The Government Railway bill, just recently printed, is one indication that we are recovering from a delusion which was imposed on us years ago by an oysermatering weights of English opinion, but which is gradually being dispitated by the stern, practical teaching of experience. Mr. Dalton McCarthy's continued afforts are likely to lead to something at last; and now we are to have an improved Railway. Commission, which will surely be a considerable of the committee of Railways, the Minister of Railways, the Minister of Justice, and one or more of the other railway companies will likel bound to respect. And the powers of the commission are greatly extended over former experience in Canada. We have not reached complete Government control, yet, but the present bill is one important step towards it. Meantime it may encourage us to persever in the same direction to observe that our American neighbors, so far from "going back" on the respect to the respect. And the powers of the complete Government control, are evidently included the same direction to observe that our American neighbors, so far from "going back" on the respect to the family, pushed his way forward, and office have been reached over former can neighbors, so far from "going back" on their railway legislation of last year establishing Government control, are evidently determined to push the thing furthers, and to strongthen what was lacking in their first conspicuous attempt. Depend upon it that the respect of the same of the family, bushed is sweying rise of the family, pushed its working towards more of just this sort of thing, and not towards less of it, as imagined by those amongst its wide for the present bill is one important step bounds it. Meantime it may encurage us to persever in the same direction to observe that our American neighbors, so far from "going back" on their railway legislation of last year establishing Government control, are evidently determined to push of it, as imagined by those amongst us whose craze it is to look at what existed fifty years ago instead of looking at what exists to-day. reformers, who seek to be "up to the times," may congratulate themselves on the fact that we are now rapidly being emancipated from a certain old tyranny of opinion, and are becoming able to act on the freedom

The Burdened Britan. What Free Trade according to Cobden really means may be inferred from some of the features of Mr. Goschen's budget speech, in which he distinguishes local rates from general taxation discusses such queer imposts as taxes on street vehicles; increases the rate on race and pleasure horses, horse dealers and choice wines. New corporations are taxed at the rate of $5 on $5000, and brokers' contracts Britain, with all her boasted Free Trade, bristles with just such extraordinary exactions. Moreover, there are also customs' duties levied upon a considerable number of articles, including tea and coffee, which in Canada are free. In fact the so-called free brading Briton meets a tax gatherer in every walk of life, and those Canadian politicians who r present him as practically unburdened, ere guilty of a base false pretence.

A Drive at the Guilty Parties. The Canadian Gaxette, published in London, has had the courage to put his finger right can the sore spot, and to say who the parties really are who are chiefly to blame for the ending out of undesirable emigrants to Canada. Mesers G. H. Orr, F. Foster, A. Rennie and F. Murphy were resplendent in a new dress uniform, consisting of the regulation coat, with low cut grey vest and full length trousers. Charley Miller not much larger, but as genial as ever, came down from Newcastle to meet his old club members and enjoyed the fun, though he was inclined to be envious of the boys who were the new dress.

The toast list was short. It included "Our Brother Wheelmen, who were ably represented by C. Robinson and Mr. Mackin of the T. E. C. George Toy and E. Mouphy responded for the "Retired Officers." Champion Fred Foster. D. Nasmith, Bert. Brown, George Toy and Jack McBrine were modest in replying for "Our Fast Men." Captain R. Ponniscon and A. Duffott represented the "Safety Division." G. H. Amateur Champion Ford Reinstated.
The Executive Committee of the National Association of Amateur Athletes of Americal met at New York on Wednesday evening and reinstated Malcolm W. Ford of the New York Athletic Club. Who was disquallified by the association about a year ago for competing at Springfield under an assumed name. The committee said it had not altered its views on the justice of the original decision, but that it view of the fact that Ford since his disqualification had not competed as a professional and did not so intend to compete even if not reinstated, and thinking that he had been sufficiently purished, as the one act for which he was disqualified was his only transgression of amateur law, it decided to reinstate him.
