

spacious halls of Pine Hill, so beautiful for situation, the joy of the Presbyterian church, were not over-crowded. The guests were received in the library by President Pollock, D. D., Professor Currie, D. D., and Professor Gordon, D. D. Then they spread over the building, a joyous and brilliant company of ladies and gentlemen, admiring first the pretty decorations which had been made. Bunting was greatly in evidence, the library decorations in this respect being particularly effective. Masses of tropical plants and evergreen foliage completed a very pretty picture. The company spent the hours from 9.30 to 11.30 mainly in exhilaration of bright conversation and agreeable acquaintance-making. Samuel Crawford, whose voice is ever welcome, sang that song which he has made such a favorite, "Hae ye mind o' lang, lang syne," and was warmly applauded. Principal Pollock made a brief speech in the doctor's usually witty style; Premier Fielding gave a short address; Miss Eva Waddel recited. This was the extent of the fixed program, for in "the flow of wit and feast of reason" which prevailed, there was not room for more. The students and professors are to be congratulated on the success of the conversazione which comes before the close of the scholastic season of 1895-6."

THE book agent strongly recommends students to order all the books they require during the earlier part of the session before Sept. 10th. As the first shipment will be by far the largest, books ordered in it will be considerably cheaper. His address is: G. A. SUTHERLAND, Dooktown, Northumberland Co., N. B.
