MacRae, the Convener of the Home Mission MacRae, the Convener of the Home Mission Committee, reported that all the congregations and mission fields for the Presbytery were now fully supplied and efficiently worked. Mr. Winchester gave an interesting report of the Chinese Mission, and also of the Indian Mission at Alberni, which he recently visited. A deputation was appointed to visit Central Church, Victoria, and report to the adjourned meeting on the 16th inst. A committee was appointed to consider and report on the remits from the General Assembly. General Assembly.

VALUABLE POINTERS ON LIFE IN SURANCE.

Benjamin Franklin was not only a plul osopher, but he was, in a sense, a financier, although he never joined the millionaire coterie. Benjamin always talked horse sense, though He said: "It is a strange anomaly that men should be careful to insure their houses, furniture, ships and merchandise, and yet neglect to maure their lives, surely the most important of all to their families, and far more subject to loss."

"Whinsical women often oppose the insurance of their husband's lives just for a freak, or from paque, or to be odd. When the husband dies unnsured they do feel rather odd, surely. It would have been better for them to feel even. Now, wouldn't it?"

"Create a competence for your old age, if you can afford an endowment. But do not neglect a straight life for your family under any erroumstances It will be sinful for you to do so "

"You should guage your life insurance in party earnings. Life accordance with your yearly earnings. Life insurance proffers protection to the maximum meane, the minimum meome, and the moderate one as well. Let not the wealthy man despise the insurance day of small things, nor the poor one think the prize of life insurance beyond his reach."
"Praise is due, of course, to the man who keeps his life insured, even for a normal sum. 'Half a loaf is better than none.' But the man who deserves the fullest praise is he who keeps his life insured completely and fully."

It is a mighty good idea to get your life insured, but we can tell you a better one: Keep it insured. Don't miss paying a premium on your life.

The policy which is suitable to a man of limited income, to one of moderate means and to another of affluent circumstances, is the Compound Investment of the North American Life Assurance Company.

Rev. D. C. Hossack, LL.B.: It is painfully evident that too many different schemes are esorted to for the purpose of keeping up pomp and display in many of our large churches. There are church concerts, lectures, bazzars and dozens of other ideas to secure money. Novel and fantastic methods adopted in every direction, until one's brain fairly reels with the contemplation. Truly, when we reflect upon the existing state of affairs it is indeed alarming. In all seriousness, we inquire, "Is it right? Is it Christian?"
