THE EDUCATIONAL WEEKLY, THE UNION OF SEVEN LEADING EDUCATIONAL MONTHLIES IN THE WESTERN STATES. THE REPRESENTATIVE EDUCATIONAL PAPER OF AMERICA.

THE EDUCATIONAL WEEKLY was established in December, 1876, by the consolidation of seven of the old monthly journals, representing six different states, in order to meet a felt want on the part of Western teachers. The profession has made such progress within the last few years that there is now an urgent demand for a wide-awake professional journal which shall be issued at least as often as once a week. The prevalence of this conviction among Western educators, and the great need felt among the leaders of a vigorous independent and ably conducted journal, led the editors and publishers of the various monthlies to unite their labors, and "The Educational Weekly" was the result.

The following opinions are given as indicative of the estimate placed upon the "Weekly" by those best qualified to judge of its character: It is the very best publication of the kind in the country. — Worthington Journal, Minnesota.

It is readable, and bright and strong in all departments. — American Journal of Education.

I cannot do without it. — Supt. W. T. Harris, St. Louis.

The "Educational Weekly" is a most excellent school journal, and is in all respects, worthy of liberal support — Hon. L. L. Rowland, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Oregon.

I congratulate teachers at the West upon having such an excellent journal to represent their noble cause. — Supt. N. A. Calkins, New York.

I believe that the good that your paper will do will be limited only by its circulation. It ought to be in the hands of every teacher in Ohio. — Supt. R. W. Stevenson, Columbus, Ohio.

by those best qualified to judge of its character:

In our opinion the "Weekly" is the ablest educational journal in this country. — Santa Anna Valley News, California.

In ability of editorial management, in judicious variety of contents, and in typographical appearance, it eclipses any contemporary production East or West. The "Weekly" will be a welcome visitor at the homes of friends of education everywhere. — Daily Press, Worcester, Mass.

I have read the "Educational Weekly" from the beginning. You have made thus far, in my judgment, the noblest and most valuable educational weekly on the continent. — J. M. Olcott, Indianapolis, Indiana.

The best educational paper in the country. — N. W. Ayer & Son, Advertising Agents, Philadelphia.

It rings like a trumpet. I wish it could reach every ear in the land. — Hon. John G. McMillan, Racine, Wisconsin.
