pay excise duty, to make the increase receive. And in those cases where the may was tendered between the 6th and the extended became more thickly populated.

The estimated income from the whole Rosedale section at the present time would be about $5500 at 16 mills on the dollar, of which $6400 would be south of the north. not fair to the trade, especially to those who pay excise duty, to make the increase sedent and fair play to allow e goods to clear on the old figures.

The letter of Mr. Edgar J. Jarvis to the ommittee of the council ap-usider the admission of East dale into the city shows what wonder ress has been made in that suburb few years that have elapsed since Mr. Jarvis put up the first house over the ravine. The increased value of that porsedale already within the city limits is over a quarter of a million dollarsody must have reaped a nice penny orease, and it does not appear to some of the large holders that we not assumed a fair share of the operty of the place is based. To bring in her large portion of Rosedale would be amediate benefit to the city, as the mount of taxable property is considerably increased while the improvements needed over there are few and inexpensive.

exercing employment than actual fighting would have been. Let us honor them all alike, paying tribute in the same way to those who were just as willing to sacrifice their lives for their country as those who did. Canada has reason to be proud of her citizen soldiery, not only in sections, but as a grand united whole.

Considering that some of us still attach faith to dark omens in connection with the pilling of salt at table, the howling of a deg at night in the vicinity of a room where a sick person is lying, the sitting down of a convivial party numbering thirteen, the crossing of a knife and fork, and se forth, it is scarcely surprising that in India there should be a similar tendency so cling to ancient beliefs. Unfortunately. however, in the east, where superstition is more or less connected with cruelty and the sacrifice of human life, such credulity is apt to lead to disagreeable misadventures. A recent incident illus trates this rather more vividly than pleasantly. The notion that governing powers still propitiate the gods, on the indertaking of any great enterprise, by the slaying of a number of human beings, appears to prevail with as much force as ever in the neighborhood of the Ganges. The boatmen there, in the full belief that the authorities required a hundred thousand heads as the foundation of a great bridge, mistook an innocent hunting party of feur Europeans for the dread officers in search of victims, and fell upon them with fierce cries of "gulla katta," or "cut throats," The hunters escaped with the greatest difficulty from

RE EXTENSION CITY LIMITS. RE EXTENSION CITY LIMITS.

SIR: In accordance with the resolution passed Friday, 3.1 July, inst., I beg leave to report as follows: The property proposed to be annexed embraces about 450 acres, 40 acres of which lie between Yonge street and the Rayine, and 410 in what is usually termed East Rosedale. Of the said 410 acres, about 275 may be termed level land, available for building purposes and the remainder, say 135 acres, being his sides, valleys, etc., much of which would be used as the ornamental portions of grounds are the uplands, as demonstrated in the residences already built, so that there would only be about 75 acres in the Don valley that would not be used with the building sites. The values as given in detail would aggregate about $600,000, and that portion appertaining to Rossodale about $530,000. These values are given at very much less than the selling prices, so that the sum would hold out in actual assessment. Four hundred thousand dollars of the said sum lies to the south of the north iron bridge, and $130,000 to the north of the same. Both sections are laid out into streets with the exception of the north of the same. Both sections are laid out into streets with the exception of the

As will be seen, this leaves over $4000 for sidewalks and management.

Sewers and roads would be made under Sewers and roads would be made under local improvement plan. When it is considered that this neighborhood has been brought out of a wilderness in a few years—against great prejudices, which are now overcome—with no municipal assistance except the statute labor amounting to about $175 per annum, how much greater then may it be expected to improve if the city allowed a considerable portion of the taxes to be expended in the neighborhood?

I beg leave to state that while the committee appear to consider the whole pro-tate of the money market.

The Chicago papers note that the Manitoba business is escaping from the control of the St. Paul and Northwestern roads I beg leave to state that while the committee appear to consider the whole property as mentioned in the petition, too extensive from present appearances, another year or two will make a wonderful change in that respect, and development of the northerly portion would be retarded by not being included. With regard to the bridges, the cost of the south iron bridge with approaches is estimated at $20,000 and the northerly one at $30,000. The former bridge has been paid for by myself to the extent of about two thirds, and one-half the cost of the latter has been charged against lands in which I have an interest. The great increase in values has been brought about by the construction of the bridges and erection of the handsome residences that adorn the neighborhood, many of which have been constructed by of the St. Paul and Northwestern roads and getting east by the Canadian Pacific and the lakes. The Wisconsin Central is also making itself felt in the Minneapolis flour traffic through its Green Bay route, connecting with lake navigation and securing a great deal of the coal traffic. The effect of all this is seen in the decrease of tonnage on the former roads in May and June. nany of which have been constructed by British America, sellers 72; Western Assurance, sellers 85½; Consumers Gas 158½, 156; Dominion Tel. 86½, 84½; North-
