Scientific and Useful.

COMMON soft soap well rubbed on mildew stains and exposed to the sun will take them out entirely.

SOARSUDS, a valuable fertilizer for all forms of vegetation, is especially servicable for small fruits.

If the brass top of a coal oil lamp has come off it may be repaired with plaster-of-Paris, wet with a little water, and will be as strong as ever.

If stove polish is mixed with very strong soap suds, the lustre appears immediately, and the dust of the polish does not fly around as it usually does.

If you cut the back legs of your chair two inches shorter than the front ones the fatigue of sitting will be greatly relieved, and the pine placed in a better position.

A CARPET, especially a dark one, often looks dusty, when it does not need sweeping; wet a sponge in water (a few drops of ammonia helps to brighten the colour), wring it dry, and wipe off the dust.

FOR FELON.—Take equal parts of gum camphor, gum opium, castile soap, and brown sugar; wet to a paste with spirits of turpentine. Prepare it, and apply a thick plaster of it.

THERE is no use in cleaning your poultry houses unless you burn the old nests. They will harbour more of the various kinds of poultry parasites than you can ever exterminate with a whitewash brush.

RELIEF FOR A COUGH.—An exchange says that a small piece of rosin put into the water in a vessel on the stove will add a peculiar property to the atmosphere of the room, which will give great relief to persons troubled with a cough.

— Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a most valuable medicine for ladies of all ages who may be afflicted with any form of disease peculiar to the sex. Her Remedies are not only put up in liquid form but in Pills and Lozenges in which form they are securely sent through the mails.

SPOILING COFFEE.—The fragrant aroma of coffee coming from the breakfast room may be very delightful, but it tells that the coffee is being spoiled by too much boiling in an unclosed vessel. Coffee is best just to "come to a boil," then served promptly.

CHOCOLATE PUDDING.—One quart of milk, four tablespoonfuls of cornstarch dissolved in one cup of milk, to which add two tablespoonfuls of grated chocolate. Boil the remainder of the milk with two-thirds of a cup of sugar, add the cornstarch and chocolate, boil three minutes, add one teaspoonful of salt. To be eaten cold with sugar and cream flavoured with vanilla.

A CORRESPONDENT sends the following to an exchange.—Ladies, I have something to tell you that if you dislike picking a chicken as much as I do you will be delighted to hear. A lady told me that a frying chicken is just as good if skinned as it is picked. I tried it and was delighted. As soon as the chicken is killed skin it, beginning at the craw. After it is floured over and fried you cannot tell the difference.

VOLUMES OF BOMBAST have been published about the multifarious and irreconcilable effects of many proprietary medicines. The proprietors of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery content themselves with facts susceptible of proof. They state their Panacea to be what it has proved itself to be, an eradicator of Dyspepsia, Constipation, Liver and Kidney troubles, and a fine general alterative.

BURNS and scalds are soonest relieved by an application of cold water. Dry carbonate of soda, or baking soda, sprinkled over the burned spot, is the latest remedy, and it is said to be very effectual. These means are only temporary. In severe cases a physician should be sent for.

IT IS NATURAL.—It is natural for some people to be bilious, being often a result of peculiar bilious temperament, which with high living, too greasy food, indigestion from inactive liver, is the frequent cause. The remedy, above all others, is Burdock Blood Bitters. It is highly curative for all bilious complaints, and far better than physic for inactive conditions of the bowels.

A lady from Syracuse writes: "For about seven years before taking Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, I suffered from a complaint very prevalent with our sex. I was unable to walk any distance or stand on my feet for more than a few minutes at a time without feeling exhausted, but now, I am thankful to say, I can walk two miles without feeling the least inconvenience." For Female Complaints it has no equal.

A TRAGIC EVENT.

A Father's Despair and Self-Inflicted Death. His Son's Final Rescue, Too Late to Save His Parent.

The graphic occurrence that is described below is one of the most remarkable episodes in the domestic history of America. It is absolute truth which can readily be verified.

The inhabitants of the pleasant town of Corland, N.Y., were shocked one morning by the announcement that Mr. Clinton Rindge, one of their most prominent citizens, had committed suicide. The news spread rapidly and aroused the entire neighborhood where Mr. Rindge was so well and favorably known. At first it seemed impossible that any one so quiet and domestic could do so rash a deed, and the enquiry was held on every side as to the cause. The facts as developed on investigation proved to be as follows:

Mr. Rindge was domestic in his tastes and took the greatest enjoyment in the society of his children and wife. He had indeed the had good reason to be proud for they gave promise of long lives of success and usefulness. But an evil day came. His youngest son, William, began to show signs of an early decay. He felt unusually tired each day, and would sometimes sleep the entire afternoon if permitted to do so. His head pained him, not acutely, but with a dull, heavy feeling. There was a sinking sensation at the pit of his stomach. He lost all relish for food and much of his interest for things about him. He tried manfully to overcome these feelings, but they seemed stronger than his will. He began to lose flesh rapidly. The father became alarmed and consulted physicians as to the cause of his son's illness, but they were unable to explain. Finally severe sores broke out on his arms and he was taken to Buffalo where a painful operation was performed, resulting in the loss of much blood, but affording little relief. The young man returned home and a council of physicians was called. After an exhaustive examination they declared there was no hope of final recovery and that he must die within a very few days. To describe the agony which this announcement caused the father would be impossible. His mind failed to grasp its full meaning at first, then finally seemed to comprehend it, but the load was too great. In an agony of frenzy he seized a knife and took his own life, preferring death rather than to survive his idolized son. At that time William Rindge was too weak to know what was transpiring. His face had turned black; his breath ceased entirely at times, and his friends waited for his death believing that the fatal Bright's disease of the kidneys, from which he was suffering, could not be removed. In this extreme moment William's sister came forward and declared she would make a final attempt to save her brother. The doctors interposed, assuming her life was useless and that she would only hasten the end by the means she proposed to employ. But the doctor, and putting all back, approached her brother's side and administered a remedy which she fortunately had on hand. Within an hour he seemed more at ease and before the day was over he showed signs of decided improvement. These favorable signs continued, and to-day William R. Rindge is well, having been virtually raised from the dead through the marvelous power of Warner's Safe Cure, as can be readily verified by any citizen of Corland.

Any one who reflects upon the facts above described must have a feeling of sadness. The father dead by his own hand, supposing his son's recovery to be impossible; the son restored to health to mourn the loss of his father; and the agonized relatives with a memory of sad days to forever darken their lives. Had Clinton Rindge known that his son could recover he would to-day be alive and happy; but the facts which turned his brain and caused him to commit suicide were such as any one would accept as true.

However sad this case may be, the truth remains that thousands of people are at this moment in as great actual peril as William Rindge was in as great danger of causing misery, if not death, to their friends. Liver and Kidney diseases are becoming the most common and most dangerous of any or all modern complaints. They are the most deceptive in their beginnings and horrible in their final stages. They are far more deceptive than Consumption, and can rarely be detected even by skillful physicians, unless a microscopic analysis be resorted to, and few doctors understand how to do this. Their slightest approach, or possibility of approach should strike terror to the one who is threatened as well as to all his or her friends. These diseases have no distinct symptoms, but come in the form of lassitude, loss of appetite, aching muscles and joints, dull headache, pains in the back, stomach and chest, sour stomach, recurring signs of cold, irregular pulsations of the heart, and frequent dizziness. If neglected, these symptoms are certain to run into chronic kidney and liver or Bright's disease, from which there is sure to be a great amount of agony, and only one means of escape, which is by the use of Warner's Safe Cure. The importance of taking this great remedy upon the slightest appearance of any of the above symptoms cannot be too strongly impressed upon the minds of all readers who desire to escape death and pain and prolong life with all its pleasures and blessings.
