THE DAY OF REST.

"Let us bear in mind," says the "Watchman" (Bapt.), of Boston "that we do not promote true Sabbath-keeping by making the day hard, gloomy, and repulsive, whether in the home or in the church. Some one has yet to discover the resources of joy lodged in the Christian faith. Too often when we seek to give Christianity a joyful aspect, we are simply treating it lightly and frivolously. The serene and exultant joy of heart that fills the home and church with buoyant gladness will make the Sabbath a beloved day, anticipated through the week, and prized when it comes. You cannot secure real Sabbath-keeping by any prohibitions; you must make the day winsome and delightful, and you can only do that by cultivating a type of Christianity that meets the needs of the human heart so that it finds its rest and joy in the faith of Christ."

A GOOD SPIRIT IN OWNING REAL ESTATE.

A property owner here lately bought a lot on which there was a very poor building. This building he transformed by judicious expenditure and thus more than doubled the rents. "Now," he said in speaking of the matter, "I have done all that I can do with that property; therefore I want to sell it and build a new building, or transform an old one. I want to make my mark on whatever I touch, by improving it." This is a display of the true spirit of improvement.

on the river. Very easy terms. (110-A).
